DEATH SENTENCE

That is What the Lynn Bandit Expects to Get

LYNN, Mass., June 28.—Harboring the belief that he will shortly be executed for his part in the killing of the shoe manufacturer, Thomas A. Lardregan and Policeman James L. Carroll, Saturday, Washli Iwanowski, the captured bandit, today wrote a letter to his near relatives in Russia. He asked his mother not to mourn for him and wrote that the letter would be the last time she would ever hear from him.

The following is his letter, in part: "Dear Mother and Brothers and Sisters: I send you my last regard and beg you not to cry for me and lose your strength, as you have not more than you need. I write now that I have been arrested and in quick time will be sentenced to death, but for what cause I will not write you. So I bid farewell to you. Please forgive me for not obeying you, but now it is too late."

The condition of Andy Abson, one of the bandit trio who is now lying in the Lynn hospital suffering from half a dozen bullet wounds, was reported to be about the same today as yesterday. It is believed that he will survive but the attending physicians have not given out any statement to this effect.

EXPRESS DELIVERY

Big Protest to be Made at Board of Trade This Evening

Manchester & Concord Co. the Only One to Deliver to City Limits—American Express Limit Bars Out 1600 Families

The board of trade's big mass meeting relative to the present express delivery conditions will be held this evening in the board of trade rooms and, judging from the number of letters that Secretary Murphy has received commenting upon the matter, a vigorous protest will be made while a large attendance is assured despite the warm weather.

It has been estimated that under the limit established by the American Express company 1600 families, or more than half the population of Lowell, are barred from free delivery.

Regarding the limit placed by the express companies there is one notable exception which has not received due credit and that is the Manchester & Concord company, of which John M. Mahany is local manager.

When seen by a reporter of The Sun today Mr. Mahany was averse to being quoted, on the ground that he might be accused of trying to turn an interview into an advertisement for his own company, but as he is to appear at the meeting tonight and then explain how his company stands in the matter, he was prevailed upon to give his views, and he said:

"About the only place to which we haven't delivered goods in our teams is to Warrenville, and then we have had someone else deliver them. My orders to the drivers are, 'If the address is in Lowell, deliver the goods, don't bring them back to the office. We deliver to the city limits and sometimes beyond. I don't think the public has any fault to find with the service of the Manchester & Concord.'"

A man familiar with the express business in Lowell said to the writer: "I hope someone at that meeting tonight will ask the Am. Express people what their limit is in Boston. He will find that they deliver to any part of Boston, but in the comparatively small city of Lowell they place a limit that bars out 1600 families."

The good that may come from such deprivations as above is doubtful—still it might be worse. We might have attempted to illustrate, showing by dotted line the parabola described by the boy. We might have shown where the parts, if any, landed, by the usual cross. Still again, and as is this mild summer, nevertheless it has its lesson. The woman who persists in cooking over a coal fire these days of white heat is just as reckless and will as sure blow up sooner or later. A "Safe Fourth" is all right in its way, but it's only one day. What about a safe kitchen and a sane cooling outfit every day in the year? That's what. A coal fire in the kitchen on July 4th? NO TRUTH TO REPORT

That Ten School Teachers Would be Dropped

Somebody, evidently with an unworthy motive, started the report that at the meeting of the school committee to be held this evening ten teachers were to be dropped. The report had it that those to be dropped had outlived their usefulness and, because of age, were incapacitated for further service.

Supt. Whitcomb was asked if he had heard anything about the dropping of the teachers. He said that he had heard the report. "I do not care to talk for the committee," said Mr. Whitcomb, "and if there are any teachers to be dropped I have not heard it from the school committee. I do not believe a word of it and I consider the report a cruel and a vicious one. I cannot speak authoritatively, however, and I would advise you to communicate with Dr. Lamoureux, president of the committee."

The reporter communicated with Dr. Lamoureux and asked him if there was any truth in the report that a number of teachers were to be dropped by the school committee at its meeting tonight.

"If there is anything of that kind in the air the president has not heard of it, and I presume if there was anything doing they would let me in," said the doctor. "No, indeed, there is absolutely no truth to that report. To start such a report was a cowardly act and no doubt it has caused a great deal of worry and annoyance to certain ones. I presume it was intended for that purpose."

"The committee does not contemplate the dropping or discharging of any of the teachers. The most important business before the board tonight will be the election of new teachers to take the place of the teachers who have resigned. You know we have had quite a number of resignations. The committee's work tonight will be to elect teachers, not to discharge them."

LODGER IS HELD

Larceny is the Charge That Was Made Against Him

Cornelius Reardon, who was arrested by the Lawrence police yesterday on a warrant issued by the local police and who was subsequently brought to this city by Inspector Martin A. Maher, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of silver valued at $32, the property of Kate Hornblower, who conducts a lodging house at 69 Tyler street. Reardon entered a plea of not guilty and his request the case was continued till Thursday morning, being held under $300 bonds.

It is alleged that Reardon was a lodger at Mrs. Hornblower's house and left without notifying her on May 29. At the same time she alleges that she discovered that some of her valuable silver was missing, including a teapot, creamer, cup and knives, forks and spoons. She immediately notified the police and according to the information which the local police received from her they suspected Reardon, but were unable to locate him until yesterday morning when it was learned that he was working in Lawrence. A warrant was issued for his arrest and forwarded to the Lawrence police and yesterday morning two of the downtown inspectors took him into custody.

Stubbhorn Child Surrendered

Matthew Ryan, a young man who stands over six feet in his stocking feet, and who recently appeared in police court and was placed on probation on condition that he would go to work, was yesterday surrendered by Probation Officer Slattery on complaint of the young man's mother and this morning Ryan was in court again. He put up a pitiful appeal for another chance, claiming that he had work to go to and that he would not have been surrendered but for the fact that his mother and sisters wanted to send him away, but the story of the mother and sisters differed very much from that told by the boy and Ryan was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory. He appealed and was held under $200 for his appearance before the grand jury.

Assault and Battery

George Boisvert, who was in court last week charged with assault and battery on Georgianna Lafontaine, was this morning adjudged guilty and a fine of $1 imposed. All of the testimony in the case was concluded at the hearing given last week but Judge Hadley had it continued until today in order to make an investigation owing to the fact that he did not seem to be satisfied with the testimony presented at that time. When the case was called this morning no further testimony was offered and the small fine was imposed.

Drunk Offenders

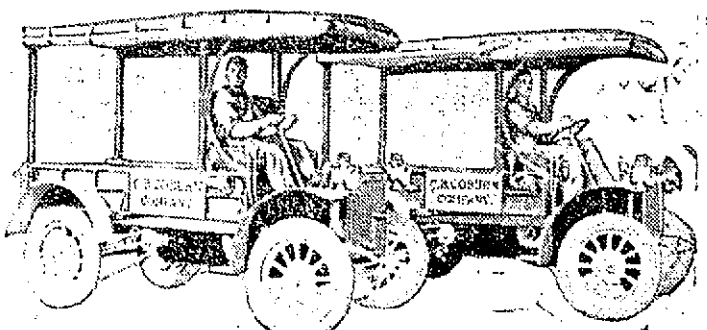

Catherine Barnes, charged with being drunk, was committed to the jail for four months.

Martha Berube, a very nervous woman, entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint of drunkenness. She was sent to jail for 20 days.

Patrick Drummond was placed on probation on condition that he would go back to the city farm. John F. Donovan was sent to the state farm at Bridgewater and Walter Purgin was fined $5.

THE PUBLIC HALL

For the Washington Tavern Site
—Recommends to City Council
That Price be Reduced or a
Different Site Selected

At a meeting of the special committee on Huntington hall held last night it was voted to recommend to the city council that that body inform the public hall commission that $70,000 be deemed excessive for the Old Washington tavern site. Three-fourths of the committee, however, favored the site.

In the early stages of the meeting Councilman Flanagan moved that the committee recommend the appropriation of $70,000 for the Washington tavern site.

Ald. Dexter said that $70,000 was too much. He favored the site but he thought it ought to be seized and a reasonable sum paid.

Mr. Qua read the provision creating the Huntington hall commission and was of the opinion that the land could be seized by the commissioners without the passage of an order.

Mr. Butler said that very few cities in the country had a better opportunity to have its public buildings in a square than did Lowell and he did not believe in scattering them to the four winds.

Mr. Qua said that if a site in Moody street opposite the municipal buildings was selected it would mean the gaining of the shacks that are an eyesore today.

Mr. Butler said that somebody asked him the other day why they did not abolish the Huntington hall commission.

"Why don't they abolish the common council?" asked Mr. Flanagan.

"They will some day," said Mr. Qua. Mr. Qua said that the Old Washington tavern site is assessed for $62,000. "The commission has chosen the Old Washington tavern site," said Mr. Butler, "and why isn't it up to us to recommend that the sum asked by the commission be appropriated by the city government? Nobody could see the hall if it were built on that site unless he stood directly in front of it. One couldn't see it in Middlesex street or in Central street until one got beyond Tower's corner."

After more discussion Ald. Dexter moved that the committee recommend to the city council that that body inform the Huntington hall commission that $70,000 be considered excessive as a price for a site for a public hall and that the commission be requested to report to the city council if the site recommended by them, or some other suitable site, can be purchased for a lesser sum. It was so voted.

The committee voted to recommend that the public baths and the public hall be in the same building.

REV. FR. WATTELLE

Gave Lecture on Visits to Lourdes

One of the most interesting lectures heard by the French people of Lowell in a long time was given at St. Joseph's college last evening, by Rev. Fr. Wattle, O. M. L., on the subject of "Lourdes." The hall was packed to the doors and the speaker held the rapid attention of his audience throughout.

Fr. Wattle was twice a visitor at Lourdes, first as a student and later in the early days of his priesthood. He also served as a "bracardier," or volunteer stretcher-bearer, who helped to carry the sick pilgrims from the trains to the grotto.

In opening his lecture, Fr. Wattle gave the history of Bernadette Soubirous and of the 18 apparitions of the Virgin which came to her in 1858, and from which grew out the marvelous pilgrimages of Lourdes, which bring tens and hundreds of thousands of sufferers to the miraculous grotto and healing fountain of the shrine.

"Lourdes," said the lecturer, "is much beyond what your imagination could picture. It would be a miracle should you be able to conceive, without having been there, its full significance. It is at the scene of the most human misery in the world, the scene of the most magnificent outbursts of faith, and the scene also of the greatest proofs of kindness God is willing to show his children when they have faith in him. After Lourdes, one feels that there can be heaven only."

The pilgrimages and processions, the lecturer said, are the most wonderful feature of Lourdes, wonderful as is Lourdes itself, sprung with its three basilicas and other holy religious monuments from what was years ago a marshy wilderness. Every nation is represented in these pilgrimages, with the simple folk of faraway provinces, such as the Bretons, giving a particularly picturesque note in their native costume and their basques of the pilgrim path of the "white train."

As the pilgrim trains are called, bearing its burden of sufferers to Lourdes, their last hope. An intense spirit of faith causes these pilgrims to bear the added torture of travel with patience, to live, to die, through experience, which would kill them outright if this faith upheld them.

So strong is the faith and love of the people for Lourdes that the French government, fearing to run counter to popular sentiment, decided four weeks ago to leave open and free the shrine of the Virgin, and turned it over to the Lourdes city authorities, who in turn returned it to the archdiocesan authorities, its rightful keepers.

Alas! witnessed by the reverend lecturer himself were described, especially one extraordinary occasion in 1897, when 33 cures occurred in a single day which were duly certified and accepted as such by the medical authorities.

Rev. Fr. Wattle was himself present on that day and saw those who were healed rise and throw away their crutches and walk.

In concluding, the reverend lecturer said it was his wish to establish on the grounds of the French-American orphanage, a shrine to Our Lady of Lourdes, with a grotto which would be an exact copy of the miraculous one where Bernadette saw the apparitions.

The views shown were numerous and particularly beautiful.

In connection with the lecture, tableaux with appropriate dialogues and sketches were shown by the students of the French-American orphanage, who in turn returned it to the archdiocesan authorities, its rightful keepers.

INJURIES FATAL

Asst. Supt. Burke in an Auto Accident

BOSTON, June 28.—Robert E. Burke, assistant superintendent of the Boston schools, died shortly after midnight last night at the City Hospital, as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident in Dorchester a week ago Sunday.

It was thought at the time of the accident that he would not live, but until Saturday night his progress was so good that the physicians attending him began to have hopes of his recovery.

Mr. Burke, with six companions, was riding in a big touring car a week ago Sunday evening, on the way to Dorchester from South Boston, when one of the rear wheels on the machine collapsed owing to faulty construction. Burke was the only member of the party to suffer fatal injuries.

He was born in Boston and educated in the Eliot grammar school and at English High. After spending a year in a law office he entered Bridgewater Normal school, from which institution he graduated in 1896. He is a graduate of the Lawrence scientific school at Harvard in the class of 1899.

He became successively assistant in the Bigelow evening school, principal of Lincoln evening school, junior master at Mechanics Arts High school, and master at Boston Normal school. He was elected assistant superintendent of schools in January, 1907.

HEATED DEBATE

Councilmen Almost
Came to Blows

QUINCY, June 28.—Councilman John R. Richards, ward 3, and Joseph L. Whitton, Jr., ward 1, after an interchange of epithets at last night's meeting of the council, would have come to blows on the floor, but for the prompt interference of the other members.

The argument arose out of the heated debate over the amendment of the city ordinances, creating another lieutenant and inspector of police, which Richards opposed and Whitton favored.

In the course of the discussion, Whitton declared that some of the councilmen opposed to the amendment were "scoundrels" because they had "been approached" by members of the police force who did not desire the new officers.

Richards leaped to the floor, asking if Whitton meant to insinuate that he had been approached. Whitton replied that it was a matter of fact that he had been approached.

"You are a liar," yelled Richards, leaping to his feet.

"You are another, and if you will come into the street we will settle this right off," replied Whitton.

The two men, white hot, leaped at one another. There was a rush of councilmen toward them and they were separated. President Hobbs broke his gavel bounding for quiet. When at last the noise subsided, the two men apologized, and the meeting adjourned. They were escorted home by friends who feared that the hostilities might be resumed in the street.

TWO SISTERS

WERE MARRIED AT THE SAME TIME

BOSTON, June 28.—A double wedding of unusual interest to Brighton residents took place at the rectory of St. Anthony's church, Allston, last evening, the brides being sisters, Miss Katherine J. Roddy and Miss Winifred J. Roddy. They came of one of the oldest and best-known Brighton families.

Miss Katherine Roddy was married to T. G. Collins of Somerville and her sister became the bride of William L. Litchfield of Boston. Rev. Fr. Hugh J. Litchfield, pastor of St. Anthony's church, performed the ceremonies at 7.30.

Each couple attended the other as bridesmaid and best man. Mr. Litchfield's bride wore a gown of blue silk and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's guardian, Miss Mary E. Roddy, at 55 Market street, Brighton. When the formalities were over the guests repaired to Roddy hall where dancing was enjoyed until 12. A collation was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Litchfield are to spend their honeymoon at New York and Atlantic City. Mr. and Mrs. Collins will make a three months' stay in the White mountains and make their future home in Somerville.

DRACUT

Miss Rosanna Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Curry of Brookside, observed the twelfth anniversary of her birth Sunday at the home of her friends called during the day to offer her congratulations and many happy returns of the day.

During the course of the party the little hostess was presented a handsome locket and chain and beautiful jewelry. In the evening refreshments were served and an entertainment program carried out.

WOMAN ESCAPED

She Broke Out of Detention Room

BOSTON, June 28.—One of the first women to break out from the Long wharf immigration station is Anna Jablonska, a young Polish woman who made the most sensational and successful get-away ever known at Uncle Sam's detention quarters, during the early hours of yesterday. Using a couple of roller towels, she slid through a window to liberty, forty feet below, and vanished, leaving only the towels to tell the tale.

The girl arrived at this port on the Red Star liner Menominee, June 13, as a cabin passenger with her cousin, a man about 25 years old. They explained they were engaged to be married, but it being against the law for cousins to marry in Russia, they came to this country to get married, and the girl was held "for investigation."

The inquiry was still in progress when the young woman decided to dispense with formality. At midnight Sunday she was apparently asleep in the women's dormitory. The lateness of the hour, however, made her dash for liberty was of great help to her, as there were no inspectors in the vicinity of Long wharf at that time.

The police were not notified of the escape until the next morning. Inspectors were sent abroad, armed with warrants. Miss Jablonska gave an address in Worcester, where supposed relatives lived, when she arrived. This house was carefully watched by federal officers, with no result.

SIR CASPAR CLARKE GETS $5000 ANNUITY

NEW YORK, June 28.—Sir Caspar Furlon Clarke, for five years director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, tendered his resignation yesterday and it was accepted by the trustees.

He resigned because his health is poor and his physicians have advised him not to spend another winter in New York city. At present he is abroad.

In accepting the resignation of the British art connoisseur, the trustees, J. Pierpont Morgan presiding, adopted resolutions of regret and provided that his full salary shall continue for a year and that he shall receive a salary of $5000 a year for life. It was also desired that he accept the position of honorary European correspondent of the institution.

Sir Caspar is 54 years old and one of the best known critics in the world. Before coming to the United States he was director of the famous South Kensington Museum in London. His career here has not been chosen.

This Cigar Should Be 15cts.
—But It's Only 10

All imported cigars carry a duty that makes them 100 per cent higher in price but not necessarily higher in quality.

It's the material and workmanship that counts—not the place they are made.

The "3-20-8" contains the best material that money can buy—fragrant and mellow leaves—the pick of the Havana crop—carefully selected by men who know.

These are imported to our factory in Boston—newly and expensively equipped, where skilled union workmen roll them into cigars of attractive shapes.

Thus by importing the leaf and saving the high duty we can sell the "3-20-8" cigar for 10 cents each—or 3 for 25 cents.

No more luxurious smoke can be had for the price. The first "3-20-8" cigar convinces the smoker of the fact that it is a useless and expensive habit to buy the imported.

CHILD KIDNAPPED

Taken Away by Auto Party

ALBANY, June 28.—Several men and a woman in a big red touring car drove up to the summer home of Michael F. McLaughlin, on the brow of Kenwood Hill, south of the city, yesterday, where Michael F. Jr., 8-year-old son of Mr. McLaughlin, was playing in front of the door. One of the men seized the child, placed him in the woman's arms, and the car sped away in the direction of New York before the occupants of the house realized what had happened.

McLaughlin, a real estate dealer of Brooklyn, and Mrs. McLaughlin left Albany on the boat Sunday night, leaving the child in the care of servants.

An investigation by the police led them to express the belief that the child might have been taken by his mother, a former wife of Mr. McLaughlin, who was divorced from him about four years ago.

Dugrener testified he did not know the girl was 17, as she had told him she was 18 or 19, and that he also told Town Clerk Gates he was going to live in Westboro. The young bride, who does not look more than a grammar school girl, cried during the hearing and said she was 18 years old last October. The father produced a certificate from the town clerk of Chelmsford that Albina would not be 18 years old until October 26. The young couple were married June 17 at the Baptist church parsonage by Rev. Sanford W. Schuch. Since then they have been living in Westboro.

MAN CHARGED WITH MAKING FALSE STATEMENTS
WESTBORO, June 28.—Wilfred Du-premier, 25 years old, of Marlboro, was found guilty yesterday morning before Judge William E. Fowler on the charge of making false statements to Town Clerk Joseph S. Gates June 17, when he secured a license to marry Albina Lajoie, a 17-year-old Marlboro girl, giving the girl's residence as Westboro and her age as 19 years. He was fined $50, appealed, and was bound over in 2290.

Town Clerk Gates testified and Joseph Lajoie, the girl's father, also said his daughter ran away from Marlboro with Dugrener June 17, and several days afterward he received a letter that he thinks was sent by the husband, announcing the marriage. Instead of giving the young couple a blessing the father had Dugrener arrested.

Dugrener testified he did not know the girl was 17, as she had told him she was 18 or 19, and that he also told Town Clerk Gates he was going to live in Westboro. CHIEF E. S. HOSMER FOUND GUILTY

Seeks Legal Advice on the Lawrence Man Convicted on Charge of Bribery

According to an opinion rendered by the city solicitor, cases in which paper caps are used, the paper caps themselves, toy pistols and small torpedoes do not come under the heading of fireworks, and can be sold in stores located in tenement buildings upon receiving a permit from the chief of the fire department.

In connection with chapter 565 of the Acts of 1910, "An act to prohibit the sale of certain pistols and explosives and to authorize the making of regulations relative to fireworks and firecrackers," Jonathan H. Whitney, chief of the district police of this state, had caused printed a pamphlet which explains in detail the meaning of different clauses in the act.

Section 42 of chapter 7 of the rules and regulations adopted by the state police in connection with the legislative act reads as follows: "No permit shall be granted to keep for sale at retail any fireworks or firecrackers in any building used in part as a tenement, lodging or apartment house, or used in part for school or factory purposes, or where people are accustomed to congregate."

The chief of the fire department in order to keep strictly within the law appealed to the city solicitor to give his opinion relative to the sale of candles, caps, toy pistols and small torpedoes in stores which are located in tenement buildings and the city solicitor has decided that they do not come under the head of fireworks.

SALEM, June 28.—A verdict of guilty against Samuel Kress of Lawrence on charges of bribery and attempt to bribe was returned by a jury in the superior criminal court here today. The jury was given the case yesterday afternoon and a sealed verdict was returned this morning. Judge Bell, who received the verdict, did not impose sentence, but awaited the arrival of Judge Schofield, who charged the jury yesterday and who has heard the testimony in the case.

Kress was arrested several weeks ago with Mayor White of Lawrence and several other prominent citizens of that city, all of the defendants being charged with bringing former Alderman Xavier Legendre, and Carl Wood of Lawrence in an attempt to have Chief Hamilton of the Lawrence fire department discharged. The cases of the other defendants have not been heard.

THE BIG FIGHT

To be Followed by Lot of Tickers

NEW YORK, June 28.—New York will follow the Jeffries-Johnson fight by long distance methods. The results of the rounds will be read from hundreds of tickers, while the progress of the fight will be put on the numerous bulletin boards which are to be erected in different parts of the city.

One enterprising manager has hired a ball park and while an announcer reads off the blows, as they are struck, two pugilists, one a white man and the other a negro, will go through the motions of Johnson and Jeffries.

The last of the few score of sporting men who purpose witnessing the fight departed today.

ASKS INJUNCTION

Claims Woman Got $40,000 by Fraud

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Fenton J. Hurd, an aged and wealthy resident of Greenwich, Conn., yesterday asked for an injunction in the district supreme court restraining Laura E. Cramer from disposing of various sums of money, aggregating $40,000, which Hurd now claims was secured from him by Mrs. Cramer through alleged spiritualistic communications from his deceased wife.

According to the complaint filed yesterday, Hurd, shortly after the death of his wife, who had greatly assisted him in the accumulation of his vast wealth, came to this city and took up his residence at the same house as the defendant, Laura E. Cramer.

It is alleged that the defendant won his confidence and persuaded him of her alleged "occult" powers, and that she could communicate with disembodied spirits. The aged man is said to have been already a strong believer in spiritualism, and it is charged that when the defendant furnished him with letters signed "Mary," and purporting to be directions from his deceased spouse, he was easily persuaded to sign drafts of $4000, $5000 or $6000 in favor of the supposed "medium."

The largest draft thus alleged to have been obtained was dated May 5, 1910, and called for the payment of $10,000. In March last Mr. Hurd left Washington and returned to Greenwich, where application was made to the court and he was declared incapable of managing his property.

Mrs. Cramer, who is employed as a clerk in the library of the state department, and has an apartment at the De Soto, 13th street and Massachusetts avenue, could not be found yesterday.

POLICE REPORT

STATISTICS OF ARRESTS FOR THE YEAR

Vast Number of Minor Licenses Granted During Year—3812 Brought to Lockup During Year

The annual report of the board of police for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1910, is now in printed form and the pamphlets are being distributed. The introduction to the report was published in the columns of The Sun several weeks ago, but there are statistics appended which are of more or less interest to the public.

It shows that there were in April 241 licenses granted as follows: One brewery, four wholesale dealers, 80 common victuallers, 77 retail dealers, 12 innholders, 7 clubs, 56 druggists and 4 for permission to deal in paints and chemicals. The amount of money received by the city treasurer for these licenses amounted to $173,060, of which 25 per cent or $43,265 was paid to the state and the remaining $129,775 is retained by the city.

There were several licenses surrendered and cancelled and with but one exception licenses of the same classes were issued in lieu of those surrendered and cancelled; the exception being the surrender and cancellation of a first and fourth class license as common victualler and retail dealer, granted and issued in conjunction, for which a license of the first class as common victualler only, through the operation of the recently enacted so-called "bar and bottle" bill, was issued in its stead.

During the year there were 1,523 minor licenses granted for which the city treasurer received $6,366.35. The detailed list shows that 67 permits were granted for the automobile races held last September, 13 for the various stunts and amusements on the south common last fourth of July, and 267 to sell ice cream, confectionery, soda water and fruit at the Lord's day.

There were 317 arrests against the person, 173 of these being for assault, one for murder, 24 for threatening and one for assault on an officer.

Under the heading of crimes against property there were 394 arrests. One was for arson, 86 breaking and entering, 194 for larceny and the remainder for various offenses.

There were 2275 wagon calls during the year and 3812 of the total number of persons arrested were brought to the lockup in the wagon.

The report of the bureau of criminal investigation shows that 279 arrests were made by that branch of the department. The amount of property stolen was $6997.66, of which amount $5998.26 was recovered.

Report of Police Department

Under the head of "Statistical Report of the Lowell Police Department" it shows that there were 4250 arrests against public order, etc., during the year. More than three-quarters of that number were for drunkenness, the number of arrests for drunkenness being 3493. The greatest number of arrests for any month was in May when 365 were locked up, and the smallest number was in February, when 181 were placed under arrest.

Eight escaped prisoners were arrested. There were 15 violations of the liquor law, two deserters were taken into custody, and there was one arrest for the abduction of an unmarried woman.

The different crimes under the head of crimes against public order are published in detail form by the month. Pacard & Jordan Asso. Sat. eve.

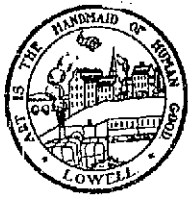

SEC. DICKINSON'S STATEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Secretary of War Dickinson, who arrived in this city last evening from Seattle received a letter from Chesbrough & Bates, requesting an interview before his departure today for the Philippines regarding the treatment their ships might expect at Panama. The letter brought out the following statement:

At present we sell coal to ships in trade at the same rate as to the isthmian canal commission. All lines of ships with regular service can have free wharfage. In the division of freight space and accommodations for dock space all will be treated exactly alike and with the same favor."

GETS A DIVORCE

Mrs. King Granted Separation From Husband

BOSTON, June 28.—Divorce from her husband, Thomas White King, custody of their three-year-old child, Cornelia, and $40 a month alimony were awarded to Mrs. Cornelia Peabody King by Judge Richardson yesterday afternoon in the Suffolk divorce court at the end of the suit for divorce entered by Mrs. King on grounds of gross and confirmed intoxication.

In granting the decree Judge Richardson spoke of the charge brought against Wentworth C. Bacon of New York, who had been named by the husband as co-respondent, and said that no evidence had been shown that the offence had been committed.

When the question of alimony came up King's lawyer said that the once rich clubman and New York broker would be unable to pay anything. Mr. King declared during the case that he was penniless and was living practically on charity at a sanitarium at 224 Warren street, Boston. The judge granted him permission to serve the charge a month, under condition of first giving the mother two days' notice.

Mr. King, Mrs. King and Wentworth C. Bacon were all witnesses yesterday. King testified as to the occasion named in the charge brought against the respondent, and on cross examination said that since the episode his relations with Mr. Bacon had been "gentlemanly." He said that he had never drunk liquor to intoxication.

Dr. Frederick Taylor testified that when Mr. King first went to the sanitarium for treatment, he was not drunk, but was nervous. He said that Mr. King might at one time have suffered from acute alcoholism.

George Clark, steward at the St. Anthony club in New Haven, was called by counsel for Mrs. King and testified to having helped put Mr. King to bed when he became intoxicated at the club last December. William A. Manning of the brokerage firm of Schumaker and Bates, 37 Wall street, next testified that Mr. King was intoxicated some months ago. On this occasion Mr. King had said that he had drunk a quart and a half of whiskey.

Mrs. King was recalled, and denied that she had ever been guilty of any improper conduct with Mr. Bacon. The next witness was the correspondent, Mr. Bacon, who was formerly of Greenfield. He said that he and King had been on friendly terms, that he had never heard Mr. King say anything against his wife, and the first time he had an inkling of Mr. King's intention to charge his wife with an offence was in April or May of this year.

Mrs. King will retain her child, Cornelia, who is now at York Harbor.

CITY OF WOBURN

Asks Injunction Against Rifle Association

BOSTON, June 28.—Claiming that their houses and the occupants are in constant danger from stray bullets and that the neighborhood is dangerous to human life, seven residents of Woburn, Antoine Shydecker, William Spillbury, George A. Anderson, Geo. P. Russell, William L. Archer, Leon W. Dunn, and son L. Archer, A. P. Luxford, Anna Shydecker and Selma Shydecker, as complainants, have filed a petition in the East Cambridge courts, asking that an injunction may be issued against the Massachusetts Rifle association from allowing any target shooting from the rifle range at Woburn.

Three dwelling houses and two green houses, according to the bill of complaint of the petitioners, have been struck by bullets from the rifle range, a dining room window in one house having been shattered and the bullet having been found in the room, and in another house a bullet passed completely through the wall of the house, all within a few months.

The petitioners ask that an injunction may be issued restraining the Massachusetts Rifle association or any of the members from allowing target practice on the range.

WOMAN FOR PRESIDENT

CHICAGO, June 28.—Real political campaign methods have been adopted by Chicago school teachers in their effort to make Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago schools, the next president of the National Educational association at Boston next week. Realizing the value of music in catching the attention of the crowd, they have prepared two songs which they will sing in chorus in the convention hall.

One of them is entitled "Boston" and is to be sung to the tune of "Dixie." Rehearsals will be held on the special train which will leave Chicago Thursday.

ZIONISTS' MEETING

PITTSBURGH, June 28.—The first delegation to the 13th annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists began to arrive here last night. Over 300 are expected to be here when the convention opens Friday.

This year's convention is regarded as one of the most important the Zionists ever held in view of the movement now afoot to reclaim Palestine for the oppressed Jews.

Phila. Pitcher Gets Second Trial by Lowell

LYNN, June 28.—The trying out of Feaster, a Philadelphia pitcher, directly upon his arrival from that city resulted disastrously for Lowell yesterday. Lynn scored its three runs in the first inning, driving Feaster to the bench. The final score was Lynn 3, Lowell 0. Tyler, who replaced Feaster pitched a steady game. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

Lynn here today.

Feaster, the Philadelphia National pitcher, who was tried by Lowell and found wanting earlier in the season, is with us again for a second trial. He received a beating at Lynn yesterday.

Swornstedt, whom Billy Hamilton originally introduced to the writer as "Swampscott," held Lowell down to two hits yesterday.

We must bat to win, and win to prosper.

And with all our faults, we still have it on Haverhill and Brockton.

Jack Cunningham, pitcher for the Knights of Columbus team, could do a better job on the mound for Lowell than some of the big league cast-offs if he were given an opportunity.

FIGHTING ATTITUDE OF JOHNSON AND HIS WONDERFUL CHEST AND ARM DEVELOPMENT

JACK JOHNSON

RENO, Nev., June 28.—Experts on physical conditions are as common as wine agents here, and every day the training camps of Jeffries and Johnson are filled with men who have made a study of conditions. These men are not hired to boost the fight, but to observe the men and give a flat opinion on the evidence. They visit Jeffries and come back all out of adjacencies. "A marvel" is the verdict. They visit Johnson and find him the finest specimen of black humanity on record. "A black fighting machine in perfect order," they say. This may be taken as a guarantee that the championship of the world will be decided in a hard, fast fight, neither man having any great advantage in condition or strength. In such cases the best man will win—the best fighting man. Since Johnson left his auto in the San Francisco garage there has been nothing left for the champion but work. The last few days have been very warm, a program of what the fighters may have to face on the Fourth of July. Johnson likes heat. All his out of door work at Ricks hotel has been done in the warm sunshine, which brings the sweat out of him in streams. The heat, while almost tropical in its intensity, is the dry heat of the desert. Johnson is a human salamander. The heat has a great effect upon Al Kaufman, and it is admitted that Al never better in his life, but Johnson does his stunts without showing any signs of discomfort.

TO CROSS OCEAN GEN'L FUNSTON

Gigantic Dirigible Designed by a Famous Engineer

LONDON, June 28.—Two fascinating schemes for airship services between England and America and between London and Berlin have just come to light.

Herbert Trench, in the Daily Chronicle, tells a remarkable story about the completion of designs for an entirely new type of airship named "Blue Bird," designed by a famous engineer, who is a professor of engineering in a German university, one of Count Zeppelin's right hand men and one of his trusted friends.

It is an airship which can carry inside the keel a crew of 10 persons, two engines forward, two engines aft, and on the under side of the keel, which is 160 feet in length, is a series of immense petrol reservoirs.

"This huge ship," says Mr. Trench, offers far less resistance to progress through the atmosphere than any ship hitherto constructed, while, owing to its extremely simple design it can carry more power than any other. Moreover, it is maneuvered with surprising ease. The whole command of the ship is concentrated in the hands of the pilot in the centre of the keel, and at his hand are very simple appliances, which at a finger touch put in or throw out of action, as desired, the motors, propellers, rudder, ventilators and valves.

"It was a wonderful sight to watch Mr. Kipling's face when the plans of the Blue Bird airship were laid before him the other day and to watch the gradual kindling of his enthusiasm. He could hardly believe his eyes. The novelist's own story had been realized by the engineer. It was a case of Adam's dream. He awoke and found it true."

"The Blue Bird airship can carry five tons of petrol. It can stay 80 hours in the air. It can rise to a height of 10,000 feet above the level of the sea. It has a maximum speed of 50 miles an hour; and consequently a radius of action over no less than 4000 miles without descending."

"The next remarkable feature of this airship is that by the construction of its engine it can use either gas or petrol at the same time or separately, by this means automatically lessening its weight by using petrol (which it carries as ballast) and then using gas to prevent the rise which otherwise the decrease in weight would cause. This reinforcement of petrol by the use of hydrogen gas is an absolutely new feature, and the result of the combination is to increase the radius of action and distance of flight by no less than one-third."

"Crucial as the Blue Bird type will be no less important for purposes of national defence. In a few moments this ship can be transformed into a war ship of absolutely internal power, provision having been made for cartridges, in case of need, of a Maxim gun and a ton weight of very high explosive. There will also be a torpedo boat for the emission of torpedoes. These weapons will be of a weight equivalent to the number of extra passengers carried in time of peace."

"Blue Bird airships will be incompensable commercial machines, and, without, machines of war so terrible as to make war well nigh impossible."

When you pack your trunk for vacation put in a bottle of Dow's Diarrhoea and Cholera Syrup. Sure cure for summer ills.

MRS. SHERMAN ILL

BALTIMORE, Md., June 28.—Mrs. James S. Sherman, wife of Vice President Sherman, who is a patient at Johns Hopkins hospital, was reported today to have passed a fairly good night last night. It was noted at the hospital that she had improved somewhat since her arrival at the institution and that her case was not regarded as serious.

THE FIGHTING CAMP

is anxiously awaiting the arrival of Governor Dickerson who, it is understood, is returning to Carson City from Elly and intends to make a brief stop here. Just what would be the governor's purpose in coming to this city has not been stated, but in view of his numerous denials that he would interfere in any way with the fight no one admits the belief that it would be connected with the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

The news received here last night, however, of the circulation in Chicago of another rumor that the fight would be called off lends added interest to the expected visit of the chief executive of the state. Gov. Rickard and Governor Dickerson are said to be old friends and though the promoter received a telegram directly from the governor from Elly giving positive assurances that he would not try to prevent the fight, Rickard wants to hear from the governor's own lips the constantly revised reports of intervention are without foundation.

"I can't imagine who is doing all this 'no fight' talk," Rickard said in a group of newspaper correspondents last night during a general discussion of the Chicago rumor. "If there was the least bit of truth in it I think it would be reasonable to suppose that the Nevada people would hear the news before it leaked out in San Francisco or Chicago."

"These rumors do us harm because they lead people in the east to believe that they will have their trip for nothing. That is why I am so anxious to have the governor come here and tell you newspaper men what he has told me in his telegram, that there is absolutely no intention on his part to attempt to call off the fight."

Rapid headway is being made on the arena. A force of 175 men are working ten hours a day to have it completed by next Friday and so marked was the progress yesterday that the contractors said it would be possible to finish the job Thursday night. The plans call for a seating capacity of about 17,000, but according to Rickard it may be necessary to enlarge the structure. If necessary another platform will be placed behind the rear top seats, providing standing room for about 4,000 people, thus bringing the complete capacity of the arena up to 21,000. It is estimated that more than 400,000 feet of lumber and five tons of nails must be put into the building.

One of the biggest single orders for tickets yet received came last night. Representatives of three towns in the northwestern part of the state and whose combined population figures only 2,000 made joint application. It is said for 1,708 seats. Thus far the greatest demand has been for the high priced reservations.

Well known ring veterans continued to pour in yesterday. One of the latest arrivals is Eddie McKeowan of Winnipeg, who claims to have held the heavyweight championship of Canada from 1881 to 1885. It was stated by McKeowan that he had been commissioned by friends in Canada to bet $25,000 on the approaching fight.

Jack Kilrain will arrive here from Boston, Friday, according to advices received by John L. Sullivan. There probably will be no marked acceleration of betting in Reno until the arrival of Tom Corbett from San Francisco. James Coffroth is understood to be here to secure a convenient location for the official betting commission. Corbett is promised competition for the greatest battle of his career, by Jimmy Later of Sausalito, Cal., who is arranging for a pool room. Jim Jeffries' hard work yesterday was one of the principal topics of conversation last night, and the opinion seemed to be shared by all that he was apparently in the finest possible trim and ready for the greatest battle of his career.

CHICAGO SPORTS DIVIDED

CHICAGO, June 28.—Two sets of betting odds on the Jeffries-Johnson battle were named yesterday by a prominent stock yards bookmaker. In the one, Jeffries is quoted at three to five, Johnson is the choice at eight to five in the other. The heavyweights probably will enter the arena evenly backed by Chicago fight followers. From the south side, especially in the colored colony, Johnson will draw tremendous support.

3,000 GOING TO FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Betting on the Jeffries-Johnson fight took an unexpected turn yesterday. Following a heavy Johnson rally Sunday night the odds rose yesterday to ten to seven. Several bets were made at this price, though there is much Johnson money at better offer. The odds fell again and thousands of dollars were wagered at 10 to 5.

"Ten to six seems to be about right to me," said Tom Corbett. "On account of the heavy Johnson play Sunday it was to be expected that the odds would go up a bit. I think the present odds will prevail until the day of the fight."

It is estimated that at least 3,000 San Franciscans will go to Reno.

BUTLER, AMES TO LEAD FIGHT AGAINST LODGE

HON. BUTLER AMES

BOSTON, June 28.—Representative Lodge's post Ames declares that his fight is against "boss rule." The fact that Ames is wealthy will make the seat of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in conflict one of the most interesting announcing himself as a candidate for the country.

FOR THE FOURTH SECRETARY MacVEAGH

The Celebration to Cost $1500 is Agreed Upon

Fireworks to Cost $900 and Band Concerts $400—Marathon Race and Games

The special committee on July 4th met last night and made arrangements for a $1600 celebration. It was voted to spend $900 for fireworks and have four band concerts at $100 per. There will be a Marathon race on the North common in the afternoon and a ball game on the same common in the morning. Mr. Tarrant wanted two games, but there wasn't money enough to go round. There will be no firing of salutes.

Councilman Achin, chairman, called to order and read the order appropriating $1600 for the July 4th observance. Mayor Meehan suggested that the sum of $800 be expended for fireworks and that the contract be let out at once. He suggested that a competent judge examine the displays.

JAPAN'S IMPORTS

Have Shown a Marked Decline

Japan's imports from America and Europe show a marked decline, and those from Asia and Oceania a marked increase. The official monthly return of the foreign trade of the empire of Japan covering the month of March and the three months ending with March, 1910, compared with corresponding periods of 1908 and 1909 (a copy of which has just reached the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor) shows that imports from America have fallen from 14.2-3 million dollars in the three months, January, February and March, 1908, to a little over 7 million in the corresponding months of 1910; those from Europe from 26.4 million in the 3 months of 1908 to 16.4 million in the corresponding period of 1910; while those from Asia and Oceania increased from 28 million in the 1908 period to 33 million in the 1910 period.

Imports into Japan from the United States during the three months under review show a fall from 14.2-3 million dollars in 1908 to less than 7 million in 1910; those from Great Britain in the same period fell from 15.1-2 million to 9.1 million dollars; those from Germany from 7 million to 4.1-3 million dollars, while from France the quarter's imports are slightly greater in 1910 than in 1908, amounting in the present year to a little more than a half million dollars. From Australia the imports in the first three months of 1910, 1.1-2 million dollars in value, are more than double those of the 1908 period. From Egypt the imports of the first quarter of 1910 were valued at over 1 million dollars, and are about 50 per cent in excess of those for the corresponding period of 1908. From China, exclusive of Kwangtung province, the imports have fallen from 6.2-3 million dollars in the first three months of 1908 to about 5.1-2 million in the corresponding months of 1910; while from British India the imports during the 1910 period, valued at 19 million dollars, are more than double those of the 1908 period, which were valued at 9 million dollars. Taking Asia as a whole, the imports show a total of 31 million dollars in the three months of 1910, against 27.1-3 million in the corresponding months of 1908.

The falling off in imports from the United States, which is proportionately, somewhat greater than the reduction in imports from Great Britain, Germany, and other leading countries of Europe, is due largely to the "cotton situation." Japan buys freely of American cotton when it sells at a low price, but when prices are high, as has been the case in the last year or two, Japan turns to other parts of the world, especially India and China, for raw cotton, the price of the product of these countries being less than that of the United States. The value of cotton imported into Japan from the United States in the 3 months ending with March, 1910, is less than 3 million dollars, against 6.4 million in the corresponding months of 1908; while from India the value of cotton imports in the period was nearly 10 million dollars, against 7.4 million in the first three months of 1908. In other articles from the United States, however, is also a marked decline, the imports of iron and steel plates falling from 1,652,000 in the 3 months of 1908 to $85,000 in the corresponding period of 1910; and those of steel rails, from $520,000 in the 1908 period to $62,000 in the 1910 period, though in this class, it is proper to add, the total importations from all countries show a marked decline, having fallen from over 1 million dollars in value in the first three months of 1908 to $153,000 in the like period of 1910. Locomotives, machinery, and cutlery and other manufactures of iron and steel also show general declines in importations, and more especially in those from the United States. Flour imports from the United States also show a marked decline, their value in the 3 months of 1910 being but $105,000, against $375,000 in the like period of 1908; while those from other parts of the world decreased from $27,600 in the 3 months of 1908 to $18,411 in the corresponding months of 1910. Imports of kerosene oil from the United States increased from 1 million dollars in the first 3 months of 1908 to 1.3 million in the like period of the present year.

The three months' record above noted, of a decline in Japanese imports of American and European merchandise and an advance in imports from Asia and Oceania, is equally apparent in a study of the importations of that Empire covering a longer period. The total imports from Europe, which were in 1905 $24,778,000, were in 1909, $72,744,000; and those from America, in 1906, $25,261,000, and in 1909, $28,260,000; while those from Asia and Oceania, which were in 1905 $31,645,000, were, in 1909, $39,712,000.

The committee will meet again next Thursday night.

WOMEN RESCUED

From Burning Building in Worcester

WORCESTER, June 28.—A thrilling rescue of two elderly women who had been cut off from escape in their tenement at 19 Syncomer street by fire last night, was made by firemen at 43 Beacon street and two boys, Thomas Flannery, aged 17, of 3 Harris court, and Eugene Guiney, 19, of 4 Valley street. Both the boys were overcome by smoke and required medical attendance, but the two rescued sisters, Miss Eva R. Waite and Sarah E. Waite, were not hurt except for a severe fright.

The fire started in the rear of the three tenement house in the flat occupied by Herbert E. Noyes. Neither the Noyes family nor the occupants of the floor below were at home when the fire started, and it was not discovered until it was too late to be extinguished. Thinks The Fiscal Year May Show a Surplus

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Three days' receipts remain to be reported for the government's fiscal year, which ends with the close of business on June 30. Uncompleted figures and estimates lead Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department to express himself as well satisfied with the operations of his department for his fiscal year, now closing.

Mr. MacVeagh regards the new tariff law as having justified itself as a revenue-producer. Internal revenue receipts have exceeded the estimates by approximately $10,000, and the year promises to end showing possibly a surplus in the ordinary receipts and expenditures, or splitting nearly even, instead of showing a deficit of $34,000,000, as was predicted. A larger income and reduced government expenditures are given by treasury officials as contributing causes for the good showing.

In the year the government has expended on the Panama canal $23,010,000. This has been a drain on the regular working cash balance, there being no special fund from which payments for this purpose can be made. Congress has authorized the issue of bonds to meet canal construction expenditures, and Mr. MacVeagh thinks the cost of construction should be met by pecuniary, which, after all, will get the benefit.

He has balked, however, on the basis on which the law provides the bonds shall be issued, 16 at 2 per cent, as now proposed, the secretary believes they would have a much better national bank circulation privilege than the outstanding 2 per cent, and their issue would, therefore, constitute a discrimination against the two.

Congress refused to graduate the tax on national bank circulation secured by bonds, as recommended by the secretary, and the bonds remain unissued. The amount of Panama authorized, but not issued, aggregate $200,000,000.

There has been a material reduction from the estimates in expenditures in the civil, war and naval estimates, and a decrease of $7,000,000 in the estimated postal deficiency. Whether or not there will be an actual surplus at the end of the year, officials say, depends upon the amount of corporation tax money received. Secretary MacVeagh estimated it would reach $15,000,000. The prospects are otherwise. The money is paid direct to internal revenue collectors, and frequently several days elapse before it reaches the treasury here.

Senator Cullom's resolution postponing payment of the tax until January 1, although not receiving congressional sanction, in the opinion of the treasury had the effect of deferring payments on the assessments by many months. The theory that it might be acted on.

Corporation taxes paid to date amount to $2,238,153. If $15,000,000 money from that source be in the hands of the treasury at Washington by the end of the fiscal year, the prediction is made that the daily preliminary statement for next Wednesday will show a substantial surplus for the year in the items comprising the ordinary receipts and disbursements.

The total deficit to date, including the deficit of the Panama canal, that on account of the Panama canal, the ordinary transactions of the government and those incidental to the public debt is $14,415,040.

In his annual report to congress in December Secretary MacVeagh estimated that the ordinary receipts of the government for the fiscal year 1910 would be $643,000,000; to date they have aggregated $641,365,593. He estimated the ordinary disbursements at $682,075,620; at this time they amount to $660,510,836. Customs receipts so far this year have been $226,562,242, the treasury's estimate for the year being $335,000,000. It is now thought they will not reach more than $320,000,000, thus falling below the estimates.

TO TREAT HORSES

That are Afflicted With Worms

Many entertain the opinion that horses have at all times more or less worms, but not in such quantities as to cause annoyance. They, however, do infest the horse at times to an unbearable extent, causing colic, indigestion, depraved appetite, loss of flesh, spirits and strength and no end of trouble and suffering. Worms are found for the most part in the stomach and bowels and while there are more than thirty varieties of worms to bother the horse, only two or three kinds become a source of danger to the horse's health and comfort.

The common round worm, much resembling the ordinary earth worm, is sometimes found in great numbers and grows to a foot in length, occupying for the most part the stomach and small intestines, where they impair digestion which soon gives you a run down, out of condition horse. The coat is rough, the appetite poor or ravenous, food is digested, he scours, becomes hide bound, loses strength and spirit; gnaws and bites at sides and body, manger, crib or anything convenient, rubs tail against the stall, and no matter how much he eats will not take on the suffering and annoyance endured by the dumb horse and can but wonder why any horse owner permits his financial loss to run on in this manner, when the present day furnishes so many inexpensive remedies for overcoming these troublesome pests.

Another form of worm most annoying to the horse is the little white thread worm or pin worm, so-called, infesting the lower bowel. These cause the horse a great amount of annoyance and keep many men wondering as to "What's the matter with my horse?" Get rid of them. Injections will do it and they are simple to give. Bots are another form of worm resulting from the larvae of the gadfly and are subjects of much discussion and argument. They certainly are a great annoyance to the horse, causing inflammation, colic and staggers. The symptoms are quite similar to colic, and when you suspect this form of trouble you should treat for worms and look to diet and feed for its correction.

The exact number cannot be known at this moment, because while the law compels about 15 of them to be retired, there may be a few applications for voluntary retirement; or there may be casualties which will reduce the number who will be forced from the active list. Officers so displaced do not leave under a stigma. The law is only for the purpose of providing for a proper flow of promotions from the lower to the higher grades of the navy. WOMAN MAY DIE

She Was Burned and is Not Expected to Live

WORCESTER, June 28.—Mrs. Eva Boritius, 24 years old, 212 Bloomingdale road, was fatally burned at her home while preparing supper last night, and is not expected to live. Mrs. Boritius was trying to light the kitchen fire in order to get supper, and the wood in her stove failed to catch at her first attempt.

Taking the kerosene oil can, she poured a quantity on the wood, and a smoldering spark caused an explosion. Her clothing caught, and in a few minutes she was burned almost to a crisp from the top of her head to her knees.

A cousin who happened to be in the house succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until the burns were too severe to make recovery possible. She was taken to the city hospital and her name was immediately placed upon the dangerous list.

WENT INSANE OVER GAME OF BASEBALL

HAVERHILL, June 28.—Charles L. Light of 19 Gilbert avenue is baseball crazy. The physicians who examined him reported the facts to Judge Fuller of the district court yesterday, and Light was committed to the insane asylum at Danvers.

Light believed himself to be a baseball manager. He revelled in baseball, and thought he could play any position required, could play the game all alone and considered himself the greatest producer of baseball in years.

He also had an idea that he was going to buy a bright pink automobile, in which he intended to ride on to the baseball field and dazzle the fans, but the police spoiled his plans yesterday when they took him into custody on a warrant alleging insanity.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

East Merrimack street is in great need of repair. It is rough and uneven, causing jolts and shocks to those who ride over it in carriages and automobiles. It will be too bad if that street cannot be paved before the fall.

ANOTHER BOY DROWNED

Another drowning accident recorded because a boy of sixteen did not know how to swim. There should be no boy of that age in Lowell unable to swim. When boys go boating they should be careful to guard against accidents, especially to those who cannot swim. But it is useless to lecture young people of the danger. The only remedy is to provide public baths at which all can learn to swim.

LESSONS OF THE LYNN TRAGEDY

The Lynn tragedy of Saturday made a few things very clear, and among them are these:

First, it is a foolish custom for anybody on foot to carry a load of money from a bank along a public street. An auto could be used with advantage in such a case.

Second, the time has arrived when every first class police department must be equipped with a fast auto for pursuit of criminals.

Third, some action should be taken as soon as possible in the direction of restricting the sale of dangerous firearms with a view to preventing anarchists from securing such weapons.

Fourth, every efficient police department should be trained to the riot call, to gun practice and a good sharp sprint as even in their ordinary work the men are frequently required to try their speed.

FINDING THEIR LIFE WORK

Now that a great many graduates have completed their school education they are face to face with the problem of selecting their life work. This in most cases is a difficult matter. For some who fall easily into the business pursued by parents or relatives there is very little trouble. But for the majority it is a case of looking around to find some employment or occupation for which they are by nature adapted.

Many pupils leave the grammar schools and even the high school without knowing their own aptitudes. The manual training course in the high school is well adapted to assist the pupils in finding their own aptitudes in the mechanical line. In this respect alone it is of great advantage to those who take it up. But unfortunately the majority of the grammar school graduates do not enter the high school. They have to take what they can get in the line of employment, making the most of their future opportunities to get what they want.

It is well in such cases for young people not to be too hard to please. They should make up their minds that they cannot get what they want just at the time they want it. They should make the most of what they can get and watch for an opportunity for something better. One of the things that ruins the life of many a young man is, that he has an abhorrence for manual labor; he wants some kind of a genteel position where he will have no hard work, no heavy lifting, where he can sit down and take things easy. There are thousands of tramps on the road today throughout the United States simply because they started out with that same feeling. The boy who will get along is the one who is not afraid of work, who learns to use his hands in conjunction with his brain, who trains his perceptive faculties, learns to obey and is ready to take a hand at anything.

There is one kind of boy that is wanted nowhere. He is the boy who is never ready to do anything when he is told to do it, who always asks why he is told to do such a thing, why it would not do as well at some other time, or why somebody else should not do it. In the rush of business nobody would be bothered with any such boy. The young people who go out looking for work should, therefore, make up their minds to follow orders strictly without any hesitation or protest.

The one great aim for a graduate after leaving school should be to secure an opportunity to learn some good trade. It doesn't take a boy very long to learn a trade if he attends to his business and makes good use of his time. It matters not that a boy should have an ambition to go higher. The acquisition of a trade will help him even in that direction. Once he has learned the trade he is self-reliant and has a guarantee of support while striving for something better.

In seeking success it will be well for boys to remember that those who rise to distinction in the vast majority of cases concentrate their powers upon one single aim or one line of business. It is useless to attempt to be a jack-of-all-trades. That means failure. The tendency of the age is to specialize. The man who makes a specialty of one thing can attain excellence far above what he could attain if he endeavored to excel in a great many things. Another point is to complete whatever he begins. It is useless to build the foundation of a house unless the superstructure follows.

There are thousands of trades available to young people throughout any manufacturing city. Every mill is a great busy hive of mechanical trades. The same may be said of the machine shop, of a shoe shop and in fact of every factory that can be mentioned. The textile school touches almost all the textile trades and it offers splendid opportunities for young men who want to engage in the textile business. Then there are commercial trades acquired in the stores, the banking houses and railway stations. There are a vast number of trades that have to do with providing food, clothing and shelter. These may be considered staple trades in which a good man will find employment almost anywhere he goes. There are in connection with the printing business a great number of trades, all of which are comparatively clean and remunerative.

The one great trouble with most of the desirable trades is, that they are guarded by unions who limit the number of apprentices in most establishments. In spite of all obstacles, however, new hands are in demand as the old are passing out and the school graduate who looks around will be able to find something adapted to his abilities and his tastes, something in which he can make a respectable living and from which he can rise with industry and thrift to a calling that will bring a greater income.

SEEN AND HEARD

Children who apply to librarians for books present all kinds of letters from parents and teachers containing instructions as to the kind of literature they think it advisable for their young charges to imbibe, but this masterpiece was handed in one day last week:

Dear Lady: Please send my Bertha a book that will agree with her pa. He is 43 years old, has never been much of a reader, is laid up with a lame back, no appetite, but terrible thirsty all the time; a quick pulse and temperature that stays at about 100. Please send something that will not excite him and send his temperature up any higher.

It took a consultation of all the high-brows in the library to prescribe a literary dose for pa that would not conflict with the medical bulletin. They sent him "The Swiss Family Robinson." His temperature did not go up.

"I always manage to land in New York over the Fourth," said a western traveling man. "I've been here for six consecutive Fourth's, and there's no place like it for a combination of quiet and comfort. Seashore places are crowded and noisy and I don't get half the solid comfort and rest that I do right here. So many people being away the city has a particularly clean, restful look, and wherever you go there's no crowd and not so many people but that you're sure to be well served and attended to. People who haven't gone away the night before generally start so early that morning that by noon the excursion boats aren't crowded and the trolley cars are positively empty. In the evening I go up on some of your many fine roof gardens and eat a little something and watch the fireworks from all around. I've had a quiet, restful day, haven't heard any noise, haven't been in any crowds and feel like patting myself on the back for knowing enough to spend my Fourth of July in New York city."

On a street car recently a young bachelor who is fond of children gave his attention to a little tot who interested him very much. Presently the child began to cry, and despite the efforts of the young mother, it continued to make anything but a joyful noise. Everyone in the car seemed to be annoyed, and this only stimulated the mother of the child to try to calm the lusty youngster. The bachelor thought that his interest in children was an indication of his capacity for calming them, and volunteered a theory which perhaps was based upon his own earlier experience. "Perhaps there's a pin sticking in him," he whispered to the mother, and after the manner of one who is familiar with all the complexities and troubles of a baby's life. Thinking, evidently, that the mother of the child didn't understand him, the young man reassured his fears. This was too much for the young woman, for at last she said in a tone of scorn with much emphasis, "No, there's no pin sticking in him, he's scared because you're making faces at him." Thereupon, the bachelor lapsed into an abrupt pensiveness.

Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university, was walking across the campus the other day with the dean of one of the colleges, when the chimines in the library tower began to ring.

"Dean," said he, "the music of those chimines is so beautiful that it always sets me dreaming of the past. My boyhood days."

"What do you say?" interrupted the venerable dean.

"I say the chimines are very, very beautiful. They make me think—"

"What?" yelled the dignified old dean again.

"The chimines—the chimines—how beautiful—"

HER COMING IN AUTUMN
When the maple turns to crimson
And the sassafras to gold;
When the gentians in the meadow
And the asters on the fold;
When the wind whistles in the vapor
And the night is frosty cold;
When the chestnut burrs are opened
And the acorns drop like hail
And the drowsy air is started
With the humming of the fall
When the leaves are on the path
And the whistling of the quail—
Through the rustling wood I wander,
Through the yellow uplands calling,
Seeking her that still is dear:
She is near me in the Autumn,
She, the beautiful, is near.

Through the smoke of burning Summer,
When the wind whistles still,
I can see her in the valley
I can see her on the hill—
In the splendor of the woodlands,
In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven
Meet and mingle in the blue,
She can wander down the stair
To the places that she knew,
Where the happy lovers wandered
In the days when life was true.

So I think, when days are sweetest
And the world is wholly fair,
She may come down the stair
Through the dimness of the air,
With the cross upon her bosom
And the amaranth in her hair.

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her
And to hold her gently fast,
Till I sit and blessed me,
That were happiness at last;
That were bliss beyond our meetings
In the Autumns of the past!

J. Mortimer Titus of Boston and Portland and with a host of friends in this city, made his annual visit to Lowell over Sunday as the guest of his old friend, William F. Foxe of the Park hotel. Mr. Titus has been many years in the employ of the Eastern Steamship company as head clerk on the City of England, the City of France and the City of Italy, and he has been a passenger on the Portland steamer as the handsome and courteous gentleman who takes tickets and answers accurately every odd kind of a question about the states of Maine and Massachusetts and the cities of Boston and Portland, fired at him by nervous passengers. Mr. Titus returned to his old love, the good steamer Bay State, which, after six months in dry dock, is in commission once more, but so changed as to be hardly recognizable. The remodeled Bay State has 80 new staterooms, making 250 in all, and is entirely new from her main deck up. Instead of the old fashioned sidewheels which furnished the propelling power the Bay State is now equipped with smaller feathering wheels, which give her additional speed and less vibration in proceeding along her course. The new Bay State is the pilot house, where Captain Linscott, an old and valued officer of the Eastern company, is again at the wheel. Captain Linscott has piloted the eastern coast for over 30 years without an accident, and if there's a rock or shoal between Boston and Portland that he doesn't know it must have been slipped in there while he was on his vacation last winter. Purser Crocker and Steward Lew Farmer, two other well known officers, are back on their old jobs on the Bay State.

Sunday school, but he nearly missed one week. He got up at 4 o'clock, took his gun and went into the cornfield. He sure did bring home "went back" in time for breakfast, they went out, put two shoes on one of his horses, hitched the horse to the harrow and went to the field and commenced to harrow ground for corn. Mrs. Moore, wondering what had come over her husband, went out and asked Mr. Moore why he had not gone to Sunday school. He had lost sight of the fact that it was Sunday morning, and was thunder-struck when Mrs. Moore convinced him it was Sunday. The horse was quickly taken from the harrow, hooked to another vehicle, and after a hasty toilet Mr. and Mrs. Moore went on their way to Sunday school.

Gertrude Atherton went to the Yosemite at the beginning of June, but finding it a very hot, dusty, uncomfortable and overrated place, changed her mind about the matter. She stayed in San Francisco for a month, and promptly returned to San Francisco. She knows of three or four places in Europe far more beautiful and infinitely more interesting and accessible otherwise than by a five hours' drive over boulders in clouds of dust and a sweltering heat. Mrs. Atherton made San Francisco an ideal place for work, being nearly always cool and bracing; so she will remain there till she goes to Europe, at the end of the summer.

Out of so unpromising a subject as the income tax, Bernard Shaw has managed to draw a column and a half. London Times measure, of cheerful comment and contradiction. The special commissioners had called upon Mr. Shaw to make a formal statement of his income. He replies, in part: (1) Director (2) page 2, reads as follows: "The income of a married woman living with her husband is deemed by the income tax acts to be his income, and full particulars thereof must be included in any statement of income rendered by him for the purpose of taxation. Now I have absolutely no means of ascertaining my wife's income except by asking her for the information. Her property is a separate property. She keeps a separate banking account at a separate bank. Her solicitor is not my solicitor. I can make a guess at her income from her style of living, exactly as the surveyor of income tax does when he makes a shot at an assessment in the absence of exact information; but beyond that I have no more knowledge of her income than I have of yours. I have therefore asked her to give me a statement. She refuses, on principle. As far as I know, I have no legal means of compelling her to make any such disclosure; and if I had, it does not follow that I am bound to incur law costs to obtain information which is required not by myself but by the state. Clearly, however, it is in the power of the commissioners to compel my wife to make a full disclosure of her income, for the purposes of taxation; but equally clearly they must not communicate that disclosure to me or to any other person. It seems to me under these circumstances, that all I can do for you is to tell you who my wife is and leave it to you to ascertain her income and make me pay the tax on it. Even this you cannot do without a violation of secrecy, as it will be possible for me, by a simple calculation, to ascertain my wife's income from the disclosure. I need not dwell on the further obvious objection that, as my wife enjoys a fixed income derived from property, whereas a large part of my own is a fluctuating income, derived from the precarious profession of playwriting, my income may in another year be much smaller than my wife's, in which case I shall have to pay on a much larger income than I enjoy, without, as far as I know, having any legal power of recovering from my wife the amount I have paid on her income.

For this difficult situation Mr. Shaw whimsically places the responsibility upon suffragism and its ideals of woman's independence, even a married woman's.

THE LAW SCHOOL

Set Commencement Pace at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, June 28.—The Harvard Law school set the commencement pace today, although class celebrations, especially that of 1880, with former President Roosevelt as an active participant in part of the festivities, also held at Harvard.

The law school alumni had as orator of the day Attorney General Wickersham, who spoke to a large gathering this noon in Sanders theatre.

The Roosevelt class of 1880 journeyed out to the Blue Hills, where all sorts of sports were enjoyed by athletes of 30 years ago at the Hoosick Whisk club. As Col. Roosevelt had already notified the secretary that he would not be at these observances, the members of the class had the club to themselves and were undisturbed by a curious throng.

Seven classes, lunched and dined at the Country club at Brookline, while later in the day many of the officials of the university were busy welcoming candidates for honorary degrees to be conferred at commencement tomorrow.

The names of those who will be honored by Harvard tomorrow will not be made public until just before the exercises.

Brookline. Miss Turnbull, according to her counsel, will fight the case to the end. She already has presented a claim to being the daughter of Baldwin, and according to the records at the Los Angeles City Hall was born Dec. 7, 1894, at 129 South Olive street, that city, where her mother, then Lillian Ashley, was then living as the wife of "Lucky" Baldwin.

Walter B. Grant, counsel for the young woman in Boston, will not proceed to Los Angeles with Mrs. Turnbull and her daughter. The young woman's interests are being looked after by Timothy W. Conkley and Lawrence Dockweiler in California.

"There is evidence that there was a common law marriage between Baldwin and Mrs. Turnbull," said Mr. Grant yesterday afternoon. "Baldwin told the woman he was a divorced man and free to enter into the marriage with her. It was some time afterward that the facts presented to her by the wealthy turfman were untrue. She ceased to live with him after that."

"The statutes of California make Mrs. Turnbull the legitimate wife of Baldwin. I intend to fight the issue on that point and see nothing but victory in sight for my client."

"WHITE SLAVE" TRAFFIC

NIGHT EDITION AT NEW THEATRE

FOUND NO EVIDENCE

Of Organized Movement in Women Traffic

NEW YORK, June 28.—"We have found no evidence of existence in the county of New York of any organization or organizations engaged in the traffic of women for immoral purposes. We have not found evidence of any organized traffic in women for immoral purposes."

This was the opening of the presentment made by the special grand jury, of which John D. Rockefeller, jr., is foreman, which has been investigating white slave conditions in this city. The presentment was handed up several days ago, but was not filed by Judge O'Sullivan, of general sessions, until today.

The presentment denounces the men who profit from the unlawful practices of unfortunate women.

Moving pictures shows are condemned in the presentment, which speaks of them as creating evil in the minds of children. The presentment speaks of having found 125 massage and manuring parlors to be nothing more or less than disorderly houses, where manuring is advertised or performed for a "blind."

In relation to the consorts of dissolute women, the presentment recommends that there be formed a crusade against them and that legislation be effected looking toward their extermination. It also suggests that laws be framed to control the operation of massage and manure establishments. Their supervision by the board of health is recommended.

The presentment recommends that some means be devised to prevent Raines law hotels from becoming disorderly houses.

Concerning the tenement house laws, the presentment suggests that they be revised on a stricter basis, and recommends that a commission be appointed by the mayor to study the question of social evils in the cities of this and other countries.

BALLOON ASCENSION

Lowell Will Have One on the Fourth of July

The Gas Company Will Supply the Gas and Mr. Glidden Will Furnish the Balloon—Three Out of Nineteen Pupils Who Took Public Examination for High School Were Successful

Lowell will have a balloon ascension on July 4 and it won't cost the city a cent. Mayor Meehan communicated with the Lowell Gas Light company this forenoon and was told that if he could get a balloon the Lowell Gas Light company would supply the gas.

The mayor then communicated with Mr. Glidden and the latter said he would be very glad to arrange for a balloon ascension. Mr. Glidden said it was barely possible that he would not be able to go himself and in that event, he said, he would send a competent man. The ascension will be made from the Gas company's yard in School street. The mayor was desirous of having it from the North common, but it would mean a great deal of work and considerable expense to do the necessary piping. The balloon ascension will add very materially to the program for the day.

Mayor Meehan, Alderman Dexter and Councilman Achin, the latter chairman of the July 4 committee, went out this forenoon to arrange for the fireworks for the Fourth for which $3000 will be spent. Later it was stated that the fireworks were arranged for and would be the same as were held on the pontoon bridge automobile week with the exception of two set pieces, the automobile and the trophy. The exhibition from the pontoon bridge was one of the best, if not the very best, ever seen in Lowell.

Three Were Admitted

Of the nineteen pupils who took the public examination for admission to the high school this year three were successful. The examination was held in the Old Moody school on Monday and Tuesday of last week. The three successful ones were Edward C. Larkin, John L. Robertson, Jr., and Everett M. Mahoney.

Exchanging Books

"If you find one just and true don't change the old one for a new," was not spoken of books and the exchange of books, changing the old ones for the new, is making work for the trunk officers these days. The city is allowed ten cents each for all the old books and it will take a trunk officer about two weeks to pick them out.

Dummer Street Extension

The special committee appointed to get prices on land to be taken for the extension of Dummer street, Alderman Gray and Councilmen Genest and Brady, had a conference with George C. Dempsey, representing the Dempsey estate, last night. Mr. Dempsey asks $24,000 for the land of the Dempsey estate required for the extension of the street. The committee considers the price exorbitant. Because of certain criticism which came to his ears Mr. Dempsey told the committee that he would prepare a statement for the press, relative to the land in question, within a few days.

DEATHS

FREEMAN—Catherine Freeman, mother of Lieutenant Freeman of the police department, died this afternoon at her home, 25 Prospect street, aged 83 years. She leaves a husband, Thomas, two sons, James and John, and one daughter, Mary A.

ROBINSON—Miss Agnes A. Robinson passed away Tuesday morning at her home, No. 80 Lawrence street, aged 73 years. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Robinson, who celebrated her 103rd anniversary a few months ago, and one sister, Miss Frances M. Robinson. Funeral notice later. The funeral is in charge of Undertaker J. B. Currier Co.

"Charlie" Varnum Found Hustling on 64th Birthday

CHARLES F. VARNUM
The Contractor

HARRY PRESCOTT GRAVES
The Architect

With a Handicap of 14 Rainy Days He Expects to Have Building Ready for Occupancy on Sept 1—Architect Graves Plans a Most Cosy Theatre

With a handicap of 14 rainy days

against them Contractors C. F. and J. B. Varnum are putting up a great battle to finish the new Paige street theatre by September 1, according to the terms of their contract, and judging by the rush and bustle on the job they are going to make good. They must finish the job by that date or lose money according to their contract.

While the lessees have bookings made and are ready to open one of the busiest theatres in New England on that date. The rainy season through which New England has recently passed was as unexpected among builders as it was among the promoters of baseball and other out-door sports and for 14 days there was nothing doing on the theatre job. But before and since the rain started the contractors have had big crews of workmen going steadily and the chances are that they will present the theatre ready for occupancy by the opening date.

The plans for the conception and handwork of Harry Prescott Graves of this city, and it is understood that they have made such a hit with the lessees, who are well known theatrical promoters, that they have engaged Mr. Graves on some more important work out of the city. Perhaps the best feature of the plans is the economy of the architect relative to space. In a comparatively small space he has devised a comparatively large theatre.

At present a visitor to the job sees before him the unmistakable outlines of the great spectre of a fairly large and very well arranged theatre. The skeleton is already completed with its immense iron girders, its cemented brick walls of fireproof construction and its mammoth joists of Georgia pine.

In striking contrast to the steel walls of the proposed Keith theatre in Bridge street, a reporter of the Sun found a scene of the utmost animation at the scene of the new theatre on the Paige street. White property this morning. One hundred men were at work and they represented several lines of the building trade. To give an idea of what is required in building a theatre one needs but consider the many different concerns engaged on the work. The architect is Harry Prescott Graves who furnished the plans and daily supervises the construction. The general architects are the Messrs. Varnum and ex-Rep. Charles E. Varnum, personally has charge of all the work. The other contractors are sublet as follows: William H. Fuller, foundation work; Patrick Conlon brick work; Mr. Riley, plastering; Chelmsford Iron foundry, iron work; George Backlund, painting.

JENNISON'S

Tooth Powder
ALL DRUGGISTS

Bowker and Torrey, marble work; H. R. Barker steam fitting; Scott and O'Day, plumbing; Carroll Bros. metal work; Frank Weaver and Son, roofing; Mason Safety Tread company, floorings; electric lighting Derby & Co.

The approach to the theatre is in Paige street just around the corner of Bridge street, and the city pavers in smooth paving that section made an exceptionally wide sidewalk which will come in very handy when the theatre is under way. The entrance is 15 feet wide up a hardly noticeable incline. Its walls and ceilings promise to be of most attractive decorative order with gracefully arched ceiling and marble pedestals and wooden pilasters. Proceeding through the main entrance one enters direct upon the ground floor and takes a spacious stairway on the left to balcony and gallery. The balcony stairway is 10 feet wide and of easy ascent. On the ground floor or proscenium there are but four seats, and the layout is such that every seat will be a good one. The entire seating capacity will be 1500, but on both floors there is a large space in the rear for the inevitable "tail-ends," so that when the "S. R. O." sign goes up, as we hope it will often, it will mean that there are considerably more than 1500 in the house. The stage gives promise of great things, for it is 60 feet wide, 66 feet high and 23 feet deep. There will be eight double boxes in the theatre, four on each side. The gallery is supported by a number of 2x12 Georgia pine joists, 42 feet long, while the side walls are reinforced by iron trusses 70 feet long. On every side in its present rough stage there is evidence of great strength and durability throughout the construction.

A feature of the new theatre that will make it popular is the fact that it has eight exits and that the upper part has four direct exits to the street without going through the lower part of the building. There are exits on Paige, French and Brookings streets, and into an alley leading into French street, so that under any conditions the theatre may be cleared in a few minutes.

"Charlie" Varnum's Birthday
The writer was shown through the building this morning by ex-Rep. Chas. E. Varnum who is "hosting" the job and during the conversation Mr. Varnum let drop the interesting information that today is his 64th birthday and in honor of the event he will work and had a celebration with his friends at Willow Dale. Mr. Varnum is as active on a job as he was 20 years ago and says that he feels better when working than when idle. He is the oldest contractor in Lowell, now actively engaged in business.

In 1862 he started in to learn the carpentering business and in November 1870, almost 40 years ago, started in business for himself and has been continuously engaged ever since. During his life Mr. Varnum has been prominent in the business, fraternal and political life of the city. He was in the board of aldermen in 1892; in the legislature in 1893, 1897, '98 and '09. He was overseer of the poor for four years and superintendent of buildings in 1898-'97. He is a member of the Builders' Exchange, Royal Arcanum, Knights of Pythias, Highland club, Owls and Martin Luthers.

NO TRUTH TO REPORT

That Ten School Teachers Would be Dropped

Somebody, evidently with an unworthy motive, started the report that at the meeting of the school committee to be held this evening ten teachers were to be dropped. The report had it that those to be dropped had outlived their usefulness and, because of age, were incapacitated for further service.

Supt. Whitcomb was asked if he had heard anything about the dropping of the teachers. He said that he had heard the report. "I do not care to talk for the committee," said Mr. Whitcomb, "and if there are any teachers to be dropped I have not heard it from the school committee. I do not believe a word of it and I consider the report a cruel and a vicious one. I cannot speak authoritatively, however, and I would advise you to communicate with Dr. Lamoureux, president of the committee."

The reporter communicated with Dr. Lamoureux and asked him if there was any truth in the report that a number of teachers were to be dropped by the school committee at its meeting tonight.

"If there is anything of that kind in the air the president has not heard of it, and I presume if there was anything doing they would let me in," said the doctor. "No, indeed, there is absolutely no truth in the report. To start such a report was a cowardly act and no doubt it has caused a great deal of worry and annoyance to certain ones. I presume it was intended for that purpose."

"The committee does not contemplate the dropping or discharging of any of the teachers. The most important business before the board tonight will be the election of new teachers to take the place of the teachers who have resigned. You know we have had quite a number of resignations. The committee's work tonight will be to elect teachers, not to discharge them."

6 O'CLOCK ELEVATOR FELL

From Top of Building in New Bedford Today

Four Men Injured—The Elevator Man Escaped With Fracture of One Leg—Others More Seriously Hurt

NEW BEDFORD, June 28.—A breaking gear plunged an elevator containing four men from the top of the Hathaway Mill to the cellar this morning. All four men received injuries to their legs, three being carried to St. Luke's hospital and one to his home. John De Mallo, who was running the elevator, emerged from the accident with only a fractured ankle, the injuries of the other men being more severe.

The injured:

Joaquin Torres of 641 South Water street, married and has four small children. Both his ankles were fractured.

John De Mallo, 15, of 97 Belleville Road, compound fracture of the right leg between the ankle and the knee. At present, the doctors think there is no danger of amputation.

ARCTIC TROPHIES A STRANGE CASE

Question Over Disposal of Them Father Has 11 Toes and Son Has 9

BERLIN, June 28.—The charges concerning the disposition of Arctic trophies left by him at Etah, which Dr. Frederick A. Cook made against Commander Robert E. Peary during the height of the controversy over their claims of discovery of the North pole when the suit instituted against Peary by Rudolph Franke was opened.

Franke was associated with Cook in polar exploration and demands $10,000 in satisfaction of prizes of the hunt which he alleges Peary required him to surrender in consideration of bringing him back to America.

The defense sets up a general denial and further questions the jurisdiction of the court, on the grounds that the defendant is an American citizen, having no domicile in this city. After hearing the opening arguments, the court adjourned to consider the point of jurisdiction.

Commander Peary was served with papers in the suit when he came here recently to fill a lecture engagement. Peary's interests were looked after today by Attorney Jablonski, a partner of Victor Schneider, counsel to the American embassy, while Attorney Thiel represented Franke. The latter was present, but was not called to the witness stand.

The proceedings were before three judges of the provincial court. In opening for the plaintiff, Thiel spoke for more than an hour, going over the whole story of the equipment of Cook's expedition, the building of the supply station at Etah on the northwest coast of Greenland, the hunting in that vicinity, Cook's departure toward the pole, Franke's illness, the Arctic, where it deserted to Peary, and Peary's return home in the Peary relief ship Erik.

The lawyer asserted that Peary had caused the plaintiff to turn over to him certain blue fox skins, furs and narwhal tusks as the only condition upon which he would take him from Arctic, where he would die, he believed, he would die. The attorney argued that the transaction was illegal in that it was consummated under stress. He said that a pair of the narwhal tusks were later presented by Peary to Theodore Roosevelt, who some of the blue fox skins were given to President Taft and Mrs. Taft by Mrs. Peary. Counsel claimed that the German courts had jurisdiction in the matter because Franke, a German, was unable to obtain redress in the United States.

Replying for the defense, Attorney Jablonski insisted that the court had no jurisdiction for the reason that Peary had neither property nor home here. "We consented," he said, "to appear at the trial only because our absence would have been construed unfavorably in some quarters." Counsel denied the allegations of Franke from beginning to end and said that they had the same foundation as did Cook's claim that he had been at the North pole.

FOURTH OF JULY SHADOWS
Small boy
4th July.

Blue sky—
The good that may come from such depictions as above is doubtful—still it might be worse. We might have attempted to illustrate, showing by dotted line the prospects described by the party. We might have shown where the party, if any, landed, by the usual cross, SW by NW, and as is this mid-summer tide, nevertheless it has its lesson. The women who persist in cooking over a coal fire these days of white heat be just as reckless and will as sure to die by sooner or later. A "Safe Fourth" is all right in its way, but it's only one day. What about a safe kitchen and a safe cooking outfit every day in the year? That's what! A coal fire in the kitchen on July 4th! No wonder the early screams. Safe Fourth and July goods at Lowell Gas Light Appliance store in John street, Clark with gas.

CARS DISQUALIFIED
DANA, Neb., June 28.—Two Davenport cars were completely disqualified last evening following a committee meeting of the city in charge of the Fourth of July. The cars were the cause of the trouble at K. A. camp. The car was in the competition race for the Golden trophy and the other in the contest for the Chicago trophy.

The cars were disqualified on the ground that the rules had not been observed by the drivers and that they had carried their grievances to the public through the press rather than submit them to the contest board. The chief for Des Moines was made at 12 o'clock this morning.

WAS FOUND DEAD
PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 28.—A weariness of life is believed to have been the motive which caused Samuel A. Hillyard, about 80 years old and well known among the older residents of the city to commit suicide today. He was found dead in his room in an apartment house with gas flowing from two jets and the doors and windows tightly closed. About a year ago he was a beneficiary under the will of a friend, Henry D. Pearce of this city, to the extent of $3000 and nearly $100 in cash was found in his room. He had not been engaged in business for about 15 years and had lived at the hotel where he died for more than 12 years.

CHARLTON CASE

International Aspect of It is Still Complicated

NEW YORK, June 28.—With the arraignment today of Porter Charlton on the charge of murdering his wife in Italy, the case against the former bank clerk reaches a stage which is expected to result in definite progress toward its disposition.

Although the international aspect of the case is still complicated, the preliminary court action places the matter in shape where it can better be handled by diplomatic agencies. Even an expected adjournment had been counted by the preparation of proofs of the crime for presentation to the court and filing in the records.

Copies of the Italian evidence of the crime are in the hands of Gustavo Di Rosa, the Italian consular representative in New York. It was said also before the proceedings opened before Judge Blair in the court of Oyer and Terminer in Jersey City that the New Jersey authorities also had a copy of a despatch sent by the Marquis Paolo Di Montapatri, charge d'affaires at the Italian embassy in Washington, to Secretary of State Knox on the day of Charlton's arrest and requesting the young man's extradition.

In reply the marquis was stated to have received a note from Secretary Knox, in which it was anticipated that if Charlton were given up Italy would hereafter be expected to consent to the extradition of Italians who commit crimes in America and flee to Italy.

The further exchanges reported in this connection were said to have resulted in a declaration on the part of the Italian government to commit itself to any such proposition, on the ground that an Italian penal code provision of a later date than the extradition treaty with the United States provided that no Italian subject accused of crime should be tried outside his own country. Italy was said to have made no reply to the state department's rejoinder that an international treaty should take precedence over a national law.

Examinations of young Charlton by alienists will continue until the case is again called in the New Jersey court, according to a statement made by his counsel, after the hearing today.

Should Charlton be found guilty, an appeal should be granted by the United States, counsel say, that he can be kept in this country. They cite, for example, the famous Duke of Portland case, in which a witness named Caldwell was alleged, in the London courts, to have given perjured testimony. He fled to this country and was arrested. A lunacy commission subsequently examined him, but not until after extradition had been demanded by the English courts. Insanity having been established, the higher courts of the country refused to allow extradition proceedings, and Caldwell was consequently sent to a private sanitarium.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH
GLENN FALLS, N. Y., June 28.—Sam Pasco of Warren county was shot from ambush yesterday morning near Thurman on the Adirondack road and the police have arrested Ramsey Wilsey, a well to do farmer, Wilsey denies the shooting. Pasco is a son of Alexander Pasco, who was murdered several years ago by Cal Wood. Wood was put to death at Dannemora, but young Pasco vowed vengeance on the Wood family. This feud was started and Pasco has since made life miserable for many Warren county men. Several years ago he fired a large tract of timber land and for this he was sent to Dannemora.

FLAMES EXTINGUISHED
The sounding of an alarm from box 55, the private fire alarm box in the Lowell Machine shop yard, at 12.54 o'clock this afternoon caused considerable excitement and attracted hundreds of people to the scene. The sight of huge volumes of dense black smoke pouring from the yard gave every indication that there was a lively blaze in progress. There was more smoke than fire, however, and the damage will be small.

A bottle of tar in the yard got afire and the flames communicated with some lumber which was piled nearby. Shortly after the arrival of the department the flames were extinguished.

OATH OF 1910
Prompted by the appeal made to them by Mayor Gaynor to work for the well being and good name of their city, this year's graduating class of the College of the City of New York have all subscribed to an oath based on the epic oath of ancient Athens, pledging themselves never to let the citizens of their city by any act of dishonesty or cowardice. The oath signed by the graduates and engrossed upon sheepskin was presented yesterday to the mayor by Jacob Hoffman, a member of the class. Some of the obligations undertaken by the class were:

"That we will revere and obey the city's laws and do our best to instill a like respect and reverence in those above us who are prone to annul them and set them at naught; that we will strive unceasingly to quicken the public sense of civic duty, and thus in all these ways we will transmit this city not only not less but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

Mayor Gaynor told young Mr. Hoffman that he would have the sheepskin framed and hung in his library.

SENATOR McENERY DEAD
NEW ORLEANS, June 28.—United States Senator Samuel Douglas McEnery died at his home here today, shortly before 10 o'clock.

Senator McEnery arrived from Washington yesterday morning, suffering from an attack of indigestion. He was taken to his home here, where physicians were hastily summoned. He rallied somewhat after lunch, but late last night his condition took a turn for the worse and early this morning he lapsed into unconsciousness.

Senator McEnery was in his 74th year and his health had not been good for several years. Death came at twenty minutes to 10 this morning.

ATTORNEY GENERAL

Declares College Trained Lawyer to be the Man

CAMBRIDGE, June 28.—The college trained lawyer will solve the great legal and economic questions of government in this and the next generation. That is the opinion of Attorney General Wickham.

He will not be the man whose only acquaintance with the principles of law and government has been derived from text books and lectures, such a man would not be equipped to cope with them. He must be the man who has found the "living law," as it has been developed in the real transactions of men. Except with possible rare exceptions, the day of the plodding student who read his Blackstone in a desultory, unmethodical, interrupted fashion from the dusty shelves of some practicing counselor, is over. The college trained lawyer of this and the coming generations will solve the problems of government in the man who has mastered the principles and doctrines of law as a science through the selection, classification and analysis of adjudged cases involving their application.

The attorney general speaking here today before the Harvard Law School Association on the Relation of Legal Education to Governmental Problems, predicted that the lawyer who obtains those qualifications will be the man who can successfully cope with the great questions which will be presented for solution with the growth and expansion of this country.

"It is only by the labors, the thought, and the criticism of men who have found the living law, as it has been actually developed by the real transactions of men—that our government may be governed and guided on safe and progressive lines and our jurisprudence developed along paths of natural, sound and wholesome growth," declared the attorney general.

"The wise man who asks questions as these can only be reached by men who are able to deal with facts and principles as compared with information acquired and memory."

Mr. Wickham made an able address in his opening words, he declared he had been able to obtain such leisure from the duties of official life and referred to himself as "an overburdened public official whose mind was necessarily crowded with the prosaic and exacting details of government."

"Contentment with mediocrity," Mr. Wickham continued, "is in my opinion, one of the greatest dangers which confronts successful democracy everywhere. The hope of averting it rests largely with men of sound legal education."

Then, this same contentment with mediocrity breeds an impatience with any sort of superiority, a desire to belittle all excellence, a readiness to impute wrong motives to anything not easily understood, to accept calumny as truth, without inquiry, and a gradual lessening for advancement, as it is perceived that peace, which is often mistaken for happiness, is alone to be found by accepting contentedly a place in the undistinguished multitude."

Here the attorney general quoted

WARDANI HANGED

Was Assassin of the Egyptian Premier

CAIRO, Egypt, June 28.—Ibrahim Wardani, the assassin of Boutros Pasha Ghal, the Egyptian premier and minister of foreign affairs, was hanged today.

Wardani was an Egyptian student and a member of the nationalist party. On Feb. 20 last he shot the premier as the latter was leaving the ministry for foreign affairs. His victim died on the following day. At his trial the murderer said that his motive was to avenge various acts of the government which the nationalists attributed to Boutros Pasha personally.

During his visit here Theodore Roosevelt addressed the students of the University of Cairo, and in the course of his remarks roundly denounced the assassination, saying that those who condoned the act stood on the pinnacle of evil and infamy. Subsequently students affiliated with the political opposition to British rule in Egypt gathered before Mr. Roosevelt's hotel and made a rather mild demonstration of dissent from the sentiments expressed by the former president.

KILLED HIMSELF

Man Drank Arsenate of Lead

CRANSTON, R. I., June 28.—Prevented by his wife from shooting himself last night, James H. Greene, 22, today drank a solution of arsenate of lead which caused his death almost instantly. He had been despondent because of the death of two of his children and his mother within a few months. He had been employed by the state board of agriculture in the work of exterminating the elm beetle and used arsenate of lead to spray the trees with. Besides a widow he is survived by two other children.

BATES COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

LEWISTON, Me., June 28.—The Bates college commencement exercises continued today with the class day exercises as the feature. The seniors, 73 in number, with Carl Z. Jackson of Clinton, Mass., as marshal, and Clarence P. Quinby of Turner as president, assembled in Hathorn hall at 2 o'clock to conduct the following program:

Prayer by Leon A. Luce of Dryden, class chaplain; history, Miss Nellie A. Baker of Auburn; oration, Peter I. Lawton of Auburn; address to undergraduates, Orel M. Beau of Pittsfield; poem, Miss Georgia T. Harmon of Chelmsford; address, halls and campus, Horatio N. Dorman, Franklin, N. H.; prophecy for women, Miss Alice P. Hall of Turner; prophecy for men, Paul C. Thurston of Bethel; farewell address, Delbert Andrews of Jefferson; class ode, Miss Martha Harmon of Penacook, N. H.; composer, solo oration, Emerson Cole of South Paris.

Windows were removed from the hall and electric fans were installed to cool the temperature.

Eight class reunions were held in the forenoon and the evening feature will be the illumination of the college campus.

WAR ON "RATS" AND "PUFFS"

A widespread crusade is now being carried on everywhere against the wearing of "rats" and "puffs" by women. Department stores and other institutions where girls are employed are posting notices flatly forbidding such head dresses. Doctors are denouncing them as "unhygienic dust and germ catchers." "Rats" and "puffs" are not merely unbecoming, but they are the direct cause of falling hair and baldness in women. The net-work of veins in the scalp are destroyed by the heat and pressure of these artificial masses of hair and fiber, and the natural result is baldness and disease. The best thing to do is restoring the scalp to a healthy condition is Birt's Head Wash, particularly in cases where there is dandruff, itching scalp and hair that falls out. This is the new scientific preparation with the full formula on every package. Tubes 25c, jars 50c.

EXPRESS DELIVERY

Big Protest to be Made at Board of Trade This Evening

Manchester & Concord Co. the Only One to Deliver to City Limits—American Express Limit Bars Out 1600 Families

The board of trade's big mass meeting relative to the present express delivery conditions will be held this evening in the board of trade rooms and, judging from the number of letters that Secretary Murphy has received commenting upon the matter, a vigorous protest will be made while a large attendance is assured despite the warm weather.

It has been estimated that under the limit established by the American Express company 1600 families, or more than half the population of Lowell, are barred from free delivery.

Regarding the limit placed by the express companies there is one notable exception which has not received due credit and that is the Manchester & Concord company, of which John M. Mahany is local manager.

When seen by a reporter of The Sun today Mr. Mahany was averse to being quoted, on the ground that he might be accused of trying to turn an interview into an advertisement for his own company, but as he is to appear at the meeting tonight and then explain how his company stands in the matter he was prevailed upon to give his views, and he said:

"About the only place to which we haven't delivered goods in our teams is to Waverlyville, and then we have had someone else deliver them. My orders to the drivers are, 'If the address is in Lowell, deliver the goods, don't bring them back to the office. We deliver to the city limits and sometimes beyond. I don't think the public has any fault to find with the service of the Manchester & Concord.'"

A man familiar with the express business in Lowell said to the writer: "I hope someone at that meeting tonight will ask the Am. Express people what

LYNN, Mass., June 28.—Harboring the belief that he will shortly be executed for his part in the killing of the shoe manufacturer, Thomas A. Landon, Saturday, William J. LODGER IS HELD

Larceny is the Charge That Was Made Against Him

Cornelius Reardon, who was arrested by the Lawrence police yesterday on a warrant issued by the local police and who was subsequently brought to this city by Inspector Martin A. Maher, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of silver valued at $32, the property of Kate Hornbrook, who conducts a lodging house at 69 Tyler street. Reardon entered a plea of not guilty and at his request the case was continued till Thursday morning, being held under $300 bonds.

It is alleged that Reardon was a lodger at Mrs. Hornbrook's house and left without notifying her on May 20. At the same time she alleges that she discovered that some of her valuable silver was missing, including a teapot, creamer, cup and knives, forks and spoons. She immediately notified the police and according to the information which the local police received from her they suspected Reardon, but were unable to locate him until the day before yesterday when it was learned that he was working in Lawrence. A warrant was issued for his arrest and forwarded to the Lawrence police and yesterday morning two of the downriver inspectors took him into custody.

Stubborn Child Surrendered

Matthew Ryan, a young man who stands over six feet in his stocking feet, and who recently appeared in police court and was placed on probation on condition that he would go to work, was yesterday surrendered by Probation Officer Slattery on complaint of the young man's mother and this morning Ryan was in court again. He put up a pitiful appeal for another chance, claiming that he had work to go to and that he would not have been surrendered but for the fact that his mother and sisters wanted to send him away, but the story of the mother and sisters differed very much from that told by the boy and Ryan was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory. He appealed and was held under $200 for his appearance before the grand jury.

GETS A DIVORCE

Mrs. King Granted Separation From Husband

BOSTON, June 28.—Divorce from her husband, Thomas White King, custody of their three-year-old child, Cornelia, and $40 a month alimony were awarded to Mrs. Cornelia Peabody King by Judge Richardson yesterday afternoon in the Suffolk divorce court at the end of the suit for divorce entered by Mrs. King on grounds of gross and confirmed intoxication.

In granting the decree Judge Richardson spoke of the charge brought against Wentworth C. Bacon of New York, who had been named by the husband as co-respondent, and said that no evidence had been shown that the offence had been committed.

When the question of alimony came up King's lawyer said that the once rich clubman and New York broker would be unable to pay anything. Mr. King declared during the case that he was penniless and was living practically on charity at a sanitarium at 524 Warren street, Boston. The judge granted him permission to see the child once a month under condition of first giving the mother two days' notice.

Mr. King, Mrs. King and Wentworth C. Bacon were all witnesses yesterday. King testified as to the occasion named in the charge brought against him. He testified that since the divorce examination said that since the episode his relations with Mr. Bacon had been "gentlemanly." He said that he had never drunk liquor to intoxication.

Dr. Frederick Taylor testified that when Mr. King first went to the sanitarium for treatment he was not drunk, but was nervous. He said that Mr. King might at one time have suffered from acute alcoholism.

George Clark, steward at the St. Anthony club in New Haven, was called by counsel for Mrs. King and testified to having helped put Mr. King to bed when he became intoxicated at the club last December. William A. Manning of the brokerage firm of Schumaker and Bates, 37 Wall street, next testified that Mr. King was intoxicated some months ago. On this occasion Mr. King had said that he had drunk a quart and a half of whiskey.

Mrs. King was recalled, and denied that she had ever been guilty of any improper conduct with Mr. Bacon. The next witness was the coroner, Greenfield. He said that he and King had been on friendly terms, and that he had never heard Mr. King say anything against his wife, and the first time he had an inkling of Mr. King's intention to charge his wife with an offence was in April or May of this year.

Mrs. King will join her child, Cornelia, who is now at York Harbor.

CITY OF WOBURN

Asks Injunction Against Rifle Association

BOSTON, June 28.—Claiming that their houses and the occupants are in constant danger from stray bullets and that the neighborhood is dangerous to human life, seven residents of Woburn, Antoine Shydecker, William Spillbury, George A. Anderson, Geo. F. Russell, Hiram J. Archer, Leon V. Dunn, Glenn L. Archer, A. F. Luford, Anna Shydecker and Selena Shydecker, as complainants, have filed a petition in the East Cambridge courts, asking that an injunction may be issued against the Massachusetts Rifle association from allowing any target shooting from the rifle ranges at Woburn.

Three dwelling houses and two green houses, according to the bill of complaint of the petitioners, have been struck by bullets from the rifle range, a dining room in one house having been shattered and the bullet having been found in the room, and in another house a bullet passed completely through the wall of the house, all within a few months.

The petitioners ask that an injunction may be issued restraining the Massachusetts Rifle association or any of the members from allowing target practice on the range.

WOMAN FOR PRESIDENT

CHICAGO, June 28.—Real political campaign methods have been adopted by Chicago school teachers in their effort to make Mrs. Ella W. Young, superintendent of the Chicago schools, the next president of the National Educational association at Boston next week. Realizing the value of music in catching the attention of the crowd, they have prepared two songs which they will sing in chorus in the convention hall.

One of them is entitled "Boston" and is to be sung to the tune of "Dixie." Rehearsals will be held on the special train which will leave Chicago Thursday.

ZIONISTS' MEETING

PITTSBURG, June 28.—The first delegation to the 13th annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists began to arrive here last night. Over 300 are expected to be here when the convention opens Friday. This year's convention is regarded as one of the most important the Zionists ever held in view of the movement now afoot to reclaim Palestine for the oppressed Jews.

Phila. Pitcher Gets Second Trial by Lowell

LYNN, June 28.—The trying out of Feaster, a Philadelphia pitcher, directly upon his arrival from that city resulted disastrously for Lowell yesterday. Lynn scored its three runs in the first inning, driving Feaster to the bench. The final score was Lynn 3, Lowell 0. Tyler, who replaced Feaster pitched a steady game. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

Lynn here today.

Feaster, the Philadelphia National pitcher, who was tried by Lowell and found wanting earlier in the season, is with us again for a second trial. He received a beating at Lynn yesterday.

Swormstedt, whom Billy Hamilton originally introduced to the writer as "Swampscott," held Lowell down to two hits yesterday.

We must bat to win, and win to prosper.

And with all our faults, we still have it on Haverhill and Brockton.

Jack Cunningham, pitcher for the Knights of Columbus team, could do a better job on the mound for Lowell than some of the big league cast-offs if he were given an opportunity.

JACK JOHNSON

RENO, Nev., June 28.—Experts on physical conditions are as common as wine agents here, and every day the training camps of Jeffries and Johnson are filled with men who have made a study of conditions. These men are not hired to boost the fight, but to observe the men and give a flat opinion on the evidence. They visit Jeffries and come back all out of adjectives. "A marvel" is the verdict. They visit Johnson and find him the finest specimen of black humanity on record.

"A black fighting machine in perfect order," they say. This may be taken as a guarantee that the championship of the world will be decided in a hard, fast fight, neither man having any great advantage in condition or strength. In such cases the best man will win—the best fighting man. Since Johnson left his auto in the San Francisco garage there has been nothing left for the champion but work. The last few days have been very warm, a program of what the fighters may have to face on the Fourth of July. Johnson likes heat. All his out of door work at Rick's hotel has been done in the warm sunshine, which brings the sweat out of him in streams. The heat, while almost tropical in its intensity, is the dry heat of the desert. Johnson is a human salamander. The heat has a great effect upon Al Kaufman, and it is admitted that Al was never better in his life, but Johnson does his stunts without showing any signs of discomfort.

Gigantic Dirigible Designed by a Famous Engineer

LONDON, June 28.—Two fascinating schemes for airship services between England and America and between London and Berlin have just come to light.

Herbert French, in the Daily Chronicle, tells a remarkable story about the completion of designs for an entirely new type of airship named "Blue Bird," designed by a famous engineer, who is a professor of engineering in a German university, one of Count Zeppelin's right hand men and one of his trusted friends.

It is an airship which can carry inside the keel a crew of 10 persons, two engines forward, two engines aft, and on the under side of the keel, which is 160 feet in length, is a series of immense petrol reservoirs.

"This huge ship," says Mr. French, offers far less resistance to progress through the atmosphere than any ship hitherto constructed, while owing to its extremely simple design it can carry more power than any other. Moreover, it is maneuvered with surprising ease. The whole command of the ship is concentrated in the hands of the pilot in the centre of the keel, and at his hand are very simple appliances, which at a finger touch put in or throw out of action, as desired, the motors, propellers, rudder, ventilators and valves.

"It was a wonderful sight to watch Mr. Kipling's face when the plans of the Blue Bird airship were laid before him the other day and to watch the gradual kindling of his enthusiasm. He could hardly believe his eyes. The novelist's own story had been realized by the engineer. It was a case of Adam's dream. He awoke and found it true."

"The Blue Bird airship can carry five tons of petrol. It can stay 50 hours in the air. It can rise to a height of 10,000 feet above the level of the sea. It has a maximum speed of 50 miles an hour, and consequently a radius of action over no less than 4000 miles without descending.

"The next remarkable feature of this airship is that by the construction of its engine it can use either gas or petrol at the same time or separately, thus means automatically lessening its weight by using petrol (which it carries as ballast) and then using gas to prevent the rise which otherwise the decrease in weight would cause. This reinforcement of petrol by the use of hydrogen gas is an absolutely new feature, and the result of the combination is to increase the radius of action and distance of flight by no less than one-third.

"Cruisers of the Blue Bird type will be no less important for purposes of national defence. In a few moments this ship can be transformed into a war ship of absolutely infernal power, provision having been made for carrying, in case of need, of a Maxim gun and a ton weight of a very high explosive. There will also be a torpedo boat for the emission of torpedoes. These weapons will be of a weight equivalent to the number of extra passengers carried in time of peace.

"Blue Bird airships will be incomparable commercial instruments, and, without machines of war so terrible as to make war well nigh impossible."

When you pack your trunk for vacation put in a bottle of Dow's Eucalypti and Chelone Syrup. Sure cure for summer ills.

MRS. SHERMAN ILL
BALTIMORE, Md., June 28.—Mrs. James S. Sherman, wife of Vice President Sherman, who is a patient at Johns Hopkins hospital, was reported today to have passed a fairly good night last night. It was added at the hospital that she had improved somewhat since her arrival at the institution and that her case was not regarded as serious.

THE FIGHTING CAMP

Anxiously Awaiting the Visit of Gov. Dickerson

RENO, Nev., June 28.—Reno today is awaiting the arrival of Governor Dickerson who, it is understood, is returning to Carson City from Ely and intends to make a brief stop here. Just what would be the governor's purpose in coming to this city has not been stated, but in view of his numerous demands that he would interfere in any way with the fight no one admits the belief that it would be connected with the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

The news received there last night, however, of the circulation in Chicago of another rumor that the fight would be called off lends added interest to the expected visit of the chief executive of the state. Tex Rickard and Governor Dickerson are said to be old friends and though the promoter received a telegram directly from the governor from Ely giving positive assurances that he would not try to prevent the fight, Rickard wants to hear from the governor's own lips the constantly revived reports of intervention are without foundation.

"I can't imagine who is doing all this 'no fight' talk," Rickard said to a group of newspaper correspondents last night during a general discussion of the Chicago rumor. "If there was the least bit of truth in it I think it would be reasonable to suppose that the Nevada people would hear the news before it leaked out in San Francisco or Chicago."

"These rumors do us harm because they lead people in the east to believe that they will have their trip for nothing. That is why I am so anxious to have the governor come here and tell you newspaper men what he has told me in his telegram that there is absolutely no intention on his part to attempt to call off the fight."

Rapid headway is being made on the arena. A force of 175 men are working ten hours a day to have it completed by next Friday and so marked was the progress yesterday that the contractors said it would be possible to finish the job Thursday night. The plans call for a seating capacity of about 17,000, but, according to Rickard it may be necessary to enlarge the structure. If necessary another platform will be placed behind the rear top seats, providing standing room for about 4,000 people, thus bringing the complete capacity of the arena up to 21,000. It is estimated that more than 400,000 feet of lumber and five tons of nails must be put into the building.

One of the biggest single orders for tickets yet received came last night. Representatives of three towns in the northwestern part of the state and whose combined population figures only 2,000 made joint application. It is said for 1,700 seats. Thus far the greatest demand has been for the high priced reservations.

Well known ring volantes continued to pour in yesterday. One of the latest arrivals is Eddie McKeown of Winnipeg, who claims to have held the heavyweight championship of Canada from 1881 to 1885. It was stated by McKeown that he had been commissioned by friends in Canada to bet $25,000 on the approaching fight.

Jack Kilrain will arrive here from Boston, Friday, according to advices received by John L. Sullivan. There probably will be no marked acceleration of betting in Reno until the arrival of Tom Corbett from San Francisco. James Corbett is understood to be here to secure a convenient location for the official betting commission. Corbett is promised commission by Jimmy Lister of Sausalito, Cal., who is arranging for a pool room. Jim Jeffries' hard work yesterday was one of the principal topics of conversation last night, and the opinion seemed to be shared by all that he was apparently in the finest possible trim and ready for the greatest battle of his career.

The utmost confidence in the outcome of the contest is professed by the friends and followers of both fighters. The Moana Springs crew say Jeffries is absolutely certain of his ability to win, that he is giving less thought to his own condition than to that of his pet terror which is suffering from an attack of distemper.

CHICAGO SPORTS DIVIDED

CHICAGO, June 28.—Two sets of betting odds on the Jeffries-Johnson battle were named yesterday by a prominent stock yards bookmaker. In the one Jeffries is quoted at three to five, Johnson is the choice at eight to five in the other. The heavyweights probably will enter the arena evenly backed by Chicago fight followers. From the south side, especially in the colored colony, Johnson will draw tremendous support.

3,000 GOING TO FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Betting on the Jeffries-Johnson fight took an unexpected turn yesterday. Following a heavy Johnson rally Sunday night the odds rose yesterday to ten to seven. Several bets were made at this price, though there is much Johnson money at better offer. The odds fell again and thousands of dollars were wagered at 10 to 9.

"Ten to six seems to be about right to me," said Tom Corbett. "On account of the heavy Johnson play Sunday it was to be expected that the odds would go up a bit. I think the present odds will prevail until the day of the fight."

It is estimated that at least 3,000 San Franciscans will go to Reno.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

East Merrimack street is in great need of repair. It is rough and uneven, causing jolts and shocks to those who ride over it in carriages and automobiles. It will be too bad if that street cannot be paved before the fall.

ANOTHER BOY DROWNED

Another drowning accident recorded because a boy of sixteen did not know how to swim. There should be no boy of that age in Lowell unable to swim. When boys go boating they should be careful to guard against accidents, especially to those who cannot swim. But it is useless to lecture young people of the danger. The only remedy is to provide public baths at which all can learn to swim.

LESSONS OF THE LYNN TRAGEDY

The Lynn tragedy of Saturday made a few things very clear, and among them are these:

First, it is a foolish custom for anybody on foot to carry a load of money from a bank along a public street. An auto could be used with advantage in such a case.

Second, the time has arrived when every first class police department must be equipped with a fast auto for pursuit of criminals.

Third, some action should be taken as soon as possible in the direction of restricting the sale of dangerous firearms with a view to preventing anarchists from securing such weapons.

Fourth, every efficient police department should be trained to the riot call, to gun practice and a good sharp sprint as even in their ordinary work the men are frequently required to try their speed.

FINDING THEIR LIFE WORK

Now that a great many graduates have completed their school education they are face to face with the problem of selecting their life work. This in most cases is a difficult matter. For some who fall easily into the business pursued by parents or relatives there is very little trouble. But for the majority it is a case of looking around to find some employment or occupation for which they are by nature adapted.

Many pupils leave the grammar schools and even the high school without knowing their own aptitudes. The manual training course in the high school is well adapted to assist the pupils in finding their own aptitudes in the mechanical line. In this respect alone it is of great advantage to those who take it up. But unfortunately the majority of the grammar school graduates do not enter the high school. They have to take what they can get in the line of employment, making the most of their future opportunities to get what they want.

It is well in such cases for young people not to be too hard to please. They should make up their minds that they cannot get what they want just at the time they want it. They should make the most of what they can get and watch for an opportunity for something better. One of the things that ruins the life of many a young man is, that he has an abhorrence for manual labor; he wants some kind of a genteel position where he will have no hard work, no heavy lifting, where he can sit down and take things easy. There are thousands of tramps on the road today throughout the United States simply because they started out with that same feeling. The boy who will get along is the one who is not afraid of work, who learns to use his hands in conjunction with his brain, who trains his perceptive faculties, learns to obey and is ready to take a hand at anything.

There is one kind of boy that is wanted nowhere. He is the boy who is never ready to do anything when he is told to do it, who always asks why he is told to do such a thing, why it would not do as well at some other time, or why somebody else should not do it. In the rush of business nobody would be bothered with any such boy. The young people who go out looking for work should, therefore, make up their minds to follow orders strictly without any hesitation or protest.

The one great aim for a graduate after leaving school should be to secure an opportunity to learn some good trade. It doesn't take a boy very long to learn a trade if he attends to his business and makes good use of his time. It matters not that a boy should have an ambition to go higher. The acquisition of a trade will help him even in that direction. Once he has learned the trade he is self-reliant and has a guarantee of support while striving for something better.

In seeking success it will be well for boys to remember that those who rise to distinction in the vast majority of cases concentrate their powers upon one single aim or one line of business. It is useless to attempt to be a jack-of-all-trades. That means failure. The tendency of the age is to specialize. The man who makes a specialty of one thing can attain excellence far above what he could attain if he endeavored to excel in a great many things. Another point is to complete whatever he begins. It is useless to build the foundation of a house unless the superstructure follows.

There are thousands of trades available to young people throughout any manufacturing city. Every mill is a great busy hive of mechanical trades. The same may be said of the machine shop, of a shoe shop and in fact of every factory that can be mentioned. The textile school teaches almost all the textile trades and it offers splendid opportunities for young men who want to engage in the textile business. Then there are commercial trades acquired in the stores, the banking houses and railway stations. There are a vast number of trades that have to do with providing food, clothing and shelter. These may be considered staple trades in which a good man will find employment almost anywhere he goes. There are in connection with the printing business a great number of trades, all of which are comparatively clean and remunerative.

The one great trouble with most of the desirable trades is, that they are guarded by unions who limit the number of apprentices in most establishments. In spite of all obstacles, however, new hands are in demand as the old are passing out and the school graduate who looks around will be able to find something adapted to his abilities and his tastes, something in which he can make a respectable living and from which he can rise with industry and thrift to a calling that will bring a greater income.

SEEN AND HEARD

Children who apply to librarians for books present all kinds of letters from parents and teachers containing instructions as to the kind of literature they think it advisable for their young charges to imbibe, but this masterpiece was handed in one day last week:

Dear Lady: Please send by Bortha a book that will agree with her. He is 43 years old, has never been much of a reader; is laid up with a lame back, no appetite, but terrible thirst all the time; a quick pulse and temperature that stays at about 101. Please send something that will not excite him and send his temperature up any higher.

It took a consultation of all the high-brows in the library to prescribe a literary dose for a patient that would not conflict with the medical bureau. They sent him "The Swiss Family Robinson." His temperature did not go up.

"I always manage to land in New York over the Fourth," said a western traveling man. "I've been here for six consecutive Fourth's and there's no place like it for a combination of quiet and comfort. Seashore places are crowded and noisy and I don't get half the solid comfort and rest that I do right here. So many people being away from the city has a particularly clean, restful, quiet, and wherever you go there's no crowd and no about many people but that you're sure to be well served and attended to. People who haven't gone away the night before generally start so early that morning that by noon the excursion boats aren't crowded and the trolley cars are positively empty. In the city I go up on some of your many fine roads, gardens and eat a little something and watch the fireworks from all around. I've had a quiet, restful day, haven't heard any noise, haven't been in any crowds and feel like patting myself on the back for knowing enough to spend my Fourth of July in New York city."

On a street car recently a young bachelor who is fond of children gave his attention to a little tot who interested him very much. Presently the child began to cry, and despite the efforts of the young mother, it continued to make anything but a joyful noise. Everyone in the car seemed to be annoyed, and this only stimulated the mother of the child to try to calm the lusty youngster. The bachelor thought that his interest in children was an indication of his capacity for calming them, and volunteered a theory which perhaps was based upon his own earlier experience. "Perhaps there's a pin sticking in him," he whispered to the mother, and after the manner of one who is familiar with all the complexities and troubles of a baby's life, thinking evidently that the mother of the child didn't understand him, the young man reaffirmed his theory. This was too much for the young woman, for at last she said in a tone of scorn with much emphasis, "No, there's no pin sticking in him, he's scared because you're making faces at him." Thereupon, the bachelor lapsed into an abrupt pensiveness.

Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university, was walking across the campus the other day with the dean of one of the colleges, when the chiming in the library tower began to ring.

"Dean," said he, "the music of those chiming is so beautiful that it always sets me dreaming of the past. My boyhood days—"

"What do you say?" interrupted the venerable dean.

"I say the chiming is very, very beautiful. They make me think—"

"What?" yelled the dignified old dean again.

"The chiming—the chiming—how beautiful—"

HER COMING IN AUTUMN
When the maple turns to crimson
And the aspen turns to gold;
When the gentle rain is falling
And the stars are on the world;
When the moon is wrapped in vapor
And the night is frosty cold;

When the chestnut drops are opened
And the acorns burp like hail,
And the daisies are still
With the thumping of the fall
With the drumming of the partridge
And the whistling of the quail—

Through the rustling wood I wander,
Through the jewels of the year,
From the yellow leaves are falling
Seeking her that still is dear.
She is near me in the Autumn
She, the beautiful, is near.

Through the smoke of burning Summer,
When the weary winds are still,
I can see her in the valley.
I can see her on the hill—
In the splendor of the woodlands,
In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven
Meet and mingle in the blue;
She can wander down the glory
To the places that she knew.
Where the happy lovers wandered
In the days when life was true.

So I think, when days are sweetest
And the world is wholly fair,
She may come some time steal upon me
Through the dimness of the air,
With the cross upon her bosom
And the amaranth in her hair.

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her
And to hold her gently fast
Till I blessed her, till she blessed me,
Then were but the days of the past.
That were bliss beyond our meetings
In the Autumns of the last.

J. Mortimer Titus of Boston and Portland and with a host of friends in this city, made his annual visit to Lowell over Sunday as the guest of his old friend, William F. Foye of the Park hotel. Mr. Titus has been many years in the employ of the Eastern Steamship company as head clerk on the Gov. Dingley, the Gov. Cobb and the Bay State, and will be recalled by passengers on the Portland steamer as the handsome and courteous gentleman who takes tickets and answers accurately every old kind of a question about the states of Maine and Massachusetts and the cities of Boston and Portland, fired at him by nervous passengers. Mr. Titus has returned to his old love, the good steamer Bay State, which, after six months in dry dock, is in commission once more, but so changed as to be hardly recognizable. The remodeled Bay State has 80 new staterooms, making 250 in all, and is entirely new from her main deck up. Instead of the old fashioned sidewheels which furnished the propelling power the Bay State is now equipped with smaller machinery, and has a new hull her additional speed and less vibration in proceeding along her course. The most familiar part of the new Bay State is the pilot house, where Captain Linseott, an old and valued officer of the Eastern company, is again at the wheel. Captain Linseott has piloted the eastern coast for over 40 years without an accident, and it there's a rock or shoal between Boston and Portland that he doesn't know it must have been slipped in there while he was on his vacation last winter. Purser Crocker and Steward Lev Farmer, two other well known officers, are back on their old jobs on the Bay State.

The trustees of the University of Chicago have granted to Professor Casar Bolza of the mathematical department permission to spend the rest of his life in Freiburg, Germany. He will draw the same salary he received when active. After being connected with the university since its foundation, eighteen years ago, Professor Bolza made known to the trustees that he desired to retire as a professor and spend his time in study in Germany.

Sunday school, but he nearly missed one week. He got up at 4 o'clock, took his gun and went into the cornfield to scare the crows away; went back in time for breakfast, then went out, put two shoes on one of his horses, hitched the horse to the harrow and went to the field and commenced to harrow. When he had come over his husband, went out and asked Mr. Boore why he was not going to Sunday school. "He had lost sight of the fact that it was Sunday morning, and was thunder-struck when Mrs. Boore convinced him it was Sunday. The horse was quickly taken from the harrow, hooked to another vehicle, and after a hasty toilet Mr. and Mrs. Boore went on their way to Sunday school.

Gertrude Atherton went to the Yosemite at the beginning of June, but finding it a very hot dusty, uncomfortable and overrated place, changed her mind about staying there for a month, and promptly returned to San Francisco. She knows of three or four places in Europe far more beautiful and infinitely more interesting and accessible than by a five hour drive over boulders in clouds of dust and a sweltering heat. Mrs. Atherton finds San Francisco an ideal place for work, being nearly always cool and bracing; so she will remain there till she goes to Europe, at the end of the summer.

Out of so unpromising a subject as the income tax, Bernard Shaw has managed to draw a column and a half, London Times measure, of cheerful comment and contradiction. The special commissioners have called on Mr. Shaw to make a formal statement of his income. He replies, in part:

(2) Direction (e), page 2, reads as follows: "The income of a married woman living with her husband is deemed by the income tax acts to be his income, and full particulars thereof must be included in any statement of income rendered by him for the purpose of super-tax." Now I have absolutely no means of ascertaining my wife's income except by asking her for the information. Her property is a separate property. She keeps a separate banking account, a separate bank. Her solicitor is not my solicitor. I can make a guess at her means from her style of living, exactly as the surveyor of income tax does when he makes a shot at an assessment in the absence of exact information; but beyond that I have no more knowledge of her income than I have of yours. I have therefore asked her to give me a statement. She refuses, on principle. As far as I know, I have no legal means of compelling her to make any such disclosure; and if I had, it does not follow that I am bound to incur law costs to obtain information which is required not by myself but by the state. Clearly, however, it is in the power of the commissioners to compel my wife to make a full disclosure of her income, for the purposes of a separate property. She keeps a separate banking account, a separate bank. Her solicitor is not my solicitor. I have therefore asked her to give me a statement. She refuses, on principle. As far as I know, I have no legal means of compelling her to make any such disclosure; and if I had, it does not follow that I am bound to incur law costs to obtain information which is required not by myself but by the state. THE PUBLIC HALL

For the Washington Tavern Site—Recommends to City Council That Price be Reduced or a Different Site Selected

At a meeting of the special committee on Huntington held last night it was voted to recommend to the city council that that body inform the public hall commission that $70,000 be deemed excessive for the Old Washington tavern site. Three-fourths of the committee, however, favored the site.

In the early stages of the meeting Councilman Flanagan moved that the committee recommend the appropriation of $70,000 for the Washington tavern site.

Ald. Dexter said that $70,000 was too much. He favored the site but he thought it ought to be seized and a reasonable sum paid.

Mr. Qua read the provision creating the Huntington hall commission and was of the opinion that the land could be seized by the commissioners without the passage of an order.

Mr. Butler said that very few cities in the country had a better opportunity to have its public buildings in a square than did Lowell and he did not believe in scattering them to the four winds.

Mr. Qua said that if a site in Moody street opposite the municipal buildings was selected it would mean the passing of the shackles that are an eyesore today.

Mr. Butler said that somebody asked him the other day why they did not abolish the Huntington hall commission.

"Why don't they abolish the common council?" asked Mr. Flanagan.

"They will some day," said Mr. Qua.

Mr. Qua said that the Old Washington tavern site is assessed for $62,000. "The commission has chosen the Old Washington tavern site," said Mr. Butler, "and why isn't it up to us to recommend that the sum asked by the commission be appropriated by the city government?" Nobody could see the hall if it were built on that site unless he stood directly in front of it. One couldn't see it in Middlesex street or in Central street until one got beyond Tower's corner.

After more discussion Ald. Dexter moved that the committee recommend to the city council that that body inform the Huntington hall commission that $70,000 be considered excessive as a price for a site for a public hall and that the commission be requested to report to the city council if the site recommended by them, or some other suitable site, can be purchased for a lesser sum. It was so voted.

The committee voted to recommend that the public hall and the public hall be in the same building.

REV. FR. WATTELLE

Gave Lecture on Visits to Lourdes

One of the most interesting lectures heard by the French people of Lowell in a long time was given at St. Joseph's college last evening, by Rev. Fr. Wattle, O. M. I., on the subject of "Lourdes." The hall was packed to the doors and the speaker held the rapt attention of his audience throughout.

Fr. Wattle was twice a visitor at Lourdes, first as a student and later in the early days of his priesthood. He also served as a "braveardier," or volunteer stretcher-bearer, who helped to carry the sick pilgrims from the trains to the grotto.

In opening his lecture, Fr. Wattle gave the history of Bernadette Soubirous and of the 18 apparitions of the Virgin which came to her in 1858, and from which grew out the marvelous pilgrimages of Lourdes, which bring tens and hundreds of thousands of sufferers to the miraculous grotto and healing fountain of the shrine.

"Lourdes," said the lecturer, "is much beyond what your imagination could picture. It would be a miracle should you be able to conceive, without having been there, its full significance. It is at once the scene of the greatest human misery in the world, the scene of the most magnificent outburst of faith, the scene also of the greatest proofs of kindness God is willing to show his children when they have faith in him. After Lourdes, one feels that there can be heaven only."

The pilgrimages and processions, the lecturer said, are the most wonderful feature of Lourdes, wonderful as is Lourdes itself, sprung with its three basins and other lofty religious monuments from what was 53 years ago a marshy wilderness. Every nation has its pilgrimages, but these pilgrimages, with the simple folk of faraway provinces, such as the Bretons, giving a particularly picturesque note in their native costume and their baskets on their arms. The lecturer described the intense pathos of the "white train" of the pilgrims, the women called, bearing its burden of sufferers to Lourdes, their last hope. An intense spirit of faith causes these pilgrims to bear the added torture of travel with patience, to live, even through the most trying moments of their journey, without this faith upholding them.

So strong is the faith and love of the people for Lourdes that the French government, fearing to run counter to popular sentiment, decided four weeks ago to leave open and free the shrine of the Virgin, and thus to give the city authorities, who in turn returned it to the archdiocesan authorities, its rightful keepers.

Miracles witnessed by the reverend lecturer himself were described, especially one extraordinary occasion in 1897, when 32 cures occurred in a single day which were duly controlled and accepted as such by the medical authorities. Rev. Fr. Wattle was himself present on that day and saw those who were healed rise and throw away their crutches and walk.

In concluding the reverend lecturer said it was his wish to establish on the grounds of the French-American orphanage a shrine to Our Lady of Lourdes, with a grotto which would be an exact copy of the miraculous one where Bernadette saw the apparitions. The views shown were numerous and particularly beautiful.

In connection with the lecture, tableaux with appropriate dialogues depicting scenes at Lourdes were presented. Among them were representations of the apparitions with the Virgin and Bernadette at central figures and the last, the death of Bernadette in the convent where she had become a nun, Sister Marie Bernard. The young women taking part in the first tableau were: Virgin, Miss Marie Elzabe Cote; Bernadette, Miss Reine Antoinette Hamel; angels, Misses Anna Boulay, Agnes Hamel, Marie Louise Dancosse, Anna Boissonault, Rose Anna Theriault, Eva Moisan, Marie Louise Simard, Bertha Germain, Yvonne Alexander, Annette Caruel, Dorilla Hamel, Alice Alexander, Miss Rose Alba Boucher recited the prologue to this tableau. The second tableau, which was particularly effective, represented the Virgin and Bernadette again at the grotto, with a score of peasant women come to find out if Bernadette really saw the apparitions. Those who took part were: Misses Marie Blanche Cote, Reine Antoinette Hamel, Juliette Langlais, Yvonne Guertin, Alice Caruel, Laura Paquin, Bernadette Milot, Veronique Bergeron, Cora Paquin, Claudia Cloutier, Eva Bonin, Florida Bonin, Alberta, Abina Grand, Marie Louise Paquin, Rose Alba Boucher, Regina Cloutier, Eva Berthiaume.

The third and last tableau was given by Misses Marie Blanche Cote, Reine Antoinette Hamel, Lea Cote, Irene, Alice and Yvonne Alexander, Rose Anna Boulay, Marie Louise Dancosse.

Besides those, there were several musical numbers. The hall orchestra played. Miss Sylvia Cote of Nashua played the piano and sang a duet with Mr. Romeo Cote. Mr. Arthur Beaucage of Lowell, who had the direction of the program, presented the lecturer in an able speech.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Congregation de Notre Dame de Lourdes for the benefit of the orphanage fête champêtre, and will be repeated tonight.

INJURIES FATAL

Asst. Supt. Burke in an Auto Accident

BOSTON, June 28.—Robert E. Burke, assistant superintendent of the Boston schools, died shortly after midnight last night at the City hospital, as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident in Dorchester a week ago Sunday.

It was thought at the time of the accident that he would not live, but until Saturday night his progress was so rapid that the physicians attending him began to have hopes of his recovery.

Mr. Burke, with six companions, was riding in a big touring car a week ago Sunday evening, on the way to Dorchester from South Boston, when one of the rear wheels of the machine collapsed, owing to faulty construction. Burke was the only member of the party to suffer fatal injuries.

He was born in Boston and educated in the Elliot grammar school and at the High School. After spending a year in a law office, he entered the Dorchester Normal school, from which institution he graduated in 1896. He is a graduate of the Lawrence scientific school at Harvard in the class of 1899.

He became successively assistant in English, Latin, and science at the Lincoln evening school, junior master at Mechanics Arts High school, and master at Boston Normal school. He was elected assistant superintendent of schools in January, 1907.

WOMAN ESCAPED

She Broke Out of Detention Room

BOSTON, June 28.—One of the first women to break out from the Long wharf immigration station is Anna Jablowska, a young Polish woman who made the most sensational and successful get-away ever known at Uncle Sam's detention quarters, during the early hours of yesterday. Using a couple of roller towels, she slid through a window to liberty, forty feet below, and vanished, leaving only the towels to tell the tale.

The girl arrived at this port on the Red Star liner Menominee, June 12, as a cabin passenger with her cousin, a man about 25 years old. They explained they were engaged to be married, but it being against the law for cousins to marry in this country, they came to this country. The man was released by the immigration inspectors, but the girl was held "for investigation." The inquiry was still in progress when the young woman decided to disappear with formalty.

At midnight Sunday she was apparently asleep in the women's dormitory. The intensity of the hour when she made her dash for liberty was of great help to her, as there were no inspectors in the vicinity of Long wharf at that time.

The police were not notified of the escape, but a squad of immigration inspectors were sent abroad, armed with warrants. Miss Jablowska gave an address in Worcester, where supposed relatives lived, when she arrived. This had been carefully watched by federal officers, with no result.

HEATED DEBATE

Councilmen Almost Came to Blows

QUINCY, June 28.—Councilman John Richards, ward 3, and Joseph L. Whitton, ward 1, of the city of Quincy, were engaged in a heated debate over the amendment of the city ordinance creating another lieutenant and inspector of police, which Richards opposed and Whitton favored.

In the course of the discussion, Whitton declared that some of the councilmen opposed to the amendment were opposed because they had "been approached" by members of the police force who did not desire the new offices.

Richards leaped to the floor, asking if Whitton meant to insinuate that he had been approached. Whitton replied that it was idle to deny that he had not been approached.

"You are a liar," yelled Richards, leaping to his feet.

"You are a liar," retorted Whitton.

"You are another, and if you will come into the room we will settle this right off," replied Richards.

The two men, white hot, leaped at one another. There was a rush of councilmen toward them and they were separated. The chamber was in an uproar. President Hobbs called for order and the two men apologized, and the meeting adjourned. They were escorted home by friends who feared that the hostilities might be resumed in the street.

TWO SISTERS

WERE MARRIED AT THE SAME TIME

BOSTON, June 28.—A double wedding of unusual interest to Brighton residents took place at the rectory of St. Anthony's church, Allston, last evening, the brides being sisters, Miss Katherine A. Roddy and Miss Wilfred J. Roddy. They came of one of the oldest and best-known Brighton families.

Miss Katherine Roddy was married to T. G. F. Collins of Somerville and her sister became the bride of Willis R. Lichfield of Boston. Rev. Fr. Hugh Roe O'Donnell, pastor of St. Anthony's church, performed the ceremonies at 7:30.

Each couple attended the other as bridesmaid and best man. Mr. Lichfield's bride wore a gown of pink mulle and carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley. Mr. Collins' bride wore grey silk and carried white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's guardian, Miss Mary E. Roddy, at 58 Market street, Brighton. When the formalities were over the guests repaired to Roddy hall where dancing was enjoyed until 12. A collation was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Lichfield are to spend their honeymoon at New York and Atlantic City. Mr. and Mrs. Collins will make a three months' stay in the White mountains and make their future home in Somerville.

DRACUT

Miss Rosanna Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Curry of Brookside, observed the twelfth anniversary of her birth Sunday at the home of her parents. A great many of her little friends called during the day to offer her congratulations and many happy returns of the day.

During the course of the party the little hostess was presented a handsome locket and chain and beautiful rosary. In the evening refreshments were served and an entertainment program carried out.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

About 100 voters turned out at the annual meeting of the fire district held at the town hall last evening. William J. Quigley, clerk of the corporation called to order and Col. Roy A. Ripley was elected moderator.

Under article 2, the reports of the board of water commissioners, the treasurer, collector, auditor and clerk, were accepted as printed in the report.

The following district officers were then elected by ballot:

Water commissioner for three years, George C. Moore; fire commissioner for three years, John F. Shaw; clerk, for one year, William J. Quigley; auditor for one year, Preston L. Pigott; chief engineer, for one year, Henry O. Miner; first assistant engineer, for one year, William H. Quigley; second assistant engineer, for one year, Percy J. Constatant.

Article 7 was to hear the report of the special commission on the extension of the district limits. It was voted to accept their report as printed in the district report.

An investigation by the police left them to express the belief that the child might have been taken by his mother, a former wife of Mr. McLaughlin, who was divorced from him about four years ago.

Under article 9 it was voted to authorize the treasurer to borrow, with the approval of the board of water commissioners during the district year, the sum of $100,000, in anticipation of taxes for said year, such sums of money as may be needed for the current expenses of the district, but not exceeding the total tax levy for that year, and give notes to the district treasurer, payable with one year from date thereof, all debts incurred under the authority of this vote to be paid from taxes of the current district year.

The tellers of the meeting were Jas. P. Quigley, John F. Shaw and Herbert Hadley.

This Cigar Should Be 15 cts. —But It's Only 10

All imported cigars carry a duty that makes them 100 per cent higher in price but not necessarily higher in quality.

It's the material and workmanship that counts—not the place they are made.

The "3-20-8" contains the best material that money can buy—fragrant and mellow leaves—the pick of the Havana crop—carefully selected by men who know.

These are imported to our factory in Boston—newly and expensively equipped, where skilled union workmen roll them into cigars of attractive shapes.

Thus by importing the leaf and saving the high duty we can sell the "3-20-8" cigar for 10 cents each—or 3 for 25c.

No more luxurious smoke can be had for the price. The "3-20-8" cigar convinces the smoker of taste that it is a useless and expensive habit to buy the imported.

CHILD KIDNAPPED

Taken Away by Auto Party

ALBANY, June 28.—Several men and a woman in a big red touring car drove up to the summer home of Michael F. McLaughlin, on the brow of Kew-Hill, south of the city, yesterday, where Michael F., Jr., 8-year-old son of Mr. McLaughlin, was playing in front of the door. One of the men seized the child, placed him in the woman's arms and the car sped away in the direction of New York before the occupants of the house realized what had happened.

McLaughlin, a real estate dealer of Brooklyn, and Mrs. McLaughlin left Albany on the boat Sunday night, leaving the child in the care of servants.

An investigation by the police left them to express the belief that the child might have been taken by his mother, a former wife of Mr. McLaughlin, who was divorced from him about four years ago.

WAS FINED $50

MAN CHARGED WITH MAKING FALSE STATEMENTS

WESTBORO, June 28.—Wilfred Dugrenier, 25 years old, of Marlboro, was found guilty yesterday morning before Judge William E. Fowler on the charge of making false statements to Town Clerk Joseph S. Gates June 17, when he secured a license to marry Albina LaJole, a 17-year-old Marlboro girl, giving the girl's residence as Westboro and her age as 19 years. He was fined $50, appealed, and was bound over in $200.

Town Clerk Gates testified and Joseph LaJole, the girl's father, also said his daughter ran away from Marlboro with Dugrenier June 17, and several days afterward he received a letter that he thinks was sent by the husband, announcing the marriage. Instead of giving the young couple a blessing the father had Dugrenier arrested.

Dugrenier testified he did not know the girl was 17, as she had told him she was 18 or 19, and that he also told Town Clerk Gates he was going to live in Westboro. The young bride, who does not look more than a grammar school girl, cried during the hearing and said she was 18 years old last October. The father produced a certificate from the town clerk of Chicopee that Albina would not be 18 years old until October 28. The young couple were married June 17 at the Baptist church parsonage by Rev. Manford W. Schuh. Since then they have been living in Westboro.

Seeks Legal Advice on the Lawrence Man Convicted on Charge of Bribery

According to an opinion rendered by the city solicitor, cases in which paper caps are used, the paper caps themselves, toy pistols and small torpedoes do not come under the heading of fireworks, and can be sold in stores located in tenement buildings upon receiving a permit from the chief of the fire department.

In connection with chapter 565 of the Acts of 1910, "An act to prohibit the sale of certain pistols and explosives and to authorize the making of regulations relative to fireworks and firecrackers," J. J. Whitney, chief of the district police of this state, has had caused printed a pamphlet which explains in detail the meaning of different clauses in the act.

Section 42 of chapter 7 of the rules and regulations adopted by the state police in connection with the legislative act reads as follows: "No permit shall be granted to keep for sale at retail any fireworks or firecrackers in any building used in part as a tenement, lodging or apartment house, or place for school or factory purpose, or where people are accustomed to assemble."

The chief of the fire department in order to keep strictly within the law appealed to the city solicitor to give his opinion relative to the sale of caps, caps, toy pistols and small torpedoes, which are located in tenement buildings and the city solicitor has decided that they do not come under the head of fireworks.

SHERIFF IS DEAD

Gen. Chamberlain of Worcester Co. Dead

WORCESTER, June 28.—Gen. Robert E. Chamberlain, for 18 years sheriff of Worcester county, died at his home here early today, aged 72. Gen. Chamberlain, because of failing health resigned from the shrievalty a few months ago. Death was due to a paralytic attack suffered in 1908.

Gen. Chamberlain was a veteran of the Civil war and from 1868 to 1873 he was brigadier general, commanding the old Third brigade of the Massachusetts militia. At the close of the Civil war he took a prominent part in reorganizing the state militia. He was one of the best known Free Masons in the state. CAPTAIN LYON'S DEFENSE
WASHINGTON, June 28.—Captain Manuel P. Lyon's defense to the charge preferred against him as one of the Brownsville shooting, in the Brownsville investigations was presented today to the court martial which is trying the captain at Fort Myer.

The prosecution practically finished its case yesterday. Lieutenant General S. M. B. Young, retired, who is Captain Lyon's accuser, finished his testimony. The charges accuse Captain Lyon of falsifying the ammunition records of his company when an inventory was taken after the Brownsville shooting.

The defense is expected to attempt to show that General Young is one of the bona fide accusers of Captain Lyon, but that he has allowed his name to be used in preferring the charges to hide the actual complainant.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

The second week's offering by the Lakeview Theatre company is a farce comedy called "The Other Girl," a four act mixture of good comedy, funny situations and bright sayings. The first of the week's series of performances was given last night to an audience of fair size, weather conditions considered, and judging from the manner in which it was received it promises to find favor with those who visit there during the remaining afternoons and evenings of the week. The play is by Mr. James A. Thatcher himself and is decidedly entertaining from start to close.

"Brims Madell," a dashing young man, intends marrying his idol, a pretty miss, whom he fell deeply in love with the very first time he set eyes on her. The numerous obstacles which he is obliged to overcome in the way of the young woman's family present a rather strong front at the outset, but he fights the barriers down, although in doing so he finds himself in many an embarrassing position, and finally carries through his game to a successful close.

Mr. Thatcher as Madell is exceptionally good, and Miss Florence Farr as Evy, the "Ideal," assists materially in carrying for one of the leading characters. The other members, Robert Lee, Don Harold, Jack Rowe, Bernard Johnson, Mrs. Don Harold, Frances Williams and Marcella Minnell, are all well cast and help in what promises to be one of the best presentations of the season. The piece is exceedingly well staged, and should draw well during the remaining performances. The play will be put on afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week. Curtain rises at 2.15 and 8.15 o'clock.

THEATRE VOYONS

A real novelty and one that instantaneously caught on was given yesterday at the Theatre Voyons when Mr. Herbert Leroy, a dramatic lecturer of no mean ability, told the story of the feature picture, "The Marked Time-table," as it was shown on the screen. This biograph subject, exceptionally strong in itself, was made much more interesting by his clever talk, and those who heard him cordially approve of the novel addition to the picture. A picture of horsemanship hitherto unequalled is "The Riding Schools of Belgium," and though horsemen from all quarters of the globe have appeared on the screen none of them has been as daring or as spectacular in their feats as are these little heard of cavaliers. The comedy, "The Motion Picture Matri," is a real true laugh, for it not only shows a funny comedy, but the trouble the operator had in securing it.

PERIN'S HIPPODROME

Perin's Hippodrome at Washington park, with an entire change of program attracted hundreds of people yesterday afternoon and evening. The bill is one of rare excellence and cannot fail to please the most exacting critic.

One of the features of the entertainment is Burke's musical dogs which perform all kinds of stunts. The careful training of the canines reflects much credit on the trainer. They keep almost perfect time to music, they juggle bells and perform various other things.

The Daley brothers, head to head balancers, come direct from Keith's Philadelphia theatre and they perform in a manner which brings forth considerable applause. The act winds up with one of the brothers standing on the end of a sea saw board. The other jumps on the board tossing the former in the air and he alights on the head of his partner.

Something out of the ordinary is the Madolski troupe of four Russian dancers. The act is a novel one and has got to be seen to be appreciated. Sandy Chapman, formerly with Ward and Vokes, appears as a lyric soprano and he has lost none of his good qualities since his last appearance in this city.

Jennett's clowns are growing funnier every day and the antics which they go through is well worth the price of admission alone, especially to the children.

The DeNoto band performed as usual at both performances, and the picture shows also were given. The entertainment will attract thousands this week, judging by the first day's bill.

AT NEW THEATRE "Charlie" Varnum Found Hustling on 64th Birthday

CHARLES F. VARNUM
The Contractor

HARRY PRESCOTT GRAVES
The Architect

With a Handicap of 14 Rainy Days He Expects to Have Building Ready for Occupancy on Sept 1 — Architect Graves Plans a Most Cosy Theatre

With a handicap of 14 rainy days against them Contractors C. F. and J. B. Varnum are putting up a great battle to finish the new Paige street theatre by September 1, according to the terms of their contract, and judging by the rush and bustle on the job they are going to make good. They must finish the job by that date or lose money according to their contract while the lessees have bookings made and are ready to open one of the cosiest theatres in New England on that date.

The rainy season through which New England has recently passed was as unexpected among builders as it was among the promoters of baseball and other out-door sports and for 14 days there was nothing doing on the theatre job. But before and since the rain started the contractors have had big crews of workmen going steadily and the chances are that they will present the theatre ready for occupancy by the opening date.

The plans are the conception and handwork of Harry Prescott Graves of this city, and it is understood that they have made such a hit with the lessees, who are well known theatrical promoters, that they have engaged Mr. Graves on some more important work out of the city. Perhaps the best feature of the plans is the economy of the architect relative to space. In a comparatively small space he has devised a most comfortable and cosy theatre.

At present a visitor to the job sees before him the unmistakable outlines of the gaunt spectre of a fairly large and very well arranged theatre. The skeleton is already completed with its immense iron girders, its cemented brick walls of fireproof construction and its mammoth joists of Georgia pine.

In striking contrast to the dead walls of the proposed Keith theatre in Bridge street, a reporter of The Sun found a scene of the utmost animation at the scene of the new theatre on the White property this morning. One hundred men were at work and they represented several lines of the building trade. To give an idea of what is required in building a theatre one needs but consider the many different concerns engaged on the work.

The architect is Harry Prescott Graves who furnished the plans and daily supervises the construction. The general architects are the Messrs. Varnum and ex-lieu, Charles E. Varnum personally has charge of all the work. The other contractors are sub-job as follows: William H. Fuller, foundation work; Patrick Conlon brick work; Mr. Riley, plastering; Chelmsford Iron foundry, iron work; George Buckland, painting; continuously engaged ever since. During his life Mr. Varnum has been prominent in the business, fraternal and political life of the city. He was in the board of aldermen in 1892; in the legislature in 1893, 1907, '08 and '09. He was overseer of the poor for four years and superintendent of buildings in 1896-'97. He is a member of the Builders' Exchange, Royal Arcanum, Knights of Pythias, Highland club, Owls and Martin Luthers.

BALLOON ASCENSION

Lowell Will Have One on the Fourth of July

The Gas Company Will Supply the Gas and Mr. Glidden Will Furnish the Balloon — Three Out of Nineteen Pupils Who Took Public Examination for High School Were Successful

Lowell will have a balloon ascension on July 4 and it won't cost the city a cent. Mayor Meehan communicated with the Lowell Gas Light company this forenoon and was told that if he could get a balloon the Lowell Gas Light company would supply the gas. The mayor then communicated with Mr. Glidden and the latter said he would be very glad to arrange for a balloon ascension. Mr. Glidden said it was barely possible that he would not be able to go himself and in that event, he said, he would send a competent man. The ascension will be made from the gas company's yard in School street. The mayor was desirous of having it from the North common, but it would mean a great deal of work and considerable expense to do the necessary piping. The balloon ascension will add very materially to the program for the day.

Mayor Meehan, Alderman Dexter and Councilman Achin, the latter chairman of the July 4 committee, went out this forenoon to arrange for the fireworks for the Fourth for which $800 will be spent. Later it was stated that the fireworks were arranged for and would be the same as were held on the pontoon bridge automobile week with the exception of two set pieces, the automobile and the trophy. The exhibition from the pontoon bridge was one of the best, if not the very best, ever seen in Lowell.

THREE WERE ADMITTED
Of the nineteen pupils who took the public examination for admission to the High school this year three were successful. The examination was held in the Old Moody school on Monday and Tuesday of last week. The three successful ones were Edward C. Larkin, John B. Robertson, Jr., and Everett M. Mahoney.

Exchanging Books
"If you find one just and 'true don't change the old one for a new," was not spoken of books and the exchange of books, changing the old ones for the new, is making work for the transient officers these days. The city is allowed ten cents each for all the old books and it will take a transient officer about two weeks to pick them out.

DUMMER STREET EXTENSION
The special committee appointed to get prices on land to be taken for the extension of Dummer street, Alderman Gray and Councilmen Genest and Brady, had a conference with George C. Dempsey, representing the Dempsey estate, last night. Mr. Dempsey asks $24,000 for the land of the Dempsey estate required for the extension of the street. The committee considers the price exorbitant. Because of certain criticism which came to his ears Mr. Dempsey told the committee that he would prepare a statement for the press, relative to the land in question, within a few days.

ARCTIC TROPHIES A STRANGE CASE

Question Over Disposal of Them

BERLIN, June 28.—The charges concerning the disposition of Arctic trophies left by him at Etah, which Dr. Frederick A. Cook made against Commander Robert E. Peary during the height of the controversy over their claims of discovery of the North pole were aired in a German court today when the suit instituted against Peary by Rudolph Franke was opened.

Franke was associated with Cook in polar exploration and demands $10,000 in satisfaction of prizes of the hunt which he alleges Peary required him to surrender in consideration of bringing him back to America.

The defense sets up a general denial and further questions the jurisdiction of the court on the grounds that the defendant is an American citizen, having no domicile in this city, after hearing the opening arguments the court adjourned to consider the point of jurisdiction.

Commander Peary was served with papers in the afternoon he came here recently to fill a lecture engagement. Peary's interests were looked after today by Attorney Jablonski, a partner of Victor Schneider, counsel to the American embassy; while Attorney Thiel represented Franke. The latter was present, but was not called to the witness stand.

The proceedings were before three judges of the provincial court. In opening for the plaintiff Thiel spoke for more than an hour, going over the whole story of the expedition, the supplies, the building of the expedition at Etah, the hunting in that vicinity, Cook's departure toward the pole, Franke's illness, the arrival of Peary, and Franke's return home in the Peary relief ship.

The lawyer asserted that Peary had caused the plaintiff to turn over to him certain blue fox skins, furs and narwhal tusks as the only condition upon which he would take him from the Arctic, where if deserted he believes he would die. The attorney argued that the transaction was illegal in that it was consummated under duress. He said that a pair of the narwhal tusks were later presented by Peary to Theodore Roosevelt, while some of the blue fox skins were given to President Taft and Mrs. Taft by Mrs. Peary. Counsel claimed that the German courts have jurisdiction in the matter because a German citizen was unable to obtain redress in the United States.

Replying for the defense, Attorney Jablonski insisted that the court had no jurisdiction for the reason that Peary had neither property nor home in Germany. He said that if he appears at the trial only because of his absence would have been construed unfavorably in some quarters.

Counsel denied the allegations of Franke from beginning to end and said that they had the same foundation as did Cook's claim that he had been at the North pole.

Blue sky—Hi!

The good that may come from such depictions as above is doubtful—still it might be worse. We might have attempted to illustrate, showing by detached line the parabola described by the party, if any, landed, by the usual course. Still again, and as is this mid-summer idyl, nevertheless it has its lesson. The women who persist in cooling over a coal fire these days of white heat is just as reckless and will as sure blow up sooner or later. A "Sane Fourth" is all right in its way, but it's only one day. What about a sane kitchen and a sane cooking outfit every day in the year? That's what! No wonder the eagle screams. Save Fourth of July goods at Lowell Gas Light Appliance store in John street. Cook with gas.

CHARLTON CASE

International Aspect of It is Still Complicated

NEW YORK, June 28.—With the arraignment today of Porter Charlton on the charge of murdering his wife in Italy, the case against the former bank clerk reaches a stage which is expected to result in definite progress toward its disposition.

Although the international aspect of the case is still complicated, the preliminary court action places the matter in shape where it can better be handled by diplomatic agencies. Even an expected adjournment had been discounted by the preparation of proofs of the crime for presentation to the court and filing in the records.

Copies of the Italian evidence of the crime are in the hands of Gustave Di Rosa, the Italian consular representative in New York. It was said also before the proceedings opened before Judge Blair in the court of Oyer and Terminer in Jersey City that the New Jersey authorities also had a copy of a despatch sent by the Marquis Paolo Di Montagliari, charge d'affaires at the Italian embassy in Washington, to Secretary of State Knox on the day of Charlton's arrest and requesting the young man's extradition.

In reply the marquis was stated to have received a note from Secretary Knox, in which it was anticipated that if Charlton were given up Italy would hereafter be expected to consent to the extradition of Italians who commit crimes in America and flee to Italy.

The further exchanges reported in this connection were said to have resulted in a declaration on the part of the Italian government to commit itself to any such proposition, on the ground that an Italian penal code provision of a later date than the extradition treaty with the United States provided that no Italian subject accused of crime should be tried outside his own country. Italy was said to have made no reply to the state department's rejoinder that an international treaty should take precedence over a national law.

Examinations of young Charlton by attorneys will continue until the case is again called in the New Jersey court, according to a statement made by his counsel, after the hearing today.

Should Charlton be found insane, even should extradition be granted by the United States, counsel say that he can be kept in this country. They cite, for example, the famous Duke of Portland case, in which a witness named Caldwell was alleged, in the London courts, to have given perjured testimony. He fled to this country and was arrested. A lunacy commission subsequently examined him, but not until after extradition had been demanded by the English court. The insanity having been established, the higher courts of this country, on appeal, refused to allow extradition proceedings, and Caldwell was consequently sent to a private sanatorium.

TOWN TREASURER

Enters on State Prison Term

BOSTON, June 28.—With his first day in solitary confinement, John E. Lombard, formerly town treasurer of Framingham, today commenced to serve a term of from 10 to 15 years in state prison, for embezzlement of $300,000. Lombard's sentence and incarceration made the fourth prominent man to be imprisoned at the state prison during the past few months. The other men are: John A. Hall, bank treasurer of Southbridge, who is serving from 12 to 15 years; Charles S. Cummings, a Boston note broker, involved with Lombard in the negotiation of the framed Framingham town notes, who is serving from six to eight years, and Clarence H. Dudson, tax collector of Wellesley, who is serving five years.

He rallied somewhat after treatment but late last night his condition took a turn for the worse and early this morning he lapsed into unconsciousness.

WAS FOUND DEAD

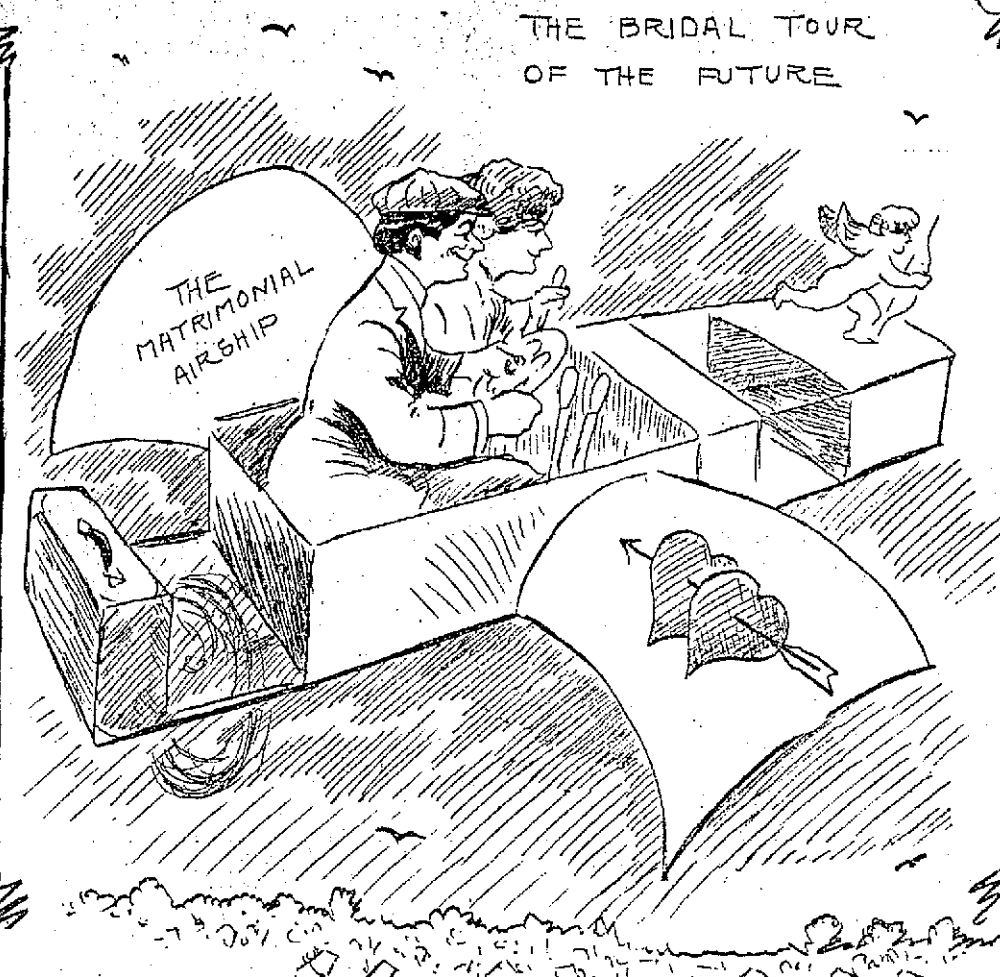

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 28.—A weariness of life is believed to have been the motive which caused Samuel A. Hildoy, about 50 years old and well known among the older residents of the city to commit suicide today. He was found dead in his room in an apartment hotel with gas flowing from two joints and the doors and windows tightly closed. About a year ago he was a beneficiary under the will of a friend, Henry D. Pearce of this city, to the extent of $2000 and nearly $100 in cash was found in his room. He had not been engaged in business for about 25 years and had lived at the hotel where he died for more than 12 years.

CARS DISQUALIFIED

OMAHA, Neb., June 28.—Two party cars were completely disqualified last evening following a committee meeting of the directors in charge of the Golden tour. The party cars were the cause of the trouble at Kansas City. One car was in the competition race for the Golden trophy and the other in the contest for the Chicago trophy.

The cars were disqualified on the ground that the rules had not been obeyed by the drivers and that they had carried their passengers to the public through the press rather than submit them to the contest board.

The start for Des Moines was made at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Declares College Trained Lawyer to be the Man

CAMBRIDGE, June 28.—The college trained lawyer will solve the great legal and economic questions of government in this and the next generation. That is the opinion of Attorney General Wickersham.

He will not be the man whose only acquaintance with the principles of law and government has been derived from text books and lectures, such a man would not be equipped to cope with them. He must be the man who has found "living law," as it has been developed in the real transactions of men. Except with possible rare exceptions, the day of the plodding student who read his Blackstone in a desultory, unmethodical, interrupted fashion from the musty shelves of some practicing counselor, is over.

The college trained lawyer of this and the coming generations who will solve the problems of government is the man who has mastered the principles and doctrines of law as a science through the selection, classification and analysis of numerous cases involving their application.

The attorney general speaking here today before the Harvard Law School Association on The Relation of Legal Education to Governmental Problems, predicted that the lawyer who obtains those qualifications will be the man who can successfully cope with the great questions which will be presented for solution with the growth and expansion of this country.

"It is only by the labors, the thought and the criticism of men who have found the living law, as it has been actually developed by the real transactions of men—that our government may be governed and guided on safe and progressive lines and our jurisprudence developed along paths of natural, sound and wholesome growth," declared the attorney general.

"The wise solutions of the questions as these can only be reached by men who are able to deal with facts and principles as compared with information acquired and memory."

Mr. Wickersham made an able address in his opening words he declared that he had been able to secure leisure from the duties of official life and referred to himself as "an overburdened public official whose mind was necessarily crowded with the prosaic and exacting details of government."

"Contentment with mediocrity," Mr. Wickersham continued, "is in my opinion, one of the greatest dangers which confronts successful democracy everywhere. The hope of averting it rests largely with men of sound legal education."

"The same contentment with mediocrity breeds an impatience with any sort of superiority, a desire to be little else than excellent, a readiness to impute wrong motives to anything not easily understood, to accept calumny as truth, without inquiry, and a gradual lessening for advancement as it is perceived that peace, which is often mistaken for happiness, is alone to be found by accepting contentedly a place in the undistinguished, multitude."

Here the attorney general quoted

WARDANI HANGED

Was Assassin of the Egyptian Premier

CAIRO, Egypt, June 28.—Ibrahim Wardani, the assassin of Boutros Pasha Ghali, the Egyptian premier and minister of foreign affairs, was hanged today.

Wardani was an Egyptian student and a member of the nationalist party. On Feb. 20 last he shot the premier as the latter was leaving the ministry for foreign affairs. His victim died on the following day. At his trial the murderer said that his motive was to avenge various acts of the government which the nationalists attributed to Boutros Pasha personally.

During his visit here, Theodore Roosevelt addressed the students of the University of Cairo, and in the course of his remarks roundly denounced the assassination, saying that those who condoned the act stood on the pinnacle of evil and infamy. Subsequently students affiliated with the political opposition to British rule in Egypt gathered before Mr. Roosevelt's hotel and made a rather mild demonstration of dissent from the sentiments expressed by the former president.

KILLED HIMSELF

Man Drank Arsenate of Lead

CRANSTON, R. I., June 28.—Prevented by his wife from shooting himself last night, James H. Greene, 37, today drank a solution of arsenate of lead which caused his death almost instantly. He had been despondent because of the death of two of his children and his mother within a few months. He had been employed by the state board of agriculture in the work of exterminating the elm beetle and used arsenate of lead to spray the trees with. Besides a widow he is survived by two other children.

WAR ON "RATS" AND "PUFFS"

A widespread crusade is now being carried on everywhere against the wearing of "rats" and "puffs" by women. Department stores and other institutions where girls are employed are posting notices flatly forbidding such head dresses. Doctors are denouncing them as "unhygienic dust and germ catchers." "Rats" and "puffs" are not merely unbecoming, but they are the direct cause of falling hair and baldness in women. The net-work of veins in the scalp are destroyed by the heat and pressure of these artificial masses of hair and fiber, and the natural result is baldness and disease. The best thing to do in restoring the scalp to a healthy condition is Birt's Head Wash, particularly in cases where there is dandruff, itching scalp and hair that falls out. This is the new scientific preparation with the full formula on every package. Tubes 25c, jars 50c.

Upon arriving at the grove a fine list of sports was carried out, games were enjoyed and various forms of amusement were entered into. At noon dinner was served and in the afternoon there were more sports. The return trip will be made during the early part of the evening.

EXPRESS DELIVERY

Big Protest to be Made at Board of Trade This Evening

Manchester & Concord Co. the Only One to Deliver to City Limits—American Express Limit Bars Out 1600 Families

The board of trade's big mass meeting relative to the present express delivery conditions will be held this evening in the board of trade rooms and judging from the number of letters that Secretary Murphy has received commenting upon the matter, a vigorous protest will be made while a large attendance is assured despite the warm weather.

It has been estimated that under the limit established by the American Express company 1600 families, or more than half the population of Lowell, are barred from free delivery.

Regarding the limit placed by the express companies there is one notable exception which has not received due credit and that is the Manchester & Concord company, of which John M. Mahany is local manager.

When seen by a reporter of The Sun today Mr. Mahany was averse to being quoted, on the ground that he might be accused of trying to turn an interview into an advertisement for his own company, but as he is to appear at the meeting tonight and then explain how his company stands in the matter he was prevailed upon to give his views, and he said:

"About the only place to which we haven't delivered goods in our towns is to Wrentham, and then we have had someone else deliver them. My orders to the drivers are, 'If the address is in Lowell, deliver the goods, don't bring them back to the office.' We deliver to the city limits and sometimes beyond. I don't think the utility has any fault to find with the service of the Manchester & Concord."

A man familiar with the express business in Lowell said to the writer: "I hope someone at that meeting tonight will ask the Am. Express people what their limit is in Boston. He will find that they deliver to any part of Boston, but in the comparatively small city of Lowell they place a limit that debars a large part of the residential section. Their excuse will be that some of the streets in the outskirts are sparsely settled and don't offer them a sufficient amount of business. The limit under which the express companies are now working was placed some 10 years ago when there was a saw mill in Prescott street and one could get out in the country by a short walk. Pawtucketville was by no means as thickly settled as it is now; the Moody street bridge was unthought of and new Pawtucketville was only a meadow. The present limit is not the limit for a city of 100,000 population and I hope the board of trade will have it removed."

DEATH SENTENCE

That is What the Lynn Bandit Expects to Get

LYNN, Mass., June 28.—Harboring the belief that he will shortly be executed for his part in the killing of the shoe manufacturer, Thomas A. Lannigan and Policeman James H. Carroll, Saturday, Wasili Iwanowski, the captured bandit, today wrote a letter to his near relatives in Russia. He asked his mother not to mourn for him and wrote that the letter would be the last one she would ever hear from him.

The following is his letter, in part: Dear Mother and Brothers and Sisters: "I send you my last regard and beg you not to cry for me and lose your strength, as you have not more than you need. I write now that I have been arrested and in quick time will be sentenced to death, but for what cause I will not write you. So I bid farewell to you. Please forgive me for not obeying you, but now it is too late."

The condition of Andy Abson, one of the bandit trio who is now lying in the Lynn hospital suffering from half a dozen bullet wounds, was reported to be about the same today as yesterday. It is believed that he will survive but the attending physicians have not given out any statement to this effect.

EXPRESS DELIVERY LODGER IS HELD

Big Protest to be Made at Board of Trade This Evening

Cornelius Reardon, who was arrested by the Lawrence police yesterday on a warrant issued by the local police and who was subsequently brought to this city by Inspector Martin A. Maher, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of silver valued at $32, the property of Kate Hornbrook, who conducts a lodging house at 60 Tyler street. Reardon entered a plea of not guilty and at his request the case was continued till Thursday morning, being held under $500 bonds.

It is alleged that Reardon was a lodger at Mrs. Hornbrook's house and left without notifying her on May 29. At the same time she alleges that she discovered that some of her valuable silver was missing, including a teapot, crockery, cup and knives, forks and spoons. She immediately notified the police and according to the information which the local police received from her they suspected Reardon, but were unable to locate him until the day before yesterday, when it was learned that he was working in Lawrence. A warrant was issued for his arrest and forwarded to the Lawrence police and yesterday morning two of the downriver inspectors took him into custody.

Stubborn Child Surrendered

Matthew Ryan, a young man who stands over six feet in his stocking feet, and who recently appeared in police court and was placed on probation on condition that he would go to work, was yesterday surrendered by Probation Officer Slattery on complaint of the young man's mother and this morning Ryan was in court again. He put up a pitiful appeal for another chance, claiming that he had worked to go to and that he would not have been surrendered but for the fact that his mother and sisters wanted to send him away, but the story of the mother and sisters differed very much from that told by the boy and Ryan was sentenced to go to the Massachusetts reformatory. He appealed and was held under $200 for his appearance before the grand jury.

Assault and Battery

George Boisvert, who was in court last week charged with assault and battery on Georgianna Lafortune, was this morning adjudged guilty and a fine of $1 imposed. All of the testimony in the case was concluded at the hearing given last week but Judge Hadley had it continued until today in order to make an investigation owing to the fact that he did not seem to be satisfied with the testimony presented at that time. When the case was called this morning no further testimony was offered and the small fine was imposed.

Drunken Offenders

Catherine Barnes, charged with being drunk, was committed to the jail for four months.

Marie Berube, a very nervous woman, entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint of drunkenness. She was sent to jail for 20 days.

Patrick Drummond was placed on probation on condition that he would go back to the city farm. John F. Donovan was sent to the state farm at Bridgewater and Walter Durgin was fined $5.

PRINCE TO RETIRE

BERLIN, June 28.—Baron Von Kilderer Waechter was today appointed secretary of state for foreign affairs succeeding Herr Wilhelm Elder von Schoen who is appointed German ambassador to France. Prince von Hadelin, who now occupies the Paris post, will retire to private life.

The Frankfurter Zeitung states that Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg has decided to make no further attempts to administer his office in association with his new colleagues and that additional changes both in the Imperial and Prussian ministries may be expected soon.

GETS A DIVORCE

Mrs. King Granted Separation From Husband.

BOSTON, June 28.—Divorce from her husband, Thomas White King, custody of their three-year-old child, Cornelia, and $40 a month alimony were awarded to Mrs. Cornelia Penbody King by Judge Richardson yesterday afternoon in the Suffolk divorce court at the end of the suit for divorce entered by Mrs. King on grounds of gross and confirmed intoxication.

In granting the decree Judge Richardson spoke of the charge brought against Wentworth C. Bacon of New York, who had been named by the husband as co-respondent, and said that no evidence had been shown that the offense had been committed.

When the question of alimony came up King's lawyer said that the once rich merchant and New York broker could be unable to pay anything. Mr. King declared during the case that he was penniless and was living practically on charity at a sanitarium at 224 Warren street, Boston. The judge granted him permission to see the child for one month, under the condition of first giving the mother two days' notice.

Mr. King, Mrs. King and Wentworth C. Bacon were all witnesses yesterday. King testified as to the occasion named in the charge brought against him, and on the occasion of examination said that since the episode his relations with Mr. Bacon had been "gentlemanly." He said that he had never drunk liquor to intoxication.

Dr. Frederick Taylor testified that with Mr. King first went to the sanitarium for treatment he was not drunk, but was nervous. He said that Mr. King might at one time have suffered from acute alcoholism.

George Clark, steward at the St. Anthony club in New Haven, was called by counsel for Mrs. King and testified to having helped put Mr. King to bed when he became intoxicated at the club last December. William A. Manning of the brokerage firm of Schumaker and Bates, 37 Wall street, testified that Mr. King had been in the office of the firm for some time. On this occasion Mr. King had said that he had drunk a quart and a half of whiskey.

Mrs. King was recalled, and denied that she had ever been guilty of any improper conduct with Mr. Bacon. The next witness was the respondent, Mr. Bacon, who was called by counsel of Greenfield. He said that he and King had been on friendly terms, that he had never heard Mr. King say anything against his wife, and the first time he had an inkling of Mr. King's intention to charge his wife with an offense was in April or May of this year.

Mrs. King will rejoin her child, Cornelia, who is now at York Harbor.

CITY OF WOBURN

Asks Injunction Against Rifle Association.

BOSTON, June 28.—Claiming that their houses and the occupants are in constant danger from stray bullets and that the neighborhood is dangerous to human life, seven residents of Woburn, Anne Shydecker, William Spillars, Gustaf A. Anderson, Geo. P. Russell, Harry Archer, Leon W. Dunn, Gladson L. Archer, A. F. Luford, Anna Shydecker and Selena Shydecker, as complainants, have filed a petition in the East Cambridge courts, asking that an injunction may be issued against the Massachusetts Rifle association or any of the members from allowing target practice on the range.

Three dwelling houses and two green houses, according to the bill of complaint of the petitioners, have been struck by bullets from the rifle range, a dining room window in one house having been shattered and the bullet having been found in the room, and in another house a bullet passed completely through the wall of the house, all within a few months.

The petitioners ask that an injunction may be issued restraining the Massachusetts Rifle association or any of the members from allowing target practice on the range.

WOMAN FOR PRESIDENT
CHICAGO, June 28.—Real political campaign methods have been adopted by Chicago school teachers in their effort to make Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago schools, the next president of the National Educational association at Boston next week. One of them is entitled "Boston" and is to be sung in the tone of "Dixie." Richard's will be held the special train which will leave Chicago Thursday.

DIAMOND NOTES

Lynn here today.

Feaster, the Philadelphia National pitcher, who was tried by Lowell and found wanting earlier in the season, is with us again for a second trial. He received a hearing at Lynn yesterday.

Swormstedt, whom Billy Hamilton originally introduced to the writer as "Swampscott," held Lowell down to two hits yesterday.

We must bat to win, and win to prosper.

And with all our faults, we still have it on Haverhill and Brockton.

Jack Cunningham, pitcher for the Knights of Columbus team, could do a better job on the mound for Lowell than some of the big league cast-offs if he were given an opportunity.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

STOCK MARKET

Italy's Tendency Gave Way in the Late Dealings—Decline Checked by the Supporting Orders

NEW YORK, June 28.—First prices of stocks showed fractional concessions from yesterday, but the volume of dealings was moderate and there were no violent declines in the leading active stocks and there was a sprinkling of gains in stocks of secondary importance. Atchafson, American Car and American Agricultural Chemical 1, and Reading 5-8.

Stocks were unloaded in increasing volume and prices gave way precipitately. Some of the leading stocks, such as Paul & Paul, Steel, touched the lowest prices of the year, and the whole market was very weak.

Declines of between 1 and 2 points were registered in about everything traded in. St. Paul broke 3-4, Union Pacific, Great Northern and Canadian Pacific 2. Active covering by shorts caused a quick rally of 1 to 1 1/2 in a half dozen stocks and the market was holding well at 11 o'clock with activity decidedly diminished.

Trading quieted down materially as the recovery was extended until losses were reduced to fractions for the most part. The early selling of stocks was attributed to general dissatisfaction with business conditions aggravated by the deterioration in spring wheat. The tone was rather unsteady at noon. Bonds were irregular.

More buying orders were distributed as the market overcame its heaviness for a time. The list began to sag again later, the reaction from the rally reaching a point in some of the speculative leaders. Support was again encountered on the decline.

American Sugar declined 4 points. There was a sharp hard opening movement in response to supporting orders that brought prices back approximately to a level with yesterday's closing. The Louisville trading furnished a marked contrast to the early activity on the decline.

The market closed strong around last night's prices. The rallying tendency of stocks gave way to some reactions in the late dealings, but there was no sign of the precipitancy of the early declines. Supporting orders again appeared and checked the decline.

Spot Cotton
NEW YORK, June 28.—Cotton spot closed quiet, 5 points lower; middling uplands 14.95; middling gulf 15.20. Sales 300 bales.

BOSTON, June 28.—Copper stocks fell sharply today in sympathy with the decline in the New York list. At noon there was a slight rally, but the entire list showed a two point drop.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE ALUMNI

HANOVER, N. H., June 28.—With Judge Davis Cross of the class of '41 as one of their number, the alumni of Dartmouth College assembled here in record breaking numbers today and lived over their undergraduate days by parading the campus in grotesque costumes.

Holding its decennial reunion, the class of '00 held the largest number of men back and thereby won a cup of honor by the class of '94 as a prize for the class returning the greatest number of men.

Dartmouth Hall was used by the alumni association for its annual meeting. Separate class meetings were held in different dormitories. One of the big events of the day was a ball game between the varsity team and a nine of alumni stars. Following the game the president's reception took place in College Hall.

GUERNSEY RENOMINATED

HANOVER, Me., June 28.—The fourth district republican convention here today unanimously renominated Frank E. Guernsey of Dover as candidate for congress to succeed himself at the September election. Resolutions were adopted supporting the policy of the republican party, commending the administration of President Taft and approving the present tariff law.

MAY BE SUICIDE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 28.—Max Rosenberg, a prominent distiller and wealthy resident of this city, was found dead today in his rooms over the First National bank, with a bullet hole in his right temple. At his side lay a revolver. It is reported by the authorities that Rosenberg killed himself.

FOLK FOR PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, June 28.—A new idea in political campaigning originated in the interest of the candidacy of ex-Governor Folk of Missouri for the democratic presidential nomination is the eve of practical working out, with New England as the field for the experiment.

Six Missourians from the Ozark region are in New York today ready to start tomorrow on a tour of New England to tell the people of that section of what Governor Folk has done and to organize the Folk sentiment in each town they visit.

WEBSTER, Mass., June 28.—Aster and assistant medical Examiner Johnson R. Woodward of Oxford, who conducted the autopsy on the body of Duris, testified today that they found hemorrhages and a bad scalp wound. They also said that there was no wound in the lungs and that the heart and stomach were normal.

Olcery was held without hall for appearance in the superior court on the third Monday in August.

THE FIGHTING CAMP

Anxiously Awaiting the Visit of Gov. Dickerson

RENO, Nev., June 28.—Reno today is anxiously awaiting the arrival of Governor Dickerson who, it is understood, is returning to Carson City from Elko and intends to make a brief stop here. Just what would be the governor's purpose in coming to this city has not been stated, but in view of his numerous denials that he would interfere in any way with the fight on one time, it is believed that it would be connected with the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

The news received here last night, however, of the circulation in Chicago of another rumor that the fight would be called off lends added interest to the expected visit of the chief executive of the state. Fox Rickard and Governor Dickerson are said to be old friends and though the promoter received a telegram directly from the governor from Elko giving positive assurances that he would not try to prevent the fight, Rickard was apparently in the most possible trim and ready for the greatest battle of his career.

The utmost confidence in the outcome of the contest is professed by the friends and followers of both fighters. The Moana Springs crew say Jeffries is absolutely certain of his ability to win the fight, while his own condition than to that of his net, which is suffering from an attack of distemper.

DEALINGS LARGE

IN FIRST HALF HOUR OF THE MARKET

NEW YORK, June 28.—Stocks took another downward plunge today, carrying prices in a number of prominent shares to the lowest of the year. St. Paul, Atchafson and the Illinois stocks amongst the railroads, and U. S. Steel amongst the iron and steel, were prominent in the list. The sudden and substantial recoveries which followed in the course of the first hour's trading reflected the industry with which the bear element was pursuing its operations.

The principal factor in the drop was the sympathetic action of yesterday's rapid decline. The impairment of margins which resulted, the uncovering of stop loss orders and the general feeling of uneasiness engendered amongst the holders of stocks precipitated the falling tactics of the bears.

The dealings in the first half hour were very large, the buying thus bringing the complete capacity of the arena up to 21,000. It is estimated that more than 400,000 feet of lumber and five tons of nails must be put into the building.

One of the biggest single orders for steel yet received came last night. Representatives of three towns in the northwestern part of the state and whose combined population figures only 2,000 made joint application, it is said for 1,708 seats. Thus far the greatest demand has been for the high priced reservations.

Well known voters continued to pour in yesterday. One of the int-

CHICAGO SPORTS DIVIDED

CHICAGO, June 28.—Two sets of betting odds on the Jeffries-Johnson battle were named yesterday by a prominent stock yards bookmaker. In the one, Jeffries is quoted at three to five. Johnson is the choice at eight to five in the other. The heavyweights probably will enter the arena evenly backed by Chicago fight followers.

From the south side, especially in the colored colony, Johnson will draw tremendous support.

3,000 GOING TO FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Betting on the Jeffries-Johnson fight took an unexpected turn yesterday. Following a heavy Johnson rally Sunday night the odds rose yesterday to ten to seven. Several bets were made at this price, though there is much Johnson money at better offer. The odds fell again and thousands of dollars were wagered at 10 to 6.

Ten to six seems to be about right to me," said Tom Corbett. "On account of the heavy Johnson play Sunday it was to be expected that the odds would go up a bit. I think the present odds will prevail until the day of the fight."

It is estimated that at least 3,000 San Franciscans will go to Reno.

TO CROSS OCEAN

Gigantic Dirigible Designed by a Famous Engineer

LONDON, June 28.—Two fascinating schemes for airship services between England and America and between London and Berlin have just come to light.

Herbert Trench, in the Daily Chronicle, tells a remarkable story about the completion of designs for an airship of new type of airship named "Blue Bird," designed by a famous engineer, who is a professor of engineering in a German university, one of Count Zeppelin's right hand men and one of his trusted friends.

It is an airship which can carry inside a crew of 10 persons, two on the forward, two engines aft, and on the under side of the keel, which is 150 feet in length, is a series of immense petrol reservoirs.

"This huge ship," says Mr. Trench, offers far less resistance to progress through the atmosphere than any ship hitherto constructed, while owing to its extremely simple design it can carry more power than any other. Moreover, it is maneuvered with surprising ease. The whole command of the ship is concentrated in the hands of the pilot in the centre of the keel, and at his hand simple appliances which at a finger touch put in or throw out of action, as desired, the motors, propellers, rudder, ventilators and valves.

"It was a wonderful sight to watch Mr. Kipling's face when the plans of the Blue Bird airship were laid before him the other day and to watch the gradual finding of his enthusiasm. He could hardly believe his eyes. The novelist's own story had been realized by the engineer. It was a case of Adam's dream. He awoke and found it true."

"The Blue Bird airship can carry five tons of petrol. It can stay 30 hours in the air. It can rise to a height of 10,000 feet above the level of the sea. It has a maximum speed of 50 miles an hour; and consequently a radius of action over no less than 4000 miles without descending."

"The most remarkable feature of this airship is that by the construction of its engine it can use either gas or petrol at the same time or separately, by the means automatically lessening its weight by using petrol (which it carries as ballast) and then using gas to prevent the ship from otherwise decreasing in weight would cause. This reinforcement of petrol by the use of hydrogen gas is an absolutely new feature, and the result of the combination is to increase the radius of action and distance of flight by no less than one-third."

"No less important for purposes of national defence. In a few moments this ship can be transformed into a war ship of absolutely infernal power, provision having been made for carrying, in case of need, of a Maxim gun and a ton of explosives. There will also be a torpedo boat for the emission of torpedoes. These weapons will be of a weight equivalent to the number of extra passengers carried in time of peace."

"Blue Bird airships will be the incomparable command of the war, and, without machines of war so terrible as to make war well night impossible."

FOR THE FOURTH SECRETARY MacVEAGH

The Celebration to Cost $1500 is Agreed Upon

Fireworks to Cost $900 and Band Concerts $400—Marathon Race and Games

The special committee on July 4th met last night and made arrangements for a $1500 celebration. It was voted to spend $900 for fireworks and have four band concerts at $100 per. There will be a Marathon race on the North common in the afternoon and a ball game on the same common in the morning. Mr. Tarrant wanted two games, but there wasn't money enough to go round. There will be no firing of salutes.

Councilman Achin, chairman, called to order and read the order appropriating $1500 for the July 4th observance.

Mayor Meehan suggested that the sum of $900 be expended for fireworks and that the contract be let out once. He suggested that a competent judge examine the displays.

His Honor suggested a band concert on the North common in the afternoon and one in the evening on the South common, also a concert at the playground in Little Canada. The charity board will have a band at the city farm in the afternoon.

It was stated that salutes at sunrise and sunset would cost $125. Ball ringing would cost $50. The ringing of the bells was favored, but it was nixy on the salutes. The committee thought $800 not sufficient for the fireworks.

It was finally voted to spend the $1500 as follows: Fireworks, $900; band concerts, $400; ball ringing, $50; Marathon race, $75; ball game, $55; and incidentals, $20.

Mr. Qua moved that a committee of five be appointed to act with the mayor in the selection of fireworks, and it was so voted. Chairman Achin and Mr. Dexter were named.

Messrs. Tarrant and Jodoin were named a special committee to make arrangements for the Marathon race. Messrs. Qua and Tarrant were named to arrange for the ball game. Mayor Meehan will have charge of the ball ringing and the band concerts.

The mayor said he would communicate with Charles J. Glidden relative to a balloon ascension on the North common.

The committee will meet again next Thursday night.

Thinks The Fiscal Year May Show a Surplus

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Three days' receipts remain to be reported for the government's fiscal year, which ends with the close of business on June 30. Uncompleted figures and estimates lead Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department to express himself as well satisfied with the operations of his department for his first fiscal year now closing.

Mr. MacVeagh regards the new tariff law as having justified itself as a revenue-producer. Internal revenue receipts have exceeded the estimates by approximately $10,000, and the year promises to end showing possibly a surplus in the ordinary receipts and expenditures, or splitting nearly even, instead of showing a deficit of $24,000,000, as was predicted. A larger income and reduced government expenditures are given by treasury officials as contributing causes for the good showing.

The government has depended on the Panama canal $33,010,040. This has been a drain on the regular working cash balance, there being no special fund from which payments for this purpose can be made. Congress has authorized the issue of bonds to meet canal construction expenditures, and Mr. MacVeagh thinks the cost of construction should be shared by posterity, which, after all, will get the benefit.

He has balked, however, on the basis on which the new practices of bonds shall be issued. If at 3 per cent, as now proposed, the secretary believes they would have a much better national bank circulation privilege than the outstanding 2 per cent, and which issue would therefore constitute a discrimination against the two late. Congress refused to graduate the tax on national bank circulation secured by bonds, as recommended by the secretary, and the bonds remain authorized, but not issued, aggregating $290,569,000.

In his annual report to congress in December Secretary MacVeagh estimated that the ordinary receipts of the government for the fiscal year 1910 would be $648,000,000; to date they have aggregated $511,855,093. He estimated the ordinary disbursements at $683,075,620; at this time they amount to $550,510,835. Customs receipts so far this year have been $325,502,242, the treasury's estimate for the year being $338,000,000. It is now thought they will not reach more than $330,000,000, thus falling below the estimates.

There has been a material reduction from the estimates in expenditures in the civil, war and naval estimates, and a decrease of $7,000,000 in the estimated postal deficiency. Whether or not there will be an actual surplus at the end of the year, officials say, depends upon the amount of corporation tax money received. Secretary MacVeagh estimated it would reach $15,000,000. The prospects are otherwise. The money is paid direct to internal revenue collectors, and frequently several days elapse before it reaches the treasury here.

Senator Cullum's resolution postponing payment of the tax until January 1, although not receiving congressional sanction, in the opinion of the treasury had the effect of deferring payments on the assessments by many corporations, on the theory that it might be acted on.

Corporation taxes paid to date amount to $2,331,153. $16,000,000 money from that source be in the hands of the treasury at Washington by the end of the fiscal year, the prediction is made that the daily treasury statement for next Wednesday will show a substantial surplus for the year in the items comprising the ordinary receipts and disbursements. The total deficit to date, including that on account of the Panama canal, the ordinary transactions of the government and those incidental to the public debt is $44,416,040.

TO TREAT HORSES

That are Afflicted With Worms

Many entertain the opinion that horses have at all times more or less worms, but not in such quantities as to cause annoyance. They, however, do infest the horse at times to an unbearable extent, causing colic, indigestion, loss of appetite, loss of flesh, spirits and strength and no end of trouble and suffering. Worms are found for the most part in the stomach and bowels and while there are more than thirty varieties of worms to bother the horse only two or three kinds become a source of danger to the horse's health and comfort.

The common round worm, much resembling the ordinary earth worm is sometimes found in great numbers and grows to a foot in length, occupying for the most part the stomach and small intestines, where they impede digestion which soon gives you a run down, out of condition horse. The coat is rough, appetite poor or ravenous, food half digested; he scours, becomes hide bound, loses strength and spirit; gnaws and bites at sides and body, mangles, cuts or anything convenient, rubs tail against the stall, and no matter how much he eats will not take on flesh, so that one perhaps can guess the suffering and annoyance endured by the dumb horse and can but wonder why any horse owner permits his financial loss to run on in this manner, when the present day furnishes so many inexpensive remedies for overcoming these troublesome pests.

Another form of worm most annoying to the horse is the little white thread worm or pin worm, so-called, infesting the lower bowel. These cause the horse a great amount of annoyance and keep many men wondering as to "What's the matter with my horse?" Get rid of them. Injections will do it and they are simple to give. Both are another form of worm resulting from the larvae of the gadfly and are subjects of much discussion and argument. They certainly are a great annoyance to the horse, causing inflammation, colic and stagginess. The symptoms are quite similar to colic, and when you suspect this form of trouble you should treat for worms and look to diet and feed for its correction.

JAPAN'S IMPORTS

Have Shown a Marked Decline

Japan's imports from America and Europe show a marked decline, and those from Asia and Oceania a marked increase. The official monthly return of the foreign trade of the empire of Japan covering the month of March and the three months ending with March, 1910, compared with corresponding periods of 1909 and 1908 (a copy of which has just reached the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor) shows that imports from America have fallen from 14 1/2 million dollars in the three months, January, February and March, 1908, to a little over 7 million in the corresponding months of 1910; those from Europe, from 26 1/2 million in the 3 months of 1908 to 15 1/2 million in the corresponding period of 1910; while those from Asia and Oceania increased from 28 million in the 1908 period to 33 million in the 1910 period.

Imports into Japan from the United States during the three months under review show a fall from 7 1/2 million dollars in 1908 to less than 4 million in 1910; those from Great Britain in the same period fell from 15 1/2 million to 9 1/4 million dollars; those from Germany fell from 7 million to 4 1/2 million dollars, while from France the quarter's imports are slightly greater than in 1908, amounting in the present year to a little more than a half million dollars. From Australia the imports in the first three months of 1910, 1 1/2 million dollars in value, are more than double those of the 1908 period. From Egypt the imports of the first quarter of 1910 were valued at over 1 million dollars and are about 50 per cent in excess of those for the corresponding period of 1908. From China, exclusive of Kwantung province, the imports have fallen from 6 3/4 million dollars in the first three months of 1908 to about 5 million in the corresponding months of 1910; while from British India the imports during the 1910 period, valued at 19 million dollars, are more than double those of the 1908 period, which were valued at 9 million dollars. Taking Asia as a whole, the imports show a total of 31 million dollars in the first three months of 1910, against 27 1/3 million in the corresponding months of 1908.

The falling off in imports from the United States, which is proportionately somewhat greater than the reduction in imports from Great Britain, Germany and other leading countries of Europe, is due largely to the "cotton situation." Japan buys freely of American cotton when it sells at a low price, but when prices are high, as has been the case in the last year, or two, Japan turns to other parts of the world, especially India and China, for raw cotton. The price of the product of those countries being less than that of the United States. The value of cotton imported into Japan from the United States in the 3 months ending with March, 1910, is less than 3 million dollars, against 4 1/2 million in the corresponding months of 1908; while from India the value of cotton imports in the period was nearly 10 million dollars, against 12 million in the first three months of 1908. In other articles from the United States, however, is also a material decline, the imports of iron and steel pipes falling from $569,000 in the 3 months of 1908 to $56,000 in the corresponding period of 1910; and those of coal falls, from $520,000 in the 1908 period to but $29,000 in the 1910 period, though in this case it is proper to add the total importations from all countries show a marked decline, having fallen from over 1 million dollars in the first three months of 1908 to $153,000 in the like period of 1910. Locomotives, machinery, and engines and other manufactures of iron and steel also show general declines in importations, and more especially in those from the United States. Flour imports from the United States also show a marked decline, their value in the 3 months of 1910 being, but $156,000, against $378,000 in the like period of 1908; while those from other parts of the world decreased from $76,000 in the 3 months of 1908 to $18,411 in the corresponding months of 1910. Imports of kerosene oil from the United States increased from 1 million dollars in the first 3 months of 1908 to 1 1/2 million in the like period of the present year. The three months' record above noted, of a decline in Japanese imports of American and European merchandise, and an advance in imports from Asia and Oceania, is equally apparent in a study of the importations of that empire covering a longer period. The total imports from Europe, which were in 1908 $34,778,000, were in 1909, $73,700,000, and in 1910, $73,250,000; while those from Asia and Oceania, which were in 1908 $34,648,000, were in 1909, $39,712,000.

WOMEN RESCUED

From Burning Building in Worcester

WORCESTER, June 28.—A thrilling rescue of two elderly women who had been cut off from escape in their tenement at 19 Sycamore street by fire last night was made by Desire Pelletier of 48 Beacon street and two boys, Thos. Harvey, aged 17, of 3 Harris court, and Eugene Guiney, 28, of 4 Valley street. Both the boys were vigorous by smoke, and required medical attendance, but the two rescued sisters, Miss Eva R. Wolfe and Miss Sarah E. Waite, were not hurt except for a severe fright.

The fire started in the rear of the three tenement houses in the flat occupied by Herbert E. Noyes. Neither the Noyes family nor the occupants of the floor below were at home when the fire started, and it gained tremendous headway before it was discovered. The Misses Waite, who had been in the house, and rushed to the rear of the house, where the only exit from their third floor tenement was located.

The stairway was completely burned out by the time they reached it and there was no means of escape. Rushing to the front window the two women called for help and their cry "Fire!" was heard by Pelletier and the two boys.

Pelletier assisted the boys to clamber up the posts to the porch roof, and they helped him to come up after them. Standing on the shoulders of the boys, Pelletier managed to reach the third story, and then lowered both the Waite women to the porch roof to the boys, who caught them.

District Chief Wm. B. Spooner arrived with his fire company at this time and forced his way to the second floor, where he admitted the women through a window from the porch roof and aided them to the street and to a neighbor's house.

The entire rear of the house was in flames by this time, and the firemen had a stiff half hour's fight to quench the fire. The damage is estimated at from $1000 to $1500.

KEPT A SECRET

SCHOOL DAY ROMANCE KEPT QUIET FOR FOUR MONTHS

METHUEN, June 28.—A school-day romance was brought to light yesterday when the friends of Miss Riley and Raymond S. Cheney were told of their marriage. The ceremony took place in Manchester, N. H., Feb. 10 last, and has been kept a secret. Rev. David Frazer was the officiating clergyman.

Returning from their trip to Manchester, Miss Riley resumed her studies in the high school without interruption and young Cheney continued at his work in Lawrence. Last Friday, Miss Riley was graduated from the local high school. She also took part in the exercises a few days previous, playing the class orator. She was captain of the girls' excels of the high school. The bridegroom was graduated from the school in 1908. He was prominent in the athletic association.

Since the closing of the school the young couple observed methods by which to make known their secret marriage, and finally decided to make a clean breast of it to their parents. Upon doing this they were forgiven, and beginning yesterday took up their home in East street. Both are decidedly popular. Their courtship extended over a period of four years, they having met at a class party.

WOMAN MAY DIE

She Was Burned and is Not Expected to Live

WORCESTER, June 28.—Mrs. Eva Bertitus, 24 years old, 212 Bloomingdale road, was fatally burned at her home while preparing supper last night, and is not expected to live. Mrs. Bertitus was trying to light the kitchen fire in order to get supper, and the wood in her stove failed to catch at her first attempt.

Taking the kerosene oil can, she poured a quantity on the wood, and a smoldering spark caused an explosion. Her clothing caught, and in a few minutes she was burned almost to a crisp from the top of her head to her knees. A cousin who happened to be in the house succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until the burns were too severe to make recovery possible. She was taken to the city hospital and her name was immediately placed upon the dangerous list.

HAVERHILL MAN

WENT INSANE OVER GAME OF BASEBALL

HAVERHILL, June 28.—Charles L. Hight, of 10 Hill street, is baseball crazy. The physicians who examined him reported the facts to Judge Fuller of the district court yesterday, and Hight was committed to the insane asylum at Danvers.

Hight believed himself to be a baseball player, and revelled in baseball, and thought he could play any position required, could play the game all alone and considered himself the greatest product of baseball in years.

He also had an idea that he was going to buy a bright pink automobile, to which he intended to ride on to the baseball field and dazzle the fans, but the police spoiled his plans yesterday when they took him into custody on a warrant alleging insanity.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

East Merrimack street is in great need of repair. It is rough and uneven, causing jolts and shocks to those who ride over it in carriages and automobiles. It will be too bad if that street cannot be paved before the fall.

ANOTHER BOY DROWNED
Another drowning accident recorded because a boy of sixteen did not know how to swim. There should be no boy of that age in Lowell unable to swim. When boys go boating they should be careful to guard against accidents, especially to those who cannot swim. But it is useless to lecture young people of the danger. The only remedy is to provide public baths at which all can learn to swim.

LESSONS OF THE LYNN TRAGEDY
The Lynn tragedy of Saturday made a few things very clear, and among them these:
First, it is a foolish custom for anybody on foot to carry a load of money from a bank along a public street. An auto could be used with advantage in such a case.
Second, the time has arrived when every first class police department must be equipped with a fast auto for pursuit of criminals.
Third, some action should be taken as soon as possible in the direction of restricting the sale of dangerous firearms with a view to preventing anarchists from securing such weapons.
Fourth, every efficient police department should be trained to the riot call, to gun practice and a good sharp sprint as even in their ordinary work the men are frequently required to try their speed.

FINDING THEIR LIFE WORK
Now that a great many graduates have completed their school education they are face to face with the problem of selecting their life work. This in most cases is a difficult matter. For some who fall easily into the business pursued by parents or relatives there is very little trouble. But for the majority it is a case of looking around to find some employment or occupation for which they are by nature adapted.

Many pupils leave the grammar schools and even the high school without knowing their own aptitudes. The manual training course in the high school is well adapted to assist the pupils in finding their own aptitudes in the mechanical line. In this respect alone it is of great advantage to those who take it up. But unfortunately the majority of the grammar school graduates do not enter the high school. They have to take what they can get in the line of employment, making the most of their future opportunities to get what they want.

It is well in such cases for young people not to be too hard to please. They should make up their minds that they cannot get what they want just at the time they want it. They should make the most of what they can get and watch for an opportunity for something better. One of the things that ruins the life of many a young man is, that he has an abhorrence for manual labor; he wants some kind of a genteel position where he will have no hard work, no heavy lifting, where he can sit down and take things easy. There are thousands of tramps on the road today throughout the United States simply because they started out with that same feeling. The boy who will get along is the one who is not afraid of work, who learns to use his hands in conjunction with his brain, who trains his perceptive faculties, learns to obey and is ready to take a hand at anything.

There is one kind of boy that is wanted nowhere. He is the boy who is never ready to do anything when he is told to do it, who always asks why he is told to do such a thing, why it would not do as well at some other time, or why somebody else should not do it. In the rush of business nobody would be bothered with any such boy. The young people who go out looking for work should, therefore, make up their minds to follow orders strictly without any hesitation or protest.

The one great aim for a graduate after leaving school should be to secure an opportunity to learn some good trade. It doesn't take a boy very long to learn a trade if he attends to his business and makes good use of his time. It matters not that a boy should have an ambition to go higher. The acquisition of a trade will help him even in that direction. Once he has learned the trade he is self-reliant and has a guarantee of support while striving for something better.

In seeking success it will be well for boys to remember that those who rise to distinction in the vast majority of cases concentrate their powers upon one single aim or one line of business. It is useless to attempt to be a jack-of-all-trades. That means failure. The tendency of the age is to specialize. The man who makes a specialty of one thing can attain excellence far above what he could attain if he endeavored to excel in a great many things. Another point is to complete whatever he begins. It is useless to build the foundation of a house unless the superstructure follows.

There are thousands of trades available to young people throughout any manufacturing city. Every mill is a great busy hive of mechanical trades. The same may be said of the machine shop, of a shoe shop and in fact of every factory that can be mentioned. The textile school teaches almost all the textile trades and it offers splendid opportunities for young men who want to engage in the textile business. Then there are commercial trades acquired in the stores, the banking houses and railway stations. There are a vast number of trades that have to do with providing food, clothing and shelter. These may be considered staple trades in which a good man will find employment almost anywhere he goes. There are in connection with the printing business a great number of trades, all of which are comparatively clean and remunerative.

The one great trouble with most of the desirable trades is, that they are guarded by unions who limit the number of apprentices in most establishments. In spite of all obstacles, however, new hands are in demand as the old are passing out and the school graduate who looks around will be able to find something adapted to his abilities and his tastes, something in which he can make a respectable living and from which he can rise with industry and thrift to a calling that will bring a greater income.

SEEN AND HEARD

Children who apply to librarians for books present all kinds of letters from parents and teachers containing instructions as to the kind of literature they think it advisable for their young charges to imbibe, but this masterpiece was handed in one day last week.

Dear Lady: Please send by Bertha a book that will agree with her pa. He is 43 years old, has never been much of a reader; is laid up with a lame back, no appetite, but terrible thirst all the time; a quick pulse and temperature that stays at about 100. Please send something that will excite him and send his temperature up any higher.

It took a consultation of all the high-brows in the library to prescribe a literary dose for pa that would not conflict with the medical bulletin. They sent him "The Swiss Family Robinson." His temperature did not go up.

"I always manage to land in New York over the Fourth," said a western traveling man. "I've been here for six consecutive Fourth's, and there's no place like it for a combination of quiet and comfort. Seashore places are crowded and noisy and I don't get half the solid comfort and rest that I do right here. So many people being away the city has a particularly clean, restful look, and wherever you go there are no crowds and not so many people but that you're sure to be well served and attended to. People who haven't gone away the night before generally start so early that morning that by noon the excursion boats aren't crowded and the trolley cars are positively empty. In the evening I go up on some of your many fine gardens and eat a little something and watch the fireworks from all around. 'Tis had a quiet, restful day, haven't heard any noise, haven't been in any crowds and feel like patting myself on the back for knowing enough to spend my Fourth of July in New York city."

On a street car recently a young bachelor who is fond of children gave his attention to a little tot who interested him very much. Presently the child began to cry, and despite the efforts of the young mother, it continued to make anything but a joyful noise. Everyone in the car seemed to be annoyed, and this only stimulated the mother of the child to try to calm the lusty youngster. The bachelor thought that his interest in children was an indication of his capacity for calming them, and volunteered a theory which perhaps was based upon his own earlier experience. "Perhaps there's a pin sticking in him," he whispered to the mother, and after the manner of one who is familiar with all the complexities and troubles of a baby's life. Thinking, evidently, that the mother of the child didn't understand him, the young man relinquished his fourth. This was too much for the young woman, for at last she said in a tone of scorn with much emphasis, "No, there's no pin sticking in him, he's scared because you're making faces at him." Thereupon, the bachelor lapsed into an abrupt pensiveness.

Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university, was walking across the campus the other day with the dean of one of the colleges, when the chiming in the library tower began to ring.

"Dean," said he, "the music of those chiming is so beautiful that it always sets me dreaming of the past. My boyhood days."

"What do you say?" interrupted the venerable dean.

"I say the chiming is very, very beautiful. They remind me of things."

"What?" yelled the dignified old dean again.

"The chiming—the chiming—how beautiful!"

HIER COMING IN AUTUMN
When the maple turns to crimson
And the sassafras to gold;
When the cedars in the meadow
And the aspens on the fold;
When the moon is wrapped in vapor
And the night is frosty cold;
When the chestnut burrs are opened
And the acorns drop like hail,
And the drowsy air is startled
With the drumming of the partridge
And the whistling of the quail—
Through the rustling wood I wander,
Through the jewels of the year,
From the yellow uplands calling,
Singing her that fall is dear.
She is near me in the Autumn,
She, the beautiful, is near.

Through the smoke of burning Summer
When the weary winds are still,
I can see her in the valley,
I can see her on the hill—
In the splendor of the woodlands,
In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven
Meet and mingle in the blue;
She can wander down the glory
To the places that she knew,
Where the happy lovers wandered
In the days when life was true.

So I think, when days are sweetest
And the world is wholly fair,
She may come some time upon me
Through the dimness of the air,
With the cross upon her bosom
And the amaranth in her hair.

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her
And to hold her gently fast,
Till I blessed her, till she blessed me,
That were happiness at last;
That were bliss beyond all meetings
In the Autumn of the past!

J. Mortimer Titus of Boston and Portland and with a host of friends in the city, made his annual visit to Lowell over Sunday as the guest of his old friend, William F. Fox of the Park hotel. Mr. Titus has been many years in the employ of the Eastern Steamship company, as head clerk on the Gov. Dingley, the Gov. Cobb and the Bay State, and will be recalled by passengers on the Portland steamer as the handsome and courteous gentleman who takes tickets and answers questions of every old kind of a question about the states of Maine, Massachusetts and the cities of Boston and Portland, and at him by nervous passengers. Mr. Titus has returned to his old love, the good steamer Bay State, which after six months in dry dock, is in commission once more, but so changed as to be hardly recognizable. The remodeled Bay State has 50 new staterooms, making 250 in all, and is entirely new from her main deck up. Instead of the old fashioned sidewheels which furnished the propelling power the Bay State is now equipped with smaller but very efficient, which give her additional speed and less vibration. In proceeding along her course, the most familiar part of the new Bay State is the pilot house, where Captain Linscott, an old and valued officer of the Eastern company, is again at the wheel. Captain Linscott has piled the eastern coast for over 30 years without an accident, and if there's a rock or shoal between Boston and Portland that he doesn't know, it must have been slipped in there while he was on his vacation last winter. Purser, Crocker and Steward Lew Farmer, two other well known officers, are back on their old jobs on the Bay State.

Sunday school, but he nearly missed one week. He got up at 6 o'clock, took his gun and went into the cornfield to scare the crows away; went back in time for breakfast, then went out, put two shoes on one of his horses, hitched the horse to the harrow and went to the field and commenced to harrow. When he had done this, he looked at his watch and found that it was 11 o'clock. He was not going to Sunday school. He had lost sight of the fact that it was Sunday morning, and was thunder-struck when Mrs. Boore convinced him it was Sunday. The horse was quickly taken from the harrow, hooked to another vehicle, and after a hasty toilet Mr. and Mrs. Boore went on their way to Sunday school.

Gertrude Altherton went to the Yosemite at the beginning of June, but finding it very hot, dusty, uncomfortable and overrated place, changed her mind about staying there for a month, and promptly returned to San Francisco. She knows of three or four places in Europe far more beautiful and infinitely more interesting and accessible than the Yosemite. She will drive over Boulder in clouds of dust and a sweltering heat. Mrs. Altherton finds San Francisco an ideal place for work, being nearly always cool and bracing; so she will remain there till she goes to Europe, at the end of the summer.

Out of so unpromising a subject as the income tax, Bernard Shaw has managed to draw a column and a half, London Times measure, of cheerful comment and contradiction. The special commissioners had called upon Mr. Shaw to make a formal statement of his income. He replies, in part:

(2) Direction (e), page 2, reads as follows: "The income of a married woman living with her husband is deemed by the income tax acts to be his income, and all particulars thereof must be included in any statement of income rendered by him for the purpose of super-tax." Now I have absolutely no means of ascertaining my wife's income except by asking her for the information. Her property is a separate property. She keeps a separate banking account at a separate bank. Her solicitor is not my solicitor. I can make a guess at her means from her style of living, exactly as the surveyor of income tax does when he makes a shot at an assessment in the absence of exact information; but beyond that I have no more knowledge of her income than I have of yours. I have therefore asked her to give me a statement. She refuses, on principle. As far as I know, I have no legal means of compelling her to make any such disclosure; and if I had, it does not follow that I am bound to incur law costs to obtain from her which is required not by myself but by the state. Clearly, however, it is in the power of the commissioners to compel my wife to make a full disclosure of her income, for the purposes of taxation; but equally clearly they must not compel me to disclose to me or to any other person. It seems to me, under these circumstances, that all I can do for you is to tell you who my wife is and leave it to you to ascertain her income and make me pay the tax on it. Even this you cannot do without a violation of secrecy, as it will be possible for me by a simple calculation, to ascertain my wife's income from your demand. I need not dwell on the further obvious objection that, as my wife enjoys a fixed income derived from property, whereas a large part of my own is a fluctuating income derived from the precarious profession of playwright, my income may in another year be much smaller than my wife's, in which case I shall have to pay on a much larger income than I enjoy, without, as far as I know, having any legal power of recovering from my wife the amount I have paid on her income.

For this difficult situation Mr. Shaw whimsically places the responsibility upon suffragism and its ideals of woman's independence, even a married woman's.

THE LAW SCHOOL
Set Commencement Pace at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, June 28.—The Harvard Law school set the commencement pace today, although class celebrations, especially that of 1880, with former President Roosevelt as an active participant in part of the festivities, also held attention.

The law school alumni had as orator of the day Attorney General Wickham, who spoke to a large gathering this noon in Sanders theatre.

The Roosevelt class of 1880 journeyed out to the Blue Hills, where all sorts of sports were enjoyed by athletes of 30 years ago at the Hoosic-Whitcomb club. As Col. Roosevelt had already notified the secretary that he would not be at these observances, the members of the class had the club to themselves and were undisturbed by a curious throng.

Seven classes lunched and dined at the Country club at Brookline, while later in the day many of the officials of the university were busy welcoming candidates for honorary degrees to be conferred at commencement tomorrow.

The names of those who will be honored by Harvard tomorrow will not be made public until just before the exercises.

BOSTON, June 28.—Accompanied by her mother, Miss Beatrice Anita Baldwin Turnbull, the 16-year-old school girl, will depart for Los Angeles on Saturday next to start her legal battle for a share of the $11,000,000 left by "Lucky" Baldwin, the former turfman. Miss Turnbull, according to her counsel, will fight the case to the end. She already has presented a claim to being the daughter of Baldwin, and according to the records at the Los Angeles City Hall was born Dec. 7, 1893, at 129 South Olive street, that city, where her mother, then Lillian Asbury was then living as the wife of "Lucky" Baldwin.

Walter B. Grant, counsel for the young woman in Boston, will not proceed to Los Angeles with Mrs. Turnbull and her daughter. The young woman intends, as he is being looked after by Timothy W. Coakley and is dora Dockweller in California.

"There is evidence that there was a common law marriage between Baldwin and Mrs. Turnbull," said Mr. Grant yesterday afternoon. "Baldwin told the woman he was a divorced man and free to enter into the marriage with her. It was some time afterward when Mrs. Turnbull discovered that the facts presented to her by the wealthy turfman were untrue. She ceased to live with him after that."

"The statutes of California make Mrs. Turnbull the legitimate wife of Baldwin. I intend to fight the issue on that point and see nothing but victory in sight for my client."

THE PUBLIC HALL

For the Washington Tavern Site
—Recommends to City Council
Different Site Selected

At a meeting of the special committee on Huntington hall held last night it was voted to recommend to the city council that that body inform the public hall commission that $70,000 be deemed excessive for the Old Washington tavern site. Three-fourths of the committee, however, favored the site.

In the early stages of the meeting Councilman Flanagan moved that the committee recommend the appropriation of $70,000 for the Washington tavern site.

Ald. Dexter said that $70,000 was too much. He favored the site, but he thought it ought to be seized and a reasonable sum paid.

Mr. Qua read the provision creating the Huntington hall commission and was of the opinion that the land could be seized by the commissioners without the passage of an order.

Mr. Butler said that very few cities in the country had a better opportunity to have its public buildings in a square than did Lowell and he did not believe in scattering them to the four winds.

Mr. Qua said that if a site in Moody street opposite the municipal buildings was selected it would mean the passing of the stacks that are an eyesore today.

Butler said that somebody asked him the other day why they did not abolish the Huntington hall commission.

"Why don't they abolish the common council?" asked Mr. Flanagan.

"They will some day," said Mr. Qua. Mr. Qua said the Old Washington tavern site is assessed for $63,000. "The commission has chosen the Old Washington tavern site," said Mr. Butler, "and why isn't it up to us to recommend that the sum asked by the commission be appropriated by the city government? Nobody could see the hall if it were built on that site unless he stood directly in front of it. One couldn't see it in Middlesex street or in Central street until one got beyond Fowler's corner."

After more discussion Ald. Dexter moved that the committee recommend to the city council that that body inform the Huntington hall commission that $70,000 be considered excessive as a price for a site for a public hall and that the commission be requested to report to the city council if the site recommended by them, or some other suitable site, can be purchased for a lesser sum. It was so voted.

The committee voted to recommend that the public baths and the public hall be in the same building.

REV. FR. WATTELLE INJURIES FATAL WOMAN ESCAPED

Gave Lecture on Visits Asst. Supt. Burke in an She Broke Out of Deto Lourdes Auto Accident tention Room

One of the most interesting lectures heard by the French people of Lowell in a long time was given at St. Joseph's college last evening, by Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., on the subject of "Lourdes." The hall was packed to the doors and the speaker held the rapid attention of his audience throughout.

Fr. Watelle was twice a visitor at Lourdes, first as a student and later in the early days of his priesthood. He also served as a "braucardier," or volunteer stretcher-bearer, who helped to carry the sick pilgrims from the trains to the grotto.

In opening his lecture, Fr. Watelle gave the history of Bernadette Soubirous and of the 18 apparitions of the Virgin which came to her in 1858, and of the great pilgrimages to Lourdes, which brought hundreds of thousands of sufferers to the miraculous grotto and healing fountain of the shrine.

"Lourdes," said the lecturer, "is much beyond what your imagination could picture. It would be a miracle should you be able to conceive, without having been there, its full significance. It is at once the scene of the greatest human misery in the world, the scene of the most magnificent outpouring of love, and the scene of the greatest gift of kindness God is willing to show his children when they have faith in him. After Lourdes, one feels that there can be heaven only."

The pilgrimages and processions, the lecturer said, are the most wonderful feature of Lourdes, wonderful as is Lourdes itself, sprung with its three basiliques and other lofty religious monuments from what was 52 years ago a marshy wilderness. Every nation is represented in these pilgrimages, with the simple folk of faraway provinces, such as the Bretons, giving a particularly picturesque note in their native costume and their baskets on their arms.

The lecturer described the intense pathos of the "white test" which is given to the pilgrims, bearing its burden of suffering to Lourdes, their last hope. An intense spirit of faith causes these pilgrims to bear the added torture of travel with patience, to live, even through experiences that would be unbearable to others, and to die with faith upheld them.

So strong is the faith and love of the people for Lourdes that the French government, fearing to run counter to popular sentiment, decided four weeks ago to leave open and free the shrine of the Virgin and turned it over to the city authorities, who, in turn, returned it to the archdiocesan authorities, its rightful keepers.

Miracles witnessed by the reverend lecturer himself were described, especially one extraordinary occasion in 1897, when 32 cures occurred in a single day which were duly controlled and accepted as such by the medical authorities. Rev. Fr. Watelle was himself present on that day and saw those who were healed rise and throw away their crutches and walk.

In concluding, the reverend lecturer said it was his wish to establish on the grounds of the French-American orphanage a shrine to Our Lady of Lourdes, with a grotto which would be an exact copy of the miraculous one where Bernadette saw the apparitions.

The vision shown were numerous and particularly beautiful. In connection with the lecture, tableaux with appropriate dialogues depicting scenes at Lourdes were presented. Among them were representations of the apparitions with the Virgin and Bernadette at central figures, and the last, the death of Bernadette in the convent where she had become a nun, Sister Marie Bernard.

The young women taking part in the first tableau were: Virgin, Miss Marie Blanche Cote; Bernadette, Miss Reine Antoinette Hamel; angels, Misses Reine Anna Boulay, Agnes Hamel, Marie Louise Dancoese, Anna Boissonnault, Rose Anna Therieault, Eva Moisan, Marie Louise Simard, Bertha Germain, Yvonne Alexander, Annette Caruel, Corilla Hamel, Alice Alexander, Miss Rose Alba Boucher recited the prologue to this tableau. The second tableau, which was particularly effective, represented the Virgin and Bernadette again at the grotto, with a score of peasant women come to find out if Bernadette really saw the apparitions.

Those who took part were Misses Marie Blanche Cote, Reine Antoinette Hamel, Juliette Langlais, Yvonne Guerin, Alice Caruel, Laura Paquin, Bernadette Milot, Veronique Bergeron, Gora Paquin, Claudia Cloutier, Eva Roux, Florida Boissonnault, Albertina Brohier, Diana Roux, Gabrielle Paquin, Rose Alba Boucher, Regina Cloutier, Eva Berthiaume.

The third and last tableau was given by Misses Marie Blanche Cote, Reine Antoinette Hamel, Lea Cote, Irene, Alice and Yvonne Alexander, Rose Anna Boulay, Marie Louise Dancoese.

Besides these, there were several musical numbers. The hall orchestra played. Miss Sylvia Cote of Nashua played the piano and sang a duet with Mr. Romeo Cote. Mr. Arthur Beauchamp of L'Etouffe, who had the direction of the program, presented the lecturer in an able speech.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Congregation de Notre Dame de Lourdes for the benefit of the orphanage fete champetre, and will be repeated tonight.

BODY RECOVERED
FOUND IN LONG POND

After a lengthy search the employees of C. H. Molloy & Sons yesterday afternoon recovered the body of John O'Brien, aged 16 years, who was drowned in Long pond on Sunday. The body was found near the centre of the pond, where the water is very deep and where the land was described as rising out of sight by his companions.

The body was brought to this city and taken to the undertaking rooms of C. H. Molloy & Sons in Market street, and later was removed to the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Brien of Riverdale avenue.

BOSTON, June 28.—Robert E. Burke, assistant superintendent of the Boston schools, died shortly after midnight last night at the City Hospital, as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident in Dorchester a week ago Sunday.

It was thought at the time of the accident that he would not live, but until Saturday night his progress was so rapid that the physicians attending him began to have hopes of his recovery.

Mr. Burke, with six companions, was riding in a big touring car a week ago Sunday evening, on the way to Dorchester from South Boston, when one of the rear wheels on the machine collapsed, owing to faulty construction.

Burke was the only member of the party to suffer fatal injuries. He was born in Boston and educated in the Eliot grammar school and at English High. After spending a year in a law office he entered Bridgewater Normal school, from which institution he graduated in 1896. He is a graduate of the Lawrence scientific school at Harvard in the class of 1899.

He became successively assistant in the English evening school, principal of the English evening school, junior master at Mechanics Arts High school, and master at Boston Normal school. He was elected assistant superintendent of schools in January, 1907.

HEATED DEBATE
COUNCILMEN ALMOST
Came to Blows

QUINCY, June 28.—Councilman John R. Richards, ward 3, and Joseph L. Wilton, ward 1, after an interchange of epithets at last night's meeting of the council, would have come to blows on the floor, but for the prompt interference of the other members.

The argument arose out of the heated debate over the amendment of the city ordinances, creating another lieutenant and inspector of police, which Richards opposed and Wilton favored.

In the course of the discussion, Wilton declared that some of the councilmen opposed to the amendment were opposed because they had "been approached" by members of the police force who did not desire the new offices.

Richards leaped to the floor, asking if Wilton meant to insinuate that he had been approached. Wilton replied that it was idle to deny that he had not been approached.

"You are a liar," yelled Richards, leaping to his feet.

"You are another, and if you will come into the street we will settle this right," replied Richards.

The two men, white hot, leaped at one another. There was a rush of councilmen toward them and they were separated. President Hobbs broke his gavel pending the quieting of the disturbance.

After the two men apologized, and the meeting adjourned. They were escorted home by friends who feared that the hostilities might be resumed in the street.

TWO SISTERS
WERE MARRIED AT THE SAME TIME

BOSTON, June 28.—A double wedding of unusual interest to Brighton residents took place at the rectory of St. Anthony's church, Allston, last evening, the brides being sisters, Miss Katherine A. Roddy and Miss Whitford J. Roddy. They come of one of the oldest and best-known Brightons families.

Miss Katherine Roddy was married to T. G. F. Collins of Somerville and her sister became the bride of Willis R. Lichfield of Boston. Rev. Fr. Hugh Roe O'Donnell, pastor of St. Anthony's church, performed the ceremonies at 7:30.

Each couple attended the other as bridesmaid and best man. Mr. Lichfield's bride wore a gown of pink mull and carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley. Mr. Collins' bride wore gray silk and carried white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's guardian, Miss Mary E. Roddy, at 58 Market street, Brighton. When the formalities were over the guests repaired to Roddy hall where dancing was enjoyed until 12. A collation was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Lichfield are to spend their honeymoon at New York and Atlantic City. Mr. and Mrs. Collins will make a three months' stay in the White mountains and make their future home in Somerville.

HAS RESIGNED
SIR CASPAR CLARKE GETS $5000 ANNUITY

NEW YORK, June 28.—Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke, for five years director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, tendered his resignation yesterday and it was accepted by the trustees. He resigned because his health is poor and his physicians have advised him not to spend another winter in New York city. At present he is abroad.

In accepting the resignation of the British art connoisseur, the trustees, J. Pierpont Morgan presiding, adopted resolutions of regret and decided that his full salary shall continue for a year and that he shall receive a salary of $5000 a year for life. It is also desired that he accept the position of honorary European correspondent of the institution.

Sir Caspar is 54 years old and one of the best known critics in the world. Before coming to the United States he was director of the famous South Kensington Museum in London. His successor here has not been chosen.

BOSTON, June 28.—One of the first women to break out from the Long wharf immigration station is Anna Jablaskova, a young Polish woman who made the most sensational and successful get-away ever known at Uncle Sam's detention quarters, during the early hours of yesterday. Using a couple of roller towels, she slid through a window to liberty, forty feet below, and vanished, leaving only the towels to tell the tale.

The girl arrived at this port on the Red Star liner Algonquin, June 12, as a cabin passenger with her cousin, a man about 25 years old. They explained they were engaged to be married, but it being against the law for consuls to marry in Russia, they came to this country. The man was released by the immigration inspectors, but the girl was held "for investigation."

The inquiry was still in progress when the young woman decided to dispense with formality. At midnight Sunday she was apparently asleep in the women's dormitory. The intensity of the hour was of great help to her, as there were no inspectors in the vicinity of Long wharf at that time.

The police were not notified of the escape, but a squad of immigration inspectors were sent abroad, armed with warrants. Miss Jablaskova gave an address in Worcester, where supposed relatives lived, when she arrived. This house was carefully watched by federal officers, with no result.

This Cigar Should Be 15cts. —But It's Only 10

All imported cigars carry a duty that makes them 100 per cent higher in price but not necessarily higher in quality.

It's the material and workmanship that counts—not the place they are made.

The "3-20-8" contains the best material that money can buy—fragrant and mellow leaves—the pick of the Havana crop—carefully selected by men who know.

These are imported to our factory in Boston—newly and expensively equipped—where skilled union workmen roll them into cigars of attractive shapes.

Thus by importing the leaf and saving the high duty we can sell the "3-20-8" cigar for 10 cents each—or 3 for 25 cents. No more luxurious smoke can be had for the price. The first "3-20-8" cigar convinces the smoker of taste that it is a useless and expensive habit to buy the imported.

CHILD KIDNAPPED

Taken Away by Auto Party

ALBANY, June 28.—Several men and a woman in a big red touring car drove up to the summer home of Michael F. McLaughlin, on the brow of Kenwood hill, south of the city, yesterday, where Michael F., Jr., 6-year-old son of Mr. McLaughlin, a real estate dealer of Brooklyn, and Mrs. McLaughlin, left Albany on the boat Sunday night, leaving the child in the care of servants.

An investigation by the police led them to express the belief that the child might have been taken by his mother, a former wife of Mr. McLaughlin, who was divorced from him about four years ago.

MAN CHARGED WITH MAKING FALSE STATEMENTS
WESTBORO, June 28.—Wilfred Dugrenier, 25 years old, of Marlboro, was found guilty yesterday morning before Judge William E. Fowler on the charge of making false statements to Town Clerk Joseph S. Gates June 17, when he secured a license to marry Albina Lajoie, a 17-year-old Marlboro girl, giving the girl's residence as Westboro and her age as 19 years. He was fined $50, appealed, and was bound over in $200.

Town Clerk Gates testified and Joseph Lajoie, the girl's father, also said his daughter ran away from Marlboro with Dugrenier June 17, and several days afterward he received a letter that he thinks was sent by the husband, announcing the marriage. Instead of giving the young couple a blessing the father had Dugrenier arrested.

Dugrenier testified he did not know the girl was 17, as she had told him she was 18 or 19, and that he also told Town Clerk Gates he was going to live in Westboro. The young bride, who does not look more than a grammar school girl, cried during the hearing and said she was 18 years old last October. The father produced a certificate from the town clerk of Chicopee that Albina would not be 18 years old until October 25. The young couple were married June 17 at the Baptist church parsonage by Rev. Manford W. Schuch. Since then they have been living in Westboro.

CHIEF E. S. HOSMER FOUND GUILTY

Seeks Legal Advice on the Lawrence Man Convicted on Charge of Bribery

According to an opinion rendered by the city solicitor, cases in which paper caps are used, the paper caps themselves, toy pistols and small torpedoes do not come under the heading of fireworks, and can be sold in stores located in tenement buildings upon receiving a permit from the chief of the fire department.

In connection with chapter 565 of the Acts of 1910, "An act to prohibit the sale of certain pistols and explosives and to authorize the making of regulations relative to fireworks and firecrackers," Johnathan H. Whitney, chief of the district police of this state, has caused printed a pamphlet which explains in detail the meaning of different clauses in the act.

Section 42 of chapter 7 of the rules and regulations adopted by the state police in connection with the legislative act reads as follows: "No permit shall be granted to keep for sale at retail any fireworks or firecrackers in any building used in part as a tenement, lodging or apartment house, or used in part for school or factory purposes, or where people are accustomed to assemble."

The chief of the fire department in order to keep strictly within the law, appealed to the city solicitor to give his opinion relative to the sale of paper caps, toy pistols and small torpedoes in stores which are located in tenement buildings and the city solicitor has decided that they do not come under the head of fireworks.

SALEM, June 28.—A verdict of guilty against Samuel Kress of Lawrence on charges of bribery and attempt to bribe was returned by a jury in the superior criminal court here today. The jury was given the case yesterday afternoon and a sealed verdict was returned this morning. Judge Bell, who received the verdict, did not impose sentence, but awaited the arrival of Judge Schofield, who has heard the testimony in the case. Kress was arrested several weeks ago with Mayor White of Lawrence and several other prominent citizens of that city, all of the defendants being charged with bribing former Alderman Xavier Legendre and Carl Woelfel of Lawrence in an attempt to have Chief Hamilton of the Lawrence fire department discharged. The cases of the other defendants have not been heard.

THE BIG FIGHT

To be Followed by Lot of Tickers

NEW YORK, June 28.—New York will follow the Jeffries-Johnson fight by long distance methods. The results of the rounds will be read from hundreds of tickers, while the progress of the fight will be put on the numerous bulletin boards which are to be erected in different parts of the city. One enterprising manager has hired a ball park and while an announcer reads off the blows, as they are struck, two pugilists, one a white man and the other a negro, will go through the motions of Johnson and Jeffries. The last of the few score of sporting men who purpose witnessing the fight departed today.

ASKS INJUNCTION

Claims Woman Got $40,000 by Fraud

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Fenton J. Hurd, an aged and wealthy resident of Greenwich, Conn., yesterday asked for an injunction in the district supreme court restraining Laura R. Cramer from disposing of various sums of money, aggregating $40,000, which Hurd now claims was secured from him by Mrs. Cramer through alleged spiritualistic communications from his deceased wife.

According to the complaint filed yesterday, Hurd, shortly after the death of his wife, who had greatly assisted him in the accumulation of his vast wealth, came to this city and took up his residence at the same house as the defendant, Laura R. Cramer. It is alleged that the defendant won his confidence and persuaded him of her alleged "occult" powers, and that she could communicate with disembodied spirits. The aged man is said to have been already a strong believer in spiritualism, and it is charged that when the defendant furnished him with letters signed "Mary," and purporting to be directions from his deceased spouse, he was easily persuaded to sign drafts of $1000, $5000 or $10000 in favor of the supposed "medium." The longest draft thus alleged to have been obtained was dated May 5, 1909, and called for the payment of $10,000. In March last Mr. Hurd left Washington, and returned to Greenwich, where application was made to the court and he was declared incapable of managing his property.

Mrs. Cramer, who is employed as a clerk in the library of the state department, and has an apartment at the De Sota, 13th street and Massachusetts avenue, could not be found yesterday.

POLICE REPORT

STATISTICS OF ARRESTS FOR THE YEAR

Vast Number of Minor Licenses Granted During Year—3812 Brought to Lookup During Year

The annual report of the board of police for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1910, is now in printed form and the pamphlets are being distributed. The introduction to the report was published in the columns of The Sun several weeks ago, but there are statistics appended which are of more or less interest to the public.

It shows that there were in April 241 licenses granted as follows: One brewery, four wholesale dealers, 80 common victuallers, 77 retail dealers, 12 innkeepers, 7 clubs, 66 druggists and 4 for permission to deal in paints and chemicals. The amount of money received by the city treasurer for these licenses amounted to $173,060, of which 25 per cent or $43,265 was paid to the state and the remaining $129,795 is retained by the city.

There were several licenses surrendered and cancelled and with but one exception licenses of the same classes were issued in lieu of those surrendered and cancelled; the exception case being the surrender and cancellation of a first and fourth-class license as common victualler and retail dealer, granted and issued in conjunction, for which a license of the first class as common victualler only, through the operation of the recently enacted so-called "bar and bottle" bill, was issued in its stead.

During the year there were 1,533 minor licenses granted, of which the city treasurer received $6,366.35. The detailed list shows that 67 permits were granted for the automobile races held last September, 113 for the various amusements on the south common last fourth of July, and 267 to sell ice cream, confectionery, soda water and fruit on the Lord's day.

There were 217 arrests against the person, 173 of these being for assault, one for murder, 24 for threatening and one for assault on an officer.

Under the heading of crimes against property there were 394 arrests. One was for arson, 36 breaking and entering, 134 for larceny and the remainder for various offenses.

There were 3275 wagon calls during the year and 3812 of the total number of persons arrested were brought to the lockup in the wagon.

The report of the bureau of criminal investigation shows that 271 arrests were made by that branch of the department. The amount of property stolen was $6997.56, of which amount $5998.26 was recovered.

Report of Police Department

Under the head of "Statistical Report of the Lowell Police Department" it shows that 4289 arrests against public order, etc., during the year. More than three-quarters of that number were for drunkenness, the number of arrests for drunkenness being 3493. The greatest number of arrests for any month was in May when 588 were locked up, and the smallest number was in February, when 184 were placed under arrest.

Eight escaped prisoners were arrested. There were 15 violations of the liquor law, two deserters were taken into custody, and there was one arrest for the abduction of an unmarried woman.

The different crimes under the head of crimes against public order are published in detail form by the month.

Disastrous Fire Broke Out at Paterson, N. J.

PATERSON, N. J., June 28.—Fire early today swept a block on Main street from Ward to Market streets in this city and caused a loss estimated at $500,000. Help from outside had to be asked by the local firemen and at times during the three hour fight with the flames it looked as if the loss in the big fire of 1903 might be equaled or exceeded. Five firemen were injured by a falling wall. So far as known there were no other casualties.

ONE MAN DROWNED

Several Others Were Injured in an Auto Accident

CHICAGO, June 28.—One man was pinned under an automobile and drowned, and five others and a young woman were seriously injured early this morning, a few miles from Hammond, Ind., when the car plunged into a creek. The victims of the accident were: Peter Ripley, 30 years old, of Hammond, dead.

THE TURKISH LAW EX-GOV. GUILD

Figured in a Suit for Named as Ambassador to Mexico

WORCESTER, June 28.—Judge George A. Sanderson handed down yesterday findings in two cases for the nullification of a marriage under the law of Turkey and a divorce in a Worcester county marriage, dismissing both petitions.

The petition for nullification was that of Sadie Kapigian of Holliston vs. Krikor Der Minassian of Milford, both former residents of Worcester. Judge Sanderson finds that the libellant is not entitled to a decree. She asked for the decree on the ground that Minassian already had a wife in Turkey. Minassian admitted this but claimed that under Turkish law, when a woman changes her religion to that of a man she marries, any previous marriage is null and void. An expert on Turkish law was called into the case and as a result of his testimony Judge Sanderson ruled that the first marriage of the libellee was not in force when he contracted the second marriage and that the petitioner is not entitled to a decree. He will report the case to the supreme court.

Minassian admitted that when he left Turkey his wife married a Mahometan and changed her faith from Christianity to that of her husband, which freed him from the union.

Judge Sanderson also handed down a finding of fact in the contested divorce case of Bessie F. Balch of Natick vs. George C. Balch of Petersham. The judge finds that the allegation of intoxication made by petitioner is not established; that the cruelty was condoned by petitioner returning to live with her husband in November, 1909; that respondent did not threaten to kill petitioner, and that the allegation of misconduct was not proved.

WILL NOT ATTEND RACE

BEVERLY, June 28.—Because of the still serious condition of Michael Thierholtz, the Italian workman, who was injured by one of President Taft's automobiles yesterday, Robert A. Taft, the president's eldest son, will not go to New London for the boat race and it is expected that the government yacht Sylph will remain here.

The injured man was reported to have passed a very comfortable night, with improved chances of recovery, but his name still continues on the dangerous list.

The case is in charge of Dr. S. J. Mixer of Boston, who came here yesterday at the earnest solicitation of the president, and Robert Taft keeps closely informed of the man's condition.

MANY WERE WOUNDED

BILBAO, Spain, June 28.—There were further disturbances today growing out of the strained relations between the government of Premier Canalejas and the vatican.

A crowd composed of Catholics and nationalists surrounded the palace of the governor of the province of Biscay and shouted, "Down with the governor."

The police charged the demonstrators with drawn sabres, wounding a number of them.

FORCED TO WORK AERIAL TRICKS

Up Ranch Life in Montreal

BOSTON, June 28.—Forced to work because of the strained financial conditions, Erwin A. Morse, the 22-year-old son of Charles W. Morse, the former banker and "Ice King" of New York, who was recently graduated from Yale university with Robert Taft, son of the president, has decided not to continue his studies. In the near future he will leave for the plains of California to work on a ranch and leave behind him the books of Harvard law school, where it was intended he should be a student at the opening of the college year in the fall.

It was the wish of his father, now behind the stone walls of the federal prison, that his son, Erwin, should be a lawyer. He even went so far as to select Harvard University law school as the educational institution his boy should attend after graduating from Yale.

But Erwin, who is a plucky boy, says no. He must go out into the world and earn a living for his mother, and so, despite the planning of his father, the young man has fully made up his mind and will soon be a ranchman.

Yesterday afternoon young Morse arrived in this city from Bath, Me., but his stay was one of short duration. He proceeded to New York to complete his arrangements for traveling west to the agent of his employers.

Mr. Morse was one of the most popular students at Yale and was friendly with Robert Taft. In fact, the two were together a great deal of the time, and after the graduation exercises last week, and when they were about to part for the summer, they agreed to meet in the fall when Harvard law school convenes. Robert Taft will be present at the opening, but Erwin A. Morse will be many miles away from Cambridge by that time.

Young Morse is five feet ten inches in height. He is not heavily built, but has a good pair of shoulders that will serve him well in his new work.

THE RELIGIOUS DECLARATION
LONDON, June 28.—Premier Asquith introduced in the house of commons today the promised bill altering the form of the religious declaration required of the sovereign upon his coronation.

In the proposed text the doctrine of the Roman Catholic Church is not singled out for repudiation, but it is simply affirmed that the sovereign is a faithful Protestant.

MOVING PICTURE TRAFFIC
NEW YORK, June 28.—We have found no evidence of existence in the county of New York of any organization or organizations engaged in the traffic of women for immoral purposes. We have not found evidence of any organized traffic in women for immoral purposes.

This was the opening of the presentment made by the special grand jury, of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is foreman, which has been investigating white slave conditions in this city. The presentment was handed up several days ago, but was not filed by Judge O'Sullivan, of general sessions, until today.

The presentment denounces the men who profit from the unlawful practices of unfortunate women. Moving picture shows are condemned in the presentment, which speaks of them as creating evil in the minds of children. The presentment speaks of having found 125 messages and manure parlors to be nothing more or less than disorderly houses, where manure is advertised or performed for a "blind."

In relation to the consorts of disreputable women, the presentment recommends that there be formed a crusade against them and that legislation be effected looking toward their extermination. It also suggests that laws be framed to control the operation of massage and manure establishments. Their supervision by the board of health is recommended.

The presentment recommends that some means be devised to prevent Rialto law hotels from becoming disorderly houses.

Concerning the tenement house laws, the presentment suggests that they be revised on a stricter basis, and recommends that a commission be appointed by the mayor to study the question of social evils in the cities of this and other countries.

6 O'CLOCK ELEVATOR FELL

From Top of Building in New Bedford Today

Four Men Injured—The Elevator

One Leg—Others More Seriously Hurt

ARCTIC TROPHIES A STRANGE CASE

Question Over Disposal of Them
Father Has 11 Toes and Son Has 9

BERLIN, June 28.—The charges concerning the disposition of Arctic trophies left by him at Etah, which Dr. Frederick A. Cook made against Commander Robert E. Peary during the height of the controversy over their claims of discovery of the North pole were aired in a German court today when the suit instituted against Peary by Rudolph Franke was opened.

Franke was associated with Cook in polar exploration and demands $10,000 in satisfaction of prizes of the hunt which he alleges Peary required him to surrender in consideration of bringing him back to America.

The defense sets up a general denial and further questions the jurisdiction of the court, on the grounds that the defendant is an American citizen, having no domicile in Germany, and that the opening arguments of the court adjourned to consider the point of jurisdiction.

Commander Peary was served with papers in the suit when he came here recently to fill a lecture engagement. Peary's interests were looked after today by Attorney Jablonski, a partner of Victor Schneider, counsel to the American embassy, while Attorney Thiel represented Franke. The latter was present, but was not called to the witness stand.

The proceedings were before three judges of the provincial court. In opening for the plaintiff Thiel spoke for more than an hour, going over the whole story of the expedition, the building of the supply station at Etah on the northwest coast of Greenland, the hunting for walrus tusks and the journey to the arrival of Peary, and Franke's return home in the Peary relief ship Erik.

The lawyer asserted that Peary had caused the plaintiff to turn over to him certain blue fox skins, furs and walrus tusks as the only condition upon which he would take him from the Arctic, where he deserted him, he believes he would die. The attorney argued that the transaction was illegal in that it was consummated under stress. He said that a pair of the walrus tusks were later presented by Peary to Theodore Roosevelt, while some of the blue fox skins were given to President Taft and Mrs. Taft by Mrs. Peary. Counsel claimed that the German courts had jurisdiction in the matter because Franke, a German, was unable to obtain redress in the United States.

Replying for the defense, Attorney Jablonski insisted that the court had no jurisdiction for the reason that Peary had neither property nor home here. "We consented," he said, "to appear at the trial only because our absence would have been construed unfavorably in some quarters."

Counsel denied the allegations of Franke from beginning to end and said that they had the same foundation as did Cook's claim that he had been at the North pole.

CHARLTON CASE

International Aspect of It is Still Complicated

NEW YORK, June 28.—With the arraignment today of Porter Charlton on the charge of murdering his wife in Italy, the case against the former bank clerk reaches a stage which is expected to result in definite progress toward its disposition.

Although the international aspect of the case is still complicated, the preliminary court action places the matter in shape where it can better be handled by diplomatic agencies. Even an expected adjournment had been discounted by the preparation of proofs of the crime for presentation to the court and filing in the records.

Copies of the Italian evidence of the crime are in the hands of Gustavo Di Rosa, the Italian consular representative in New York. It was said also before the proceedings opened before Judge Blair in the court of Oyer and Terminer, Jersey City, that the New Jersey authorities also had a copy of a despatch sent by the Marquis Paolo Di Montagliari, chargé d'affaires at the Italian embassy in Washington, to Secretary of State Knox on the day of Charlton's arrest and requesting the young man's extradition.

In reply the marquis was stated to have received a note from Secretary Knox, in which it was anticipated that if Charlton were given up Italy would hereafter be expected to consent to the extradition of Italians who commit crimes in America and flee to Italy.

WARDANI HANGED

Was Assassin of the Egyptian Premier

CAIRO, Egypt, June 28.—Ibrahim Wardani, the assassin of Boutros Pasha Ghall, the Egyptian premier and minister of foreign affairs, was hanged today.

Wardani was an Egyptian student and a member of the nationalist party. On Feb. 20 last he shot the premier as the latter was leaving the ministry for foreign affairs. His victim died on the following day. At his trial the murderer admitted that his motive was to avenge various acts of the government which the nationalists attributed to Boutros Pasha personally.

During his visit here Theodore Roosevelt addressed the students of the University of Cairo, and in the course of his speech he sternly denounced the assassination, saying that those who condoned the act stood on the pinnacle of evil and infamy. Subsequently students affiliated with the political opposition to British rule in Egypt gathered before Mr. Roosevelt's hotel and made a rather mild demonstration of dissent from the sentiments expressed by the former president.

Man Drank Arsenate of Lead

CRANSTON, R. I., June 28.—Prevented by his wife from shooting himself last night, James H. Greene, 32, today drank a solution of arsenate of lead which caused his death almost instantly. He had been despondent because of the death of two of his children and his mother within a few months. In 1905 he was employed by the state board of agriculture in the work of exterminating the elm beetle and used arsenate of lead to spray the trees with. Besides a widow he is survived by two other children.

WAR ON "RATS" AND "PUFFS"

A widespread crusade is now being carried on everywhere against the wearing of "rats" and "puffs" by women. Department stores and other institutions where girls are employed are now putting out signs asking the girls to wear head dresses. Doctors are denouncing them as "unhygienic dust and germ catchers." "Rats" and "puffs" are not merely unattractive, but they are the most causeful of falling hair and baldness in women. The network of veins in the scalp are destroyed by the heat and pressure of these artificial masses of hair and color, and the natural result is baldness. By restoring the scalp to a healthy condition in Pitt's Head Wash, particularly in cases where there is dandruff, itching scalp and hair that falls out, this is the best hygienic preparation for the hair, forming an overcoat, and making the hair grow.

That is What the Lynn Bandit Expects to Get

LYNN, Mass., July 28.—Harboring the belief that he will shortly be executed for his part in the killing of the shoe manufacturer, Thomas A. Landreagan, and Policemen James H. Carroll, Saturday, Wasili Iwanowski, the captured bandit, today wrote a letter to his near relatives in Russia. He asked his mother not to mourn for him and wrote that the letter would be the last that he ever wrote from him.

The following is his letter, in part:

Dear Mother and Brothers and Sisters:

"I send you my last regard and beg you not to cry for me and lose your strength, as you have not more than you need. I write now that I have been arrested and in quite little time will be sentenced to death, but for what cause I will not write you. So I bid farewell to you. Please forgive me for not obeying you, but now it is too late."

The condition of Andy Adams, one of the bandit trio who is now lying in the Lynn hospital suffering from half a dozen bullet wounds, was reported to be about the same today.

It is believed that he will survive but the attending physicians have not given out any statement to this effect.

EXPRESS DELIVERY LODGER IS HELD

Big Protest to be Made at Board of Trade This Evening Larceny is the Charge That Was Made Against Him

Manchester & Concord Co. the Only One to Deliver to City Limits—American Express Limit Bars Out 1600 Families

The board of trade's big mass meeting relative to the present express delivery conditions will be held this evening in the board of trade rooms and, judging from the number of letters that Secretary Murphy has received commending upon the matter, a vigorous protest will be made while a large attendance is assured despite the warm weather.

It was estimated that under the limit established by the American Express company 1600 families, or more than half the population of Lowell, are barred from free delivery.

Regarding the limit placed by the express companies on one-way delivery, an exception which has not received due credit and that is the Manchester & Concord company, of which John M. Mahany is local manager.

When seen by a reporter of The Sun and Globe, Secretary Murphy explained that their limit is in Boston. He will find that they deliver to any part of Boston, but in the comparatively small city of Lowell they place a limit that debars a large part of the residential section. Their excuse will be that some of the streets in the outskirts are sparsely settled and don't offer them a sufficient amount of business. The limit under which the express companies are now working was placed some 40 years ago when there was a saw mill in Prescott street and you could get out in the country by a short walk. Newtucketville was by no means as thickly settled as it is now; the Moody street bridge was unthought of and New Pawtucketville was only a meadow. The present limit is for a city of 100,000 population and I hope the board of trade will have it removed."

A man familiar with the express business has been heard to utter: "I never saw anyone at that meeting tonight will ask the Am. Express people what

Cornelius Reardon, who was arrested by the Lawrence police yesterday on a warrant issued by the local police and who was subsequently brought to this city by Inspector Martin A. Maher, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in the county court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of silver valued at $42, the property of Kate Hornbrook, who conducts a lodging house at 69 Tyler street. Reardon entered a plea of not guilty and at his request the case was continued till Thursday morning, being held under $200 bail.

It is alleged that Reardon was a lodger at Mrs. Hornbrook's house and left without notifying her on May 20. At the same time she alleges that she discovered that some of her valuable driver was missing, including a teapot, creamer, cup and knives, forks and spoons. She immediately notified the police and according to the information which the local police received from her they suspected Reardon, but were unable to locate him until the day before yesterday when it was learned he had fled to the city.

Patrick Drumm was placed on probation on condition that he would go back to the city farm. John F. Donovan was sent to the state farm at Bridgewater and Walter Dargin was fined $6.

GETS A DIVORCE

Mrs. King Granted Separation From Husband

BOSTON, June 28.—Divorce from her husband, Thomas White King, custody of their three-year-old child, Cornelia, and $10 a month alimony were awarded to Mrs. Cornelia Peabody King by Judge Richardson yesterday afternoon in the Suffolk divorce court at the end of the suit for divorce entered by Mrs. King on grounds of gross and confirmed intoxication.

In granting the decree Judge Richardson spoke of the charge brought against Wentworth C. Bacon of New York, who had been named by the husband as co-respondent, and said that no evidence had been shown that the offense had been committed.

When the question of alimony came up King's lawyer said that the once rich chieftain and New York broker would be unable to pay anything. Mr. King declared during the case that he was penniless and was living practically on charity at a sanitarium at 224 Warren street, Boston.

The judge granted him permission to see the child once a month, under condition of first giving the mother two days' notice.

Mr. King, Mrs. King and Wentworth C. Bacon were all witnesses yesterday. King testified as to the occasion named in the charge brought against the respondent, and on cross examination said that since the episode his relations with Mr. Bacon had been "gentlemanly." He said that he had never drunk liquor to intoxication.

Dr. Frederick Taylor testified that when Mr. King first went to the sanitarium for treatment he was not drunk, but was nervous. He said that Mr. King might at one time have suffered from acute alcoholism.

George Clark, steward at the St. Anthony club in New Haven, was called by counsel for Mrs. King and testified to having helped put Mr. King to bed when he became intoxicated at the club last December. William A. Manning of the brokerage firm of Schumaker and Bates, 37 Wall street, next testified that Mr. King was intoxicated some months ago. On this occasion Mr. King had said that he had drunk a quart and a half of whiskey.

Mrs. King was recalled, and denied that she had ever been guilty of any improper conduct with Mr. Bacon.

The next witness was the correspondent, Mr. Bacon, who was formerly of Greenfield. He said that he and King had been on friendly terms, that he had never heard Mr. King say anything against his wife, and the first time he had an inkling of Mr. King's intention to charge his wife with an offense was in April or May of this year.

Mrs. King will retain her child, Cornelia, who is now at York Harbor.

CITY OF WOBURN

Asks Injunction Against Rifle Association

BOSTON, June 28.—Claiming that their houses and the occupants are in constant danger from stray bullets and that the neighborhood is dangerous to human life, seven residents of Woburn, Antoine Shydecker, William Spillburg, Gustav A. Anderson, Geo. P. Russell, Herman J. Archer, Leon W. Dunn, and John L. Archer, Jr., have filed a petition in the Federal district court, asking that an injunction may be issued against the Massachusetts Rifle Association from allowing any target shooting from the rifle range at Woburn.

Three dwelling houses and two green houses, according to the bill of complaint of the petitioners, have been struck by bullets from the rifle range, a dining room window in one house having been shattered and a bullet having been found in the room, and in another house a bullet passed completely through the wall of the house, all within a few months.

The petitioners ask that an injunction may be issued restraining the Massachusetts Rifle Association or any of the members from allowing target practice on the range.

LYNN, June 28.—The trying out of Feaster, a Philadelphia pitcher, directed upon his arrival from that city resulted disastrously for Lowell yesterday. DIAMOND NOTES

Lynn here today.

Feaster, the Philadelphia National pitcher, who was tried by Lowell and found wanting earlier in the season, is with us again for a second trial. He received a beating at Lynn yesterday.

Swormstedt, whom Billy Hamilton originally introduced to the writer as "Swampscott," held Lowell down to two hits yesterday.

We must bat to win, and win to prosper.

And with all our faults, we still have it on Haverhill and Brockton.

Jack Cunningham, pitcher for the Knights of Columbus team, could do a better job on the mound for Lowell than some of the big league cast-offs if he were given an opportunity.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

STOCK MARKET

Rallying Tendency Gave Way in the Late Dealings—Decline Checked by the Supporting Orders

NEW YORK, June 28.—First prices of stocks showed fractional concessions from yesterday, but the volume of dealings was moderate and there were no violent declines in the leading active stocks and there was a sprinkling of gains in stocks of secondary importance. Atchafon, American Car and American Agricultural Chemical 1, and Reading 5-S.

Stocks were unloaded in increasing volume and prices gave way precipitately. Some of the leading stocks, such as St. Paul and U. S. Steel, touched the lowest prices of the year, and the whole market was very weak.

Declines of between 1 and 2 points were registered in about everything traded in. St. Paul broke 3-4, Union Pacific, Great Northern pfd. and Canadian Pacific 2. Active covering by shorts caused a quick rally of 1 to 1 1/2 in a half dozen stocks and the market was holding well at 11 o'clock with activity decidedly diminished.

Trading quieted down materially as the recovery was extended until losses were reduced to fractions for the most part. The early selling of stocks was attributed to general dissatisfaction with business conditions aggravated by the deterioration in spring wheat. The tone was rather untidy at noon. Bonds were irregular.

More buying orders were distributed late in the afternoon and the heavy selling of the day was checked. The rally again later, the reaction from the rally reaching a point in some of the speculative leaders. Support was again encountered on the decline.

American Sugar pfd declined 4 points. There was a slow hard opening movement in response to supporting orders that brought prices back approximately to a level with yesterday's closing. The Louisville trading furnished a marked contrast to the early activity on the decline.

The market closed strong around last night's prices. The rallying tendency in stocks gave way to some recession in the late dealings, but there was no sign of the precipitancy of the early declines. Supporting orders again appeared and checked the decline.

Spot Cotton

Boston Clearing House

BOSTON, June 28.—Clearing house statement: Exchanges, $24,535,126; balances, $2,032,457.

The Money Market

NEW YORK, June 28.—Prime mercantile paper 4-4 to 5 per cent. Sterling exchange steady at decline, at 48.40 to 48.50 for 60 day bills and at 48.20 for demand. Commercial bills 48.3-4 to 48.4-4. War silver 53-3. Mexican dollars 44. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

Money on call steady, 2-2 1/2 to 3 per cent; ruling rate 2-7-8; last loan 2-1-2; closing bids 2-3-4; offered at 2-7-8.

Time loans firm: 60 days 3 per cent and 90 days 3-4 to 3-1/2, six months 4-4 to 4-1-2.

Cotton Futures

NEW YORK, June 28.—Cotton futures closed barely steady. Closing bids: June 14.55; July 14.85; August 14.47; September 12.97; October 12.33; November 12.18; December 12.14; January 12.10; February 12.09; March 12.11.

Boston Copper Market

BOSTON, June 28.—Copper stocks fell sharply today in sympathy with the decline in the New York list. At the close there was a slight rally, but the entire list showed a two point drop.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE ALUMNI

HANOVER, N. H., June 28.—With Judge Davis Cross of the class of '41 as one of their number, the alumni of Dartmouth College assembled here in record breaking numbers today and lived over their undergraduate days by pursuing the campus in grotesque costumes.

Holding its decennial reunion, the class of '00 had the largest number of men back and thereby won a cup offered by the class of '94 as a prize for the class returning the greatest number of men.

Dartmouth Hall was used by the alumni association for its annual meeting. Separate class meetings were held in different dormitories. One of the big events of the day was a ball game between the varsity and a team of alumni stars. Following this game the president's reception took place in College Hall.

GUBERNSEY RENOVATED

FOR THE FOURTH SECRETARY MacVEAGH

The Celebration to Cost $1500 is Agreed Upon

Fireworks to Cost $900 and Band Concerts $400—Marathon Race and Games

The special committee on July 4th met last night and made arrangements for a $1500 celebration. It was voted to spend $900 for fireworks and have four band concerts at $100 per. There will be a Marathon race on the North common in the afternoon and a ball game on the same common in the morning. Mr. Tarrant wanted two games, but there wasn't money enough to go round. There will be no firing of salutes.

Councilman Achin, chairman, called to order and read the order appropriating $1500 for the July 4th observance.

Mayor Meahan suggested that the sum of $800 be expended for fireworks and that the contract be let out at once. He suggested that a competent judge examine the displays.

His Honor suggested a band concert on the North common in the afternoon and one in the evening on the South common, also a concert at the playground in Little Canada. The charity board will have a hand at the city farm in the afternoon.

It was stated that salutes at sunrise and sunset would cost $125. Bell ringing would cost $50. The ringing of the bells was favored, but it was nixy on the salutes. The committee thought $800 not sufficient for the fireworks. It was finally voted to spend the $1500 as follows: Fireworks, $900; band concerts, $400; bell ringing, $50; Marathon race, $75; ball game, $55; and incidentals, $20.

Mr. Qua moved that a committee of two be appointed to act with the mayor in the selection of fireworks, and it was so voted. Chairman Achin and Mr. Dexter were named.

Messrs. Tarrant and Jodelin were named a special committee to make arrangements for the Marathon race. Messrs. Qua and Tarrant were named to arrange for the ball game. Mayor Meahan will have charge of the bell ringing and the band concert.

The mayor said he would communicate with Charles J. Glidden relative to a balloon ascension on the North common.

The committee will meet again next Thursday night.

Have Shown a Marked Decline

Japan's imports from America and Europe show a marked decline, and those from Asia and Oceania a marked increase. The official monthly return of the foreign trade of the empire of Japan covering the month of March and the three months ending with March, 1910, compared with corresponding periods of 1909 and 1908 is a copy of which has just reached the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor shows that imports from America have fallen from 14.2 million dollars in the three months, January, February and March, 1908, to a little over 7 million in the corresponding months of 1910; those from Europe from 25.4 million in the 3 months of 1908 to 16.4 million in the corresponding period of 1910; while those from Asia and Oceania increased from 28 million in the 1908 period to 33 million in the 1910 period.

Imports into Japan from the United States during the three months under review show a fall from 14.2 million dollars in 1908 to less than 7 million in 1910; those from Great Britain in the same period fell from 16.2 million to 9.3 million; those from Germany fell from 7 million to 4.1 million; while from France the quarter's imports are slightly greater in 1910 than in 1908, amounting in the present year to a little more than a half million dollars. From Australia the imports in the first three months of 1910, 1.1-2 million dollars in value, are more than double those of the 1908 period. From Egypt the imports of the first quarter of 1910 were valued at over 1 million dollars, and are about 50 per cent in excess of those for the corresponding period of 1908. From China, exclusive of Kwang provinces, the imports have fallen from 6.2-3 million dollars in the first three months of 1908 to about 1.2 million in the corresponding months of 1910; while from British India the imports during the 1910 period, valued at 19 million dollars, are more than double those of the 1908 period, which were valued at 9 million dollars. Taking Asia as a whole, the imports show a total of 31 million dollars in the three months of 1910, against 27.1 million in the corresponding months of 1908.

The falling off in imports from the United States, which is proportionately somewhat greater than the reduction in imports from Great Britain, Germany and other leading countries of Europe, is due largely to the "cotton situation." Japan buys freely of American cotton when it sells at a low price, but when prices are high, as has been the case in the last year, or two, Japan turns to other parts of the world, especially India and China. It is drawn cotton, the price of the product of these countries being less than that of the United States. The value of cotton imported into Japan from the United States in the 3 months ending with March, 1910, is less than 3 million dollars, against 6.4 million in the corresponding months of 1908.

Imports from the United States also show a marked decline, their value in the three months of 1910 being but $16,000,000, against $27,000,000 in the like period of 1908; while those from other parts of the world decreased from $27,000,000 in the 3 months of 1908 to $13,411,000 in the corresponding months of 1910. Imports of raw cotton from the United States increased from 1 million dollars in the first 3 months of 1908 to 1.4 million in the like period of the present year. The three months' record above noted, of a decline in Japanese imports of American and European merchandise and an advance in imports from Asia and Oceania, is equally apparent in a study of the importations of that Empire covering a longer period. The total imports from Europe, which were in 1908 $84,778,000, were in 1909, $73,744,000; and those from America, in 1908, $26,361,000, and in 1909, $28,290,000; while those from Asia and Oceania, which were in 1908 $84,643,000, were, in 1909, $89,712,000.

Thinks The Fiscal Year May Show a Surplus

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Three days' receipts remain to be reported for the government's fiscal year, which ends with the close of business on June 30. Uncompleted figures and estimates lead Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department to express himself as well satisfied with the operations of his department for his first fiscal year, now closing.

Mr. MacVeagh regards the new tariff law as having justified itself as a revenue-producer. Internal revenue receipts have exceeded the estimates by approximately $10,000, and the year promises to end showing possibly a surplus in the ordinary receipts and expenditures, or splitting nearly even, instead of showing a deficit of $24,000,000, as was predicted. A larger income and reduced government expenditures are given by treasury officials as contributing causes for the good showing.

In the year the government has expended on the Panama canal $33,210,040. This has been a drain on the regular working cash balance, there being no special fund from which payments for this purpose can be made. Congress has authorized the loan of bonds to meet canal construction expenditures, and Mr. MacVeagh thinks the cost of construction should be shared by posterity, which, after all, will get the benefit.

He has balked, however, on the basis on which the law provides the bonds shall be issued. If at 4 per cent, as now proposed, the secretary believes they would have a much better national bank circulation privilege than the outstanding 2 per cents, and their issue would, therefore, constitute a discrimination against the two. Congress refused to accept the tax or national bank circulation secured by bonds, as recommended by the secretary, and the bonds remain unissued. The amount of Panama bonds authorized, but not issued, aggregate $280,563,000.

WOMEN RESCUED

From Burning Building in Worcester

WORCESTER, June 28.—A thrilling rescue of two elderly women who had been cut off from escape in their tenement at 19 Severn street last night was made by Desire Pelletier of 48 Beacon street and two boys, Thos. Hursey, aged 17, of 3 Harris court, and Eugene Guiney, 19, of 4 Valley street. Both the boys were overcome by smoke and required medical attendance, but the two rescued sisters, Miss Eva R. Walte and Miss Sarah E. Walte, were not hurt except for a severe fright.

The fire started in the rear of the three tenement house in the flat occupied by Herbert E. Noyes. Neither the Noyes family nor the occupants of the floor below were at home when the fire started, and it gained tremendous headway before it was discovered. The Misses Walte finally smelled the smoke, and rushed to the rear of the house, where the only exit from their third floor tenement was located. The stairway was completely burned out by the time they reached it and there was no means of escape. Rushing to the front window the two women called for help, and their cry of "Fire!" was heard by Pelletier and the two boys.

Pelletier assisted the boys to clamber up the posts to the porch roof, and they helped him to come up after them. Standing on the shoulders of the boys, Pelletier managed to reach the third story, and then lowered both the Walte women to the porch roof to the boys, who caught them.

District Chief Wm. B. Spooner arrived with his fire company at this time and forced his way to the second floor, where he admitted the two women through a window from the porch roof and added them to the street and to a neighbor's house.

The entire rear of the house was in flames by this time, and the firemen had a stiff half hour's fight to quench the fire. The damage is estimated at from $1000 to $1500.

KEPT A SECRET

SCHOOL DAY ROMANCE KEPT QUIET FOR FOUR MONTHS

MEFHEUEN, June 28.—A school-day romance was brought to light yesterday, when the friends of Miss Lucia T. Riley and Raymond S. Cheney were told of their marriage. The ceremony took place in Manchester, N. H., Feb. 10 last, and has been kept a secret. Rev. David Frazer was the officiating clergyman.

Upon returning from their trip to Manchester, Miss Riley resumed her studies in the high school without interruption and young Cheney continued at his work in Lawrence. Last Friday, Miss Riley was graduated from the local high school. She also took part in the class day exercises a few days previous, giving the class prophecy. She was captain of the girls' cadets of the high school. The bridegroom was graduated from the school in 1908. He was prominent in the athletic association.

Since the closing of the school the young couple discussed methods by which to make known their secret marriage, and finally decided to make a clean breast of it to their parents. Upon doing this they were forgiven, and yesterday evening took up their home on First street. Both are decidedly popular. Their courtship extended over a period of four years, they having met at a class party.

GOING TO EUROPE

The White Star line steamer Zealand sails from New York for Queenstown and Liverpool, having on board the following Lowell people booked through Murphy's ticket agency: Mr. Stuart Giles, Mrs. T. G. Carroll, Mrs. Albert Fairbanks, Mr. Robert Scott, Mr. James Scott, Mrs. Anne O'Brien, Miss Mary O'Brien, Mrs. Grace Trueson, Miss Ethel T. Trueson, Mr. Catherine Waldron and Miss Elizabeth Robertson.

In his annual report to congress in December Secretary MacVeagh estimated that the ordinary receipts of the government for the fiscal year 1910 would be $648,000,000; to date they have aggregated $643,356,583. He estimated the ordinary disbursements at $682,075,620; at this time they amount to $660,610,835. Customs receipts so far this year have been $326,562,242, the treasury's estimate for the year being $336,000,000. It is now thought they will not reach more than $330,000,000, thus falling below the estimates.

There has been a material reduction from the estimates in expenditures in the civil war and naval estimates, and a decrease of $7,000,000 in the estimated postal deficiency. Whether or not there will be an actual surplus at the end of the year, officials say, depends upon the amount of corporation tax money received. Secretary MacVeagh estimated it would reach $15,000,000. The prospects are otherwise. The money is paid direct to internal revenue collectors, and frequently several days elapse before it reaches the treasury here.

Senator Cullom's resolution postponing payment of the tax until January 1, although not receiving congressional sanction, in the opinion of the treasury had the effect of deferring payments on the assessments by many corporations, on the theory that it might be acted on.

Corporation taxes paid to date amount to $3,238,153. If $15,000,000 money from that source be in the hands of the treasury at Washington by the end of the fiscal year, the prediction is made that the daily treasury statement for next Wednesday will show a substantial surplus for the year in the items comprising the ordinary receipts and disbursements.

The total deficit to date, including that on account of the Panama canal, the ordinary transactions of the government and those incidental to the public debt is $44,416,940.

WOMAN MAY DIE

She Was Burned and is Not Expected to Live

WORCESTER, June 28.—Mrs. Eva Berittus, 24 years old, 212 Bloomingdale road, was fatally burned at her home while preparing supper last night, and is not expected to live. Mrs. Berittus was trying to light the kitchen fire in order to get supper, and the wood in her stove failed to catch at her first attempt.

Taking the kerosene oil can, she poured a quantity on the wood, and a scalding spark caused an explosion. Her clothing caught, and in a few minutes she was burned almost to a crisp from the top of her head to her knees.

A cousin who happened to be in the house succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until the burns were so severe to cause recovery possible. She was taken to the city hospital and her name was immediately placed upon the dangerous list.

HAVERHILL MAN

WENT INSANE OVER GAME OF BASEBALL

HAVERHILL, June 28.—Charles L. Hight of 19 Gilbert avenue is baseball crazy. The physicians who examined him reported the facts to Judge Fuller of the district court yesterday, and Hight was committed to the insane asylum at Danvers.

Hight believed himself to be a baseball manager. He revelled in baseball, and thought he could play any position required, could play the game all alone and considered himself the greatest product of baseball in years.

He also had an idea that he was going to buy a bright pink automobile, in which he intended to ride on to the baseball field and dazzle the fans, but the police spoiled his plans yesterday when they took him into custody on a warrant alleging insanity.

TO TREAT HORSES

That are Afflicted With Worms

Many entertain the opinion that horses have at all times more or less worms, but not in such quantities as to cause annoyance. They, however, do infest the horse at times to an unbearable extent, causing colic, indigestion, depressed appetite, loss of flesh, spirit and strength and no end of trouble and suffering. Worms are found for the most part in the stomach and bowels and while there are more than thirty varieties of worms to bother the horse only two or three kinds become a source of danger to the horse's health and comfort.

The common round worm, much resembling the ordinary earth worm, is sometimes found in great numbers and grows to a foot in length, occupying for the most part the stomach and small intestine, where they impair digestion which soon gives you a run down, out of condition horse. The cost is rough, appetite poor or ravenous, food half digested; he scours, becomes hide bound, loses strength and spirit; gnaws and bites at sides and body, manes, tails or anything convenient, rubs tail against the stall, and no matter how much he eats will not take on flesh, so that one perhaps can guess the suffering and annoyance endured by the dumb horse and can but wonder why any horse owner permits his suffering loss to run on in this manner, when the present day furnishes so many inexpensive remedies for overcoming these troublesome pests.

Another form of worm most annoying to the horse is the little white thread worm or pin worm, so-called, infesting the lower bowel. These cause the horse a great amount of annoyance and keep many men wondering as to "What's the matter with my horse?" Get rid of them. Injections will do it and they are simple to give. Bots are another form of worm resulting from the larvae of the gadfly and are subjects of much discussion and argument. They certainly are a great annoyance to the horse, causing inflammation, colic and staggers. The symptoms are quite similar to colic, and when you suspect this form of trouble you should treat for worms and look to diet and feed for its correction.

tions of the "plucking board" looking to the enforced retirement from active service of about 15 officers. The exact number cannot be known at this moment because, while the law compels about 19 of them to be retired, there may be a few applications for voluntary retirement, or there may be vacancies which will reduce the number who will be forced from the active list. Officers so displaced do not leave under a stigma. The law is only for the purpose of providing for a proper flow of promotions from the lower to the higher grades of the navy. It is regarded as necessary that at least 19 vacancies should be created every year and it is the unpleasant duty of the "plucking board" to pick out the men who are not non-efficient, but rather are regarded as the least efficient, professionally or physically.

So yesterday, aside from the officers of flag rank, who are exempt from the law, the only average naval officer who feels thoroughly secure in his position is a member of the "plucking board" itself.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

East Merrimack street is in great need of repair. It is rough and uneven, causing jolts and shocks to those who ride over it in carriages and automobiles. It will be too bad if that street cannot be paved before the fall.

ANOTHER BOY DROWNED

Another drowning accident recorded because a boy of sixteen did not know how to swim. There should be no boy of that age in Lowell unable to swim. When boys go boating they should be careful to guard against accidents, especially to those who cannot swim. But it is useless to lecture young people of the danger. The only remedy is to provide public baths at which all can learn to swim.

LESSONS OF THE LYNN TRAGEDY

The Lynn tragedy of Saturday made a few things very clear, and among them are these:

First, it is a foolish custom for anybody on foot to carry a load of money from a bank along a public street. An auto could be used with advantage in such a case.

Second, the time has arrived when every first class police department must be equipped with a fast auto for pursuit of criminals.

Third, some action should be taken as soon as possible in the direction of restricting the sale of dangerous firearms with a view to preventing anarchists from securing such weapons.

Fourth, every efficient police department should be trained to the riot call, to gun practice and a good sharp sprint as even in their ordinary work the men are frequently required to try their speed.

FINDING THEIR LIFE WORK

Now that a great many graduates have completed their school education they are face to face with the problem of selecting their life work. This in most cases is a difficult matter. For some who fall easily into the business pursued by parents or relatives there is very little trouble. But for the majority it is a case of looking around to find some employment or occupation for which they are by nature adapted.

Many pupils leave the grammar schools and even the high school without knowing their own aptitudes. The manual training course in the high school is well adapted to assist the pupils in finding their own aptitudes in the mechanical line. In this respect alone it is of great advantage to those who take it up. But unfortunately the majority of the grammar school graduates do not enter the high school. They have to take what they can get in the line of employment, making the most of their future opportunities to get what they want.

It is well in such cases for young people not to be too hard to please. They should make up their minds that they cannot get what they want just at the time they want it. They should make the most of what they can get and watch for an opportunity for something better. One of the things that ruins the life of many a young man is, that he has an abhorrence for manual labor; he wants some kind of a genteel position where he will have no hard work, no heavy lifting, where he can sit down and take things easy. There are thousands of tramps on the road today throughout the United States simply because they started out with that same feeling. The boy who will get along is the one who is not afraid of work, who learns to use his hands in conjunction with his brain, who trains his perceptive faculties, learns to obey and is ready to take a hand at anything.

There is one kind of boy that is wanted nowhere. He is the boy who is never ready to do anything when he is told to do it, who always asks why he is told to do such a thing, why it would not do as well at some other time, or why somebody else should not do it. In the rush of business nobody would be bothered with any such boy. The young people who go out looking for work should, therefore, make up their minds to follow orders strictly without any hesitation or protest.

The one great aim for a graduate after leaving school should be to secure an opportunity to learn some good trade. It doesn't take a boy very long to learn a trade if he attends to his business and makes good use of his time. It matters not that a boy should have an ambition to go higher. The acquisition of a trade will help him even in that direction. Once he has learned the trade he is self-reliant and has a guarantee of support while striving for something better.

In seeking success it will be well for boys to remember that those who rise to distinction in the vast majority of cases concentrate their powers upon one single aim or one line of business. It is useless to attempt to be a jack-of-all-trades. That means failure. The tendency of the age is to specialize. The man who makes a specialty of one thing can attain excellence far above what he could attain if he endeavored to excel in a great many things. Another point is to complete whatever he begins. It is useless to build the foundation of a house unless the superstructure follows.

There are thousands of trades available to young people throughout any manufacturing city. Every mill is a great busy hive of mechanical trades. The same may be said of the machine shop, of a shoe shop and in fact of every factory that can be mentioned. The textile school teaches almost all the textile trades and it offers splendid opportunities for young men who want to engage in the textile business. Then there are commercial trades acquired in the stores, the banking houses and railway stations. There are a vast number of trades that have to do with providing food, clothing and shelter. These may be considered staple trades in which a good man will find employment almost anywhere he goes. There are in connection with the printing business a great number of trades, all of which are comparatively clean and remunerative.

The one great trouble with most of the desirable trades is, that they are guarded by unions who limit the number of apprentices in most establishments. In spite of all obstacles, however, now hands are in demand as the old are passing out and the school graduate who looks around will be able to find something adapted to his abilities and his tastes, something in which he can make a respectable living and from which he can rise with industry and thrift to a calling that will bring a greater income.

SEEN AND HEARD

Children who apply to librarians for books present all kinds of letters from parents and teachers containing instructions as to the kind of literature they think it advisable for their young charges to imbibe, but this masterpiece was handed in one day last week.

Dear Lady: Please send by Bertha a book that will agree with her pa. He is 43 years old, has never been before a reader; is laid up with a lame back, no appetite, but terrible thirst all the time; a quick pulse and temperature that stays at about 100. Please send something that will not excite him and send his temperature up any higher.

It took a consultation of all the high-brows in the library to prescribe a literary dose for pa that would not conflict with the medical bulletin. They sent him "The Swiss Family Robinson." His temperature did not go up.

"I always manage to land in New York over the Fourth," said a western traveling man. "I've been here for six months, and I've never seen a place like it for a combination of quiet and comfort. Seashore places are crowded and noisy and I don't get half the solid comfort and rest that I do right here. So many people coming away from the city have a particularly clean, restful look, and wherever you go there's a crowd and not so many people but that you're sure to be well served and attended to. People who haven't gone away the night before generally start so early that morning that by noon the excursion boats aren't crowded and the trolley cars are positively empty. In the evening I sit up on some of your many fine roof gardens and eat a little something and watch the fireworks from all around. I've had a quiet, restful day, haven't heard any noise, haven't been in any crowds and feel like passing myself back to the back of my mind to spend my Fourth of July in New York city."

On a street car recently a young bachelor who is fond of children gave his attention to a little tot who insisted on riding with him. Presently the child began to cry, and despite the efforts of the young mother, it continued to make anything but a joyful noise. Everyone in the car seemed to be annoyed, and this only stimulated the mother of the child to try to calm the lusty youngster. The bachelor thought that his interest in children was an indication of his capacity for calming them, and volunteered a theory which perhaps was based upon his own earlier experience. "Perhaps there's a pin sticking in him," he whispered to the mother, and after the manner of one who is familiar with the complexities and troubles of a baby's life, thinking, evidently, that the mother of the child didn't understand him, the young man reaffirmed his fears. This was too much for the young woman, for at last she said in a tone of scorn with much emphasis, "No, there's no pin sticking in him, he's scared because you're making faces at him." Thereupon, the bachelor lapsed into an abrupt pensiveness.

Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university, was walking across the campus the other day with the dean of one of the colleges, when the chiming in the library tower began to ring.

"Dean," said he, "the music of those chiming is so beautiful that it always sets me dreaming of the past. My boyhood days."

"What do you say?" interrupted the venerable dean.

"I say the chiming is very, very beautiful. They make me think—"

"What?" yelled the dignified old dean again.

"The chiming—the chiming—how beautiful!"

HER COMING IN AUTUMN
When the maple turns to crimson
And the sassafras to gold;
When the gentians in the meadow
And the asters on the hill;
When the moon is wrapped in vapor
And the night is frosty cold;

When the chestnut burrs are opened
And the acorns drop like hail,
And the drowsy air is startled
With the thumping of the fall;
With the thrumming of the partridge
And the whistling of the quail—

Through the rustling wood I wander,
Through the jewels of the year,
From the yellow uplands calling,
Seeking her that still is dear;
She is near me, in the Autumn
When the leaves are falling here,
She, the beautiful, is near.

Through the smoke of burning Summer,
When the weary winds are still,
I can see her in the valley,
I can see her on the hill;
In the whisper of the wind,
In the rustle of the willow's fall,
In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven
Meet and mingle in the blue;
She can wander down the glory
To the places that she knew,
Where the happy love was waiting
In the days when life was true.

So I think, when days are sweetest
And the world is wholly fair,
She may come some time steal upon me
Through the dimness of the air,
With the cross on her bosom
And the amaranth in her hair.

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her
And to hold her in my arms,
Till I blessed her, till she blessed me,
That were happiness at last;
That were the best of my life,
In the Autumn of the past!

J. Mortimer Titus of Boston and Portland and with a host of friends in this city, made his annual visit to Lowell over Sunday as the guest of his old friend, William F. Foye of the Park hotel. Mr. Titus has been many years in the employ of the Eastern Steamship company as head clerk on the Gov. Dingley, the Gov. Cobb, and the Bay State, and will be recalled by passengers on the Portland steamer as the handsome and courteous gentleman who takes tickets and answers accurately every old kind of a question about the states of Maine and Massachusetts and the cities of Boston and Portland, fired at him by nervous passengers. Mr. Titus has returned to his old love, the good steamer Bay State, which, after six months in dry dock, is in commission once more, but so changed as to be hardly recognizable. The remodeled Bay State has 80 new staterooms, making 250 in all, and is entirely new from her main deck up. Instead of the old fashioned sidewheel which furnished the propelling power, the Bay State is now equipped with smaller feathering wheels which give her additional speed and less vibration in proceeding along her course. The most familiar part of the new Bay State is the pilot house, where Captain Linscott, an old and valued officer of the Eastern company, is again at the wheel. Captain Linscott has piloted the eastern coast for over 30 years without an accident, and if there's a rock or shoal between Boston and Portland that he doesn't know it must have been slipped in there while he was on his vacation last winter. For Crocker and Steward Low Farmer, two other well known officers, are back on their old jobs on the Bay State.

The trustees of the University of Chicago have granted to Professor Carl Bolz of the mathematical department permission to spend the rest of his life in Freiburg, Germany. He will draw the same salary he received when active. After being connected with the university since its foundation, eighteen years ago, Professor Bolz made known to the trustees that he desired to retire as a professor and spend his time in study in Germany.

CHIEF E. S. HOSMER FOUND GUILTY

Fireworks Law

According to an opinion rendered by the city solicitor, cases in which paper caps are used, the paper caps themselves, toy pistols and small torpedoes do not come under the heading of fireworks, and can be sold in stores located in tenement buildings upon receiving a permit from the chief of the fire department.

In connection with chapter 565 of the Acts of 1910, "An act to prohibit the sale of certain pistols and explosives and to authorize the making of regulations relative to fireworks and fireworks," Josephus B. Whitney, chief of the district police of this state, has had caused printed a pamphlet which explains in detail the meaning of different clauses in the act.

Section 42 of chapter 7 of the rules and regulations adopted by the state police in connection with the legislative act reads as follows: "No permit shall be granted to keep for sale at retail any fireworks or firecrackers in any building used in part as a tenement, lodging or apartment house, or used in part for school or factory purposes, or where people are accustomed to assemble."

The chief of the fire department in order to keep strictly within the law, appealed to the city solicitor to give his opinion relative to the sale of candles, caps, toy pistols and small torpedoes in stores which are located in tenement buildings and the city solicitor has decided that they do not come under the head of fireworks.

SALEM, June 28.—A verdict of guilty against Samuel Kress of Lawrence on charges of bribery and attempt to bribe was returned by a jury in the superior criminal court here today. The jury was given the case yesterday afternoon and a sealed verdict was returned this morning. Judge Bell, who received the verdict, did not impose sentence, but awaited the arrival of Judge Schofield, who has heard the testimony in the case. Kress was arrested several weeks ago with Mayor White of Lawrence and several other prominent citizens of that city, all of the defendants being charged with bribing former Alderman Xavier Legendre and Carl Wolfel of Lawrence in an attempt to have Chief Hamilton of the Lawrence fire department discharged. The cases of the other defendants have not been heard.

ASKS INJUNCTION

Claims Woman Got $40,000 by Fraud

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Fenton J. Hurd, an aged and wealthy resident of Greenwich, Conn., yesterday asked for an injunction in the district supreme court restraining Laura R. Cramer from disposing of various sums of money, aggregating $40,000, which Hurd now claims was secured from him by Mrs. Cramer through alleged spiritualistic communications from his deceased wife.

According to the complaint filed yesterday, Hurd, shortly after the death of his wife, who had greatly assisted him in the accumulation of his vast wealth, came to this city and took up his residence at the same house as the defendant, Laura R. Cramer.

It is alleged that the defendant won his confidence and persuaded him of her alleged "occult" powers, and that she could communicate with disembodied spirits. The aged man is said to have been already a strong believer in spiritualism, and it is charged that when the defendant furnished him with letters signed "Mary," and purporting to be directions from his deceased spouse, he was easily persuaded to sign drafts of $4000, $5000 or $6000 in favor of the supposed "medium."

The latest draft thus alleged to have been obtained was dated May 5, 1909, and called for the payment of $10,000. In March last Mr. Hurd left Washington and returned to Greenwich, where application was made to the court and he was declared incapable of managing his property.

Mrs. Cramer, who is employed as a clerk in the library of the state department, and has an apartment at the De Soto, 13th street and Massachusetts avenue, could not be found yesterday.

POLICE REPORT

STATISTICS OF ARRESTS FOR THE YEAR

Vast Number of Minor Licenses Granted During Year—3812 Brought to Lockup During Year

The annual report of the board of police for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1910, is now in printed form and the pamphlets are being distributed. The introduction to the report was published in the columns of The Sun several weeks ago, but there are statistics appended which are of more or less interest to the public.

It shows that there were in April 241 licenses granted as follows: One brewery, four wholesale dealers, 80 common victuallers, 77 retail dealers, 12 innholders, 7 clubs, 56 druggists and 4 for permission to deal in paints and chemicals. The amount of money received by the city treasurer for these licenses amounted to $173,000, of which 25 per cent, or $42,250 was paid to the state and the remaining $129,750 is retained by the city.

There were several licenses surrendered and cancelled and with but one exception licenses of the same classes were issued in lieu of those surrendered and cancelled; the exception case being the surrender and cancellation of a first and fourth-class license as common victualler and retail dealer, granted and issued in conjunction, for which a license of the first class, as common victualler only, through the operation of the recently enacted so-called "bar and bottle" bill, was issued in its stead.

During the year there were 1,533 minor licenses granted, which the city treasurer received $6,366.55. The detailed list shows that 57 permits were granted for the automobile races held last September, 113 for the various turfs and amusements on the south common last Fourth of July, and 257 to sell ice cream, confectionery, soda water and fruit on the Lord's day.

There were 217 arrests against the person, 178 of these being for assault, one for murder, 24 for threatening and one for assault on an officer.

Under the heading of crimes against property there were 304 arrests. One was for arson, 36 breaking and entering, 194 for larceny and the remainder for various offenses.

There were 2275 wagon calls during the year and 3512 of the total number of persons arrested were brought to the lockup in the wagon.

The report of the bureau of criminal investigation shows that 279 arrests were made by that branch of the department. The amount of property stolen was $6997.56, of which amount $6958.26 was recovered.

Report of Police Department

Under the head of "Statistical Report of the Lowell Police Department" it shows that there were 4550 arrests against public order, etc., during the year. More than three-quarters of that number were for drunkenness, the number of arrests for drunkenness being 3493. The greatest number of arrests for any month was in May when 368 were locked up, and the smallest number was in February, when 184 were placed under arrest.

Eight escaped prisoners were arrested. There were 16 violations of the liquor law, two deserters were taken into custody, and there was one arrest for the abduction of an unmarried woman.

The different crimes under the head of crimes against public order are published in detail form by the month.

SEC. DICKINSON'S STATEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Secretary of War Dickinson, who arrived in this city last evening from Seattle received a letter from Chesbrough & Bates, requesting an interview before his departure today for the Philippines regarding the treatment their ships might expect at Panama. In the division of dock space and accommodations for freight all will be treated exactly alike and without favor."

The Architect

With a Handicap of 14 Rainy Days He Expects to Have Building Ready for Occupancy on Sept 1 — Architect Graves Plans a Most Cosy Theatre

With a handicap of 14 rainy days against them Contractors C. F. and J. B. Varnum are putting up a great battle to finish the new Paige street theatre by September 1, according to the terms of their contract, and judging by the rush and bustle on the job they are going to make good. They must finish the job by that date or lose money according to their contract while the lessees have bookings made and are ready to open one of the coziest theatres in New England on that date.

The rainy season through which New England has recently passed was as unexpected among builders as it was among the promoters of baseball and other out-door sports and for 14 days there was nothing doing on the theatre job. But before and since the rain started the contractors have had big crews of workmen going steadily and the chances are that they will present the theatre ready for occupancy by the opening date.

The plans are the conception and handiwork of Harry Prescott Graves of this city, and it is understood that they have made such a hit with the lessees, who are well known theatrical managers, that they have engaged Mr. Graves to do some more important work out of the city. Perhaps the best feature of the plans is the economy of the architect relative to space. In a comparatively small space he has devised a comparatively large theatre.

At present a visitor to the job sees but little of the theatre, the outlines of the grand, simple of a fairly large and very well arranged theatre. The skeleton is already completed with its immense iron girders, its cemented brick walls of fireproof construction and its mammoth joists of Georgia pine.

In striking contrast to the dead walls of the proposed Keith theatre in Bridge street, a reporter of "The Sun" found a scene of the utmost animation at the scene of the new theatre on Paige street this morning. One hundred men were at work, and they represented several lines of the building trade. To give an idea of what is required in building a theatre one needs but consider the many different concerns engaged on the work. The architect is Harry Prescott Graves who furnished the plans and daily supervises the construction. The general architects are the Messrs. Varnum and ex-Rep. Charles E. Varnum, personally has charge of all the work. The other contractors are sub-let as follows: William H. Fuller, foundation work; Patrick Conlon brick work; Mr. Riley, plastering; Chalmers Iron foundry, iron work; George Buckland, painting; Bowker and Torrey, marble work; H. B. Barker steam fitting; Scott and O'Day, plumbing; Carroll Bros. metal work; Frank Waver and Son, roofing; Mason Safety Tread company, floorings; electric lighting Derby & Co.

The approach to the theatre is in Paige street just around the corner of Bridge and the city pavers in smooth paving that section made and marble neatly and sidewalk which will come in very handy when the theatre is under way. The entrance is 18 feet wide up a hardly noticeable incline. Its walls and ceilings promise to be of a most attractive decorative order with gracefully arched ceiling and marble paneling and wooden pilasters. Proceeding through the main entrance one enters direct upon the ground floor and takes a spacious stairway on the left to balcony and gallery. The balcony stairway is 10 feet wide and of easy ascent. On the ground floor or promenade there are but four posts, and the layout is such that every seat will be a good one. The entire seating capacity will be 1500, but on both floors there is a large space in the rear for the inevitable "rail-ride," so that when the "S. R. O." sign goes up, as we hope it will often, it will mean that there are considerably more than 1500 in the house. The stage gives promise of great things, for it is 65 feet wide, 60 feet high and 28 feet deep. There will be eight double boxes in the theatre, four on each side. The gallery is supported by a number of 12-inch Georgia pine joists, 42 feet long, while the side walls are reinforced by iron trusses 70 feet long. On every side in its present rough stage there is evidence of great strength and durability throughout the construction.

A feature of the new theatre that will make it popular is the fact that it has eight exits and that the upper part has four direct exits to the street without going through the lower part of the building. There are exits on Paige, French and Brookings streets and into an alley leading into French street, so that under any conditions the theatre may be cleared in a few minutes.

"Charlie" Varnum's Birthday
The writer was shown through the building this morning by ex-Rep. Charles F. Varnum who is "bossing" the job and during the conversation Mr. Varnum let drop the interesting information that today is his 64th birthday and in honor of the event he quit work and had a celebration with his friends at Willow Dale. Mr. Varnum is as active on a job as he was 20 years ago and says that he feels better when working than when idle. He is the oldest contractor in Lowell, now actively engaged in business.

In 1862 he started in to learn the carpentering business and in November 1870, almost 40 years ago, started in business for himself and has been continuously engaged ever since. During his life Mr. Varnum has been prominent in the business, fraternal and political life of the city. He was in the board of aldermen in 1892; in the legislature in 1893, 1897, '98 and '09. He was overman of the poor for four years and superintendent of buildings in 1895-'97. He is a member of the Builders' Exchange, Royal Arcanum, Knights of Pythias, Highland club, Owls and Martin Luther.

Up Ranch Life in Montreal

BOSTON, June 28.—Forced to work because of the strained financial condition, Erwin A. Morse, the 22-year-old son of Charles W. Morse, the former banker and "ice king" of New York, who was recently graduated from Yale university with Robert Taft, son of the president, has decided not to continue his studies. In the near future he will leave for the plains of California to work on a ranch and leave behind him the books of Harvard school, where it was intended he should be a student at the opening of the college year in the fall.

It was the wish of his father, now behind the stone walls of the federal prison, that his son, Erwin, should be a lawyer. He even went so far as to select Harvard university law school as the educational institution his boy should attend after graduating from Yale.

But Erwin, who is a plucky boy, says no. He must go out into the world and earn a living for his mother, and so, despite the planning of his father, the young man has fully made up his mind and will soon be a ranchman.

Yesterday afternoon young Morse arrived in this city from Bath, Me., but his stay was one of short duration. He proceeded to New York to complete his arrangements for traveling west to the scene of his new labors.

Mr. Morse was one of the most popular students at Yale and was friendly with Robert Taft. In fact, the two were together a great deal of the time, and after the graduation exercises last week, and when they were about to part for the summer, they agreed to meet again in the fall, when Harvard law school convenes. Robert Taft will be present at the opening, but Erwin A. Morse will be many miles away from Cambridge by that time.

Young Morse is five feet ten inches in height. He is not heavily built, but has a good pair of shoulders that will serve him well in his new work.

MONTREAL, June 28.—Eight successful flights were made by heavier-than-air machines at the aviation park last evening, the feature of the day's performances being the work of the Wright biplanes.

The longest flight was made by Ralph Johnston, the former trick bicycle rider, who went through an amazing series of aerial tricks. He was up in the air 35 minutes.

Walter Brookings made a preliminary try at his old world's record for height. He went up steadily for 20 minutes and claimed he reached a height of 3500 feet, according to readings of an instrument on his machine. The official measurement was only 1650 feet.

Le Chappelle, in a 40-horse power machine, made the swiftest flight, circling the course twice in 3m. 25s., the total distance being about 12,000 feet. De Lesseps, in his light Blériot monoplane, did the same two turns in 4m. 35s. The count made two successful flights during the afternoon.
